STATE RATES . . .

Travel Pay Is Boosted

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

State Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend said the in-state travel allowance for state employes has been increased by $2 a day.

The boost was recommended by the State Administrative Personnel Committee and approved by Gov. Frank Morrison.

Townsend said the maximum allowances for food and lodging were increased because of rising costs since the maximums were last fixed in 1962.

New lodging allowances are up to $6 per day in cities under 5,000 population, $7 for those over 5,000 and $8 for Omaha and Lincoln.

$4 For Meals

Maximum allowances for meals are $4 per day total.

Receipts for lodging expense must be filed with the expense voucher but are not required for meals.

Townsend said departments and agencies may further limit maximums and conditions of payment, and there is variation between departments.

For instance, he said some departments allow $1 for breakfast, others 75 cents. Also they say employes must "be on the road" earlier than 7 a.m. and later than 7 p.m. for reimbursement for breakfast and supper.

Lodging and meals under the old rates totalled $10 per day for Omaha, $9 for Lincoln and other cities over 5,000 and $8 for those under 5,000 population.

Effective Now

Townsend said the new rates become effectively immediately.

The personnel commitee will continue its over-all review of the personnel code.

A special subcommittee is expected to report recommended rules changes ready in 30 to 60 days.

Three departmental personnel officers are making the study for the committee. They are M. L. Christensen of the Merit System, Lowell Fiske of the Roads Department and Mark Seamark of the Labor Department.

Townsend is chairman of the five-member personnel committee. Other members are State Engineer John Hossack, Institutions Director George Morris, Motor Vehicles Director James Dunlevey and Insurance Director Frank Barrett

De Gaulle Wins Easy Election Victory

Paris (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle won a new seven-year term as France's president Sunday, restoring some of his political prestige marred when he was forced into a runoff election.

The austere French leader was an easy victor over Francois Mitterand, who conceded defeat only 1 hour and 20 minutes after the polls closed.

De Gaulle's total held steady at about 55% of the valid ballots.

Mitterrand, in conceding, said

"At the start of my candidacy I realized the difficulty of the undertaking, but the result obtained today confirms my conviction that the hour is coming when republicans will win."

No Statement

De Gaulle was at his country home, Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises in Eastern France, with his family. He made no statement and probably won't say anything until he meets with the cabinet Wednesday.

With 23,076,965 valid ballots counted, out of a total registration of 28,914,581, De Gaulle was leading with 12,610,049, or 54.64%. Mitterrand had 10,466,916, or 45 35%. These represented nearly complete returns from metropolitan France. The Interior Ministry said about 85% of the voters cast ballots, close to the record set Dec. 5 in the first election that forced the runoff.

Results indicated that pleas by eliminated candidate Jean Lecanuet urging his supporters not to vote for De Gaulle had failed. An analysis showed two thirds of Lecanuet's votes going to the president. Lecanuet had received 15% of the votes in the Dec. 5 election.

The victory gave De Gaulle at least a two-year breathing spell, until the next legislative elections, to push through his main objectives: a reform of the Common Market to make sure that France can keep its veto on policy decisions, and a revision of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to eliminate the present integration of forces.

NATO

Because of De Gaulle's posture on NATO and the Common Market, the election was watched closely abroad.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, commenting in Canada during a stopover en route home after talks with President Johnson, said he looked forward to a period of close cooperation with De Gaulle. He added Britain still hopes to make a viable success of NATO and hopes De Gaulle "will be as anxious as we are to do so."

Gemini Astronauts Reunited

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—Slapping one another and bubbling with mutual congratulations, America's rendezvousing Gemini astronauts playfully reunited here Sunday, then spent 45 minutes reliving their historic adventure.

Gemini-6 Astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford were not on hand to greet their Gemini-7 counterparts, Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr., when the world's most traveled spacemen landed at "skid strip," Cape Kennedy's runway.

Instead, Schirra was lurking in a doorway at astronaut crew headquarters on neighboring Merritt Island. As Borman and Lovell walked down the hall, Schirra bounded out and began wildly swinging his arms as if the Gemini-7 astronauts needed landing instructions.

Stafford also was there but did not participate in the initial antics.

Hand Shaking

"There was a lot of handshaking and mutual congratulations," said Astronaut Donald K. Slayton, director of the Gemini-7 crew.

One of the first things the four astronauts did was to call off their well publicized bet over which crew would land closest to the prime recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp.

Slayton said Schirra insisted that an accelerameter, an instrument used in landing, was off slightly and was to blame for Schirra bringing Gemini-6 down slightly farther away from his target than Borman.

Poor weather disrupted what was supposed to be a colorful ceremony for the astronauts at planeside. Florida Gov. Haydon Burns, who planned to be on hand to give the astronauts an official seal of state, could not fly to the Cape because of the weather, officials said.

Co-Pilots

The astronauts—along with 11 NASA officials and medical experts—arrived at 12:48 p.m. CST, each co-piloting separate eight-passenger navy aircraft which flew the party directly from the prime recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp.

It was the first time Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell set foot on land since Dec. 4, the day they roared skyward from Gemini Launch Complex 19 to begin their marathon voyage in space

During the next 11 days, Borman and Lovell will do their flight all over again. only this time, they'll go through it the easy way—on the ground.

They're scheduled to remain at the Cape until Wednesday, when they will fly to NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston. Tex., to tell and retell the story of their mission to project officials.

The spacemen were met at planeside by Slayton and Alan Shepard, directors of the Gemini-7 and Gemini-6 crews.

"It's good to be back. Good to be back," Borman repeated. Lovell told Col. Jack Albert, Gemini launched director, "your booster was outstanding."

"Jack, you really came through. It was just wonderful," Borman added.

Viet Cong Attacks Usher In Holidays

Saigon (AP)—A new surge of ground action ushered in Christmas week for U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam Sunday. On three fronts, Marines and U.S. Army forces clashed with sizable numbers of communist troops and reported killing nearly 200 of them.

Just 30 miles east of Saigon, Army troops, pursuing several battalions of Viet Cong, occupied the camp of an enemy company after pounding the area with 1,600 pounds of artillery.

Marines renewed contact with communist troops in "Operation Harvest Moon" in Death Valley south of Da Nang

Flying Horsemen

Flying Horsemen of the U. S. 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) went into action against a Viet Cong battalion 265 miles northeast of Saigon. U.S. officials reported American casualties as light.

Once more bad weather curtailed U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam, U.S. officials reported. U.S. Air Force planes flew only visual missions there, they said.

Action in the field contrasted with relative quiet in Saigon, where U.S. officials feared Viet Cong agents planned terrorist attacks against U.S. installations to celebrate Monday's 5th anniversary of the founding of the Viet Cong movement.

The only terrorist action was against a government police station outside Saigon. A Viet Cong cyclist hurled a grenade at the unit, wounding six policemen. The cyclist was promptly cut down by police gunfire.

Dusk-To-Dawn

A dusk-to-dawn curfew for U.S. military personnel went into force for the first time in Saigon as a safeguard against expected terrorism. Bars and cafes, usually brimming with U.S. servicemen, emptied out and military policemen found only a few stragglers, who were bundled back to their billets.

A Viet Cong call for Saigonese to observe 15 minutes of silence during the 1 p.m. siesta period Sunday to protest the war was ignored. Tratfic and pedestrians flowed through the streets and business buzzed.

Said a U.S. official: "It was a flop, a fiasco."

Madrid (AP)— The Office of Information and Tourism says 13.5 million tourists visited Spain from January to November this year and spent more than $856 million.

Boy Saved As Sewer Wall Falls

A 14-year-old boy who narrowly escaped death in an hour-long ordeal in a sewer cave-in Sunday said after his escape, "I didn't know for sure whether I was going to live or die, but I just kept hoping and praying."

Donald Jackson of 3914 Vine is alive only because of the quick action of his younger brother and his mother.

Donald was digging in an 8-foot-deep sewer in front of 3900 Vine when "the walls of the hole just caved in" about him, burying him completely. The boy was buried in an almost prone position but a small pocket of air was formed around his head. This enabled him to breathe for about 15 minutes while rescuers dug to uncover his head. It took firemen and police another 45 minutes to uncover the rest of the boy.

Greg Wallick, 14, of 4111 X, and Donald's brother, John, 12, were playing with Donald at the time of the cave-in.

"Greg came running to the house and told us Donald was completely buried," Mrs. Andrew Jackson said. "I went running out and saw Johnny already digging. I jumped down and started digging where I could hear noise coming from. Donald was able able to talk and told us to be careful because the dirt was starting to fill in around his head.

"If it hadn't been for the police and the Fire Department, we never would have gotten him out." Mrs. Jackson said

The boy was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

. . . 11 Killed

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—A force of 150 U.S. paratroopers raced to Santiago Sunday and ended a violent battle between Dominican army regulars and former rebels barricaded in a hotel.

At least 11 persons were killed in the fighting—9 army regulars and 2 rebels including Col. Juan Lora Fernandez, former chief of staff of the rebel army.

Spread

The violence swirled into Santo Domingo, 120 miles to the south, where an angry pro-rebel mob disarmed and then shot to death a policeman. Bands of youths swarmed through the streets, upsetting trash cans, setting fire to rubber tires and erecting barricades that partially disrupted east-west traffic.

There were no reports of Americans being injured.

U.S. and Brazilian troops of the inter-American peace force reinforced two companies in the heart of Santo Domingo to restore order. Some shooting broke out in the city at nightfall.

The U.S. troops sped to Santiago at the request of Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy.

Sealed Off

Interior Minister Manuel Joaquin said the battle ended in early afternoon when the U.S. paratroopers sealed off the Hotel Matum.

Army officers had ordered tanks into the battle to flush the rebel fighters out of the two-story hotel. They said the rebels were armed with two heavy machine guns, but this was denied by a rebel captain.

Thirteen Americans at the hotel were evacuated by U.S. helicopters to a nearby airbase. Five other Americans registered there were elsewhere when the fighting broke out. They are all with a technical aid program connected with Texas A & M University.

125 Rebels

An estimated 125 rebel fighters were barricaded in the hotel. They were being flown by U.S. helicopters from the hotel to an airport near Santo Domingo and then taken by truck to their camp on the eastern outskirts of the city. Among those removed was rebel chieftain Col. Francisco Caamano Deno.

A delegation of labor leaders demanded that Garcia-Godoy remove the top military leaders. If he doesn't, they said, they would call a general strike.

President Garcia-Godoy said he had tried to dissuade the rebels from making the trip to Santiago because there were "extremist groups bent on taking advantage of the smallest opportunity to cause disturbances."

Short-Lived Invasion

Bangkok, Thailand (AP) — Police officials reported about 100 Cambodian soldiers crossed into Thailand last Wednesday and fired two mortar shells into the border town of Parchamkamuk, in Surin province. Police said no one was injured in the incident and added that the Cambodians withdrew before border police were rushed to the area, 190 miles northeast of Bangkok.

BIRTH OCCURRED ABOUT 7 B.C.—

The First 30 Years--The Private Life Of Jesus

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The first 30 years of Jesus' life went virtually unrecorded. Here is the first of five articles with details of what may have happened during those hidden years.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Out of shadows and uncertainties, His life emerged. It was unknown, except in its consequences. He was reared and lived mostly in obscurity. Yet He gripped the world.

"I glorify myself," He said, "my glory is nothing."

A curtain of silence surrounds the time of Jesus on earth. Of His 33 years, there are accourts of only three. Nine-tenths of His biography is untold. Yet His name excels every name in the annals of mankind.

Questions cloak the story —whose beginning is called Christmas. Much of it is mystifying. Much is hidden. Yet there are ancient hints and clues to many of the missing elements.

Glimpse Possible

From the bits of evidence, along with conditions of the period, it is possible to make out some of the undisclosed background—to glimpse the secret years of Jesus.

They lasted throughout His childhood and young manhood until He reached the age of about 30, at the start of His public ministry.

The concealed years began at his birth in a hillside cave on the edge of Bethlehem—a dark, drafty limestone cavern used for animals — smelly, littered with offal, crawling with insects.

There, in desperation, a transient peasant couple from Galilee, Joseph and Mary, had taken refuge for the delivery of her son. It was not a pleasant setting, as often pictured.

Feed Trough

The mother, weak from her labor, dark hollows under her eyes, sprinkled the infant with salt to toughen His skin, swathed Him with strips of cloth to strengthen His body, and laid Him in a chiseled-out pit in the rock floor used as a feed trough.

The date was about 7 B.C. —not 1 A.D., as miscalculated in the modern calendar.

The Roman Empire's satrap, Herod the Great, then ruled Israel. Scripture indicates that Jesus was born at least two years and likely three before Herod's death in the old Roman year 750 (4 B.C.).

Also, scripture notes that the tax census requiring Joseph to register in Bethlehem took place while Quirinius was Rome's governor of Syria. Modern archeology has dated his term from 9 B.C. until 6 B.C.

Conjunction

Coincidentally, in 7 B.C., as determined centuries afterward by astronomical calculations, an extraordinary conjunction of the planets Jupiter and Saturn formed a brilliant sphere low in the evening sky.

A "star," says Matthew's Gospel, beckoned the Eastern sages, presumably from Persia, on their 1,200-mile journey of perhaps a year or more—in wonder and awe at what had transpired.

Months before they could arrive, however, the elderly woodworker, Joseph, and his youthful wife, Mary, obviously had decided to remain in Bethlehem rather than return at once to Nazareth

Stay Away

Demeaning insinuations had arisen there about her pregnancy, according to ancient noncanonical accounts, and the couple — almost alone in trusting the holy inception — chose to stay away from that strained hometown atmosphere.

For more than a year, the couple apparently resided in Bethlehem, with the child almost entirely in His mother's care, suckling until He was at least 2.

But sometime before that point, the foreign astrologers arrived, with their mystic interpretations and their gifts. The visit aroused suspicions of the depraved King Herod, whose fear of plots already had drenched his own household in blood.

He sent troops to destroy all Bethlehem nurslings up to the age of 2, a furious onslaught of screaming terror and massacre, yet a not surprising tactic in that region of oppression and defiance.

Warned beforehand in a dream, Joseph had gathered his family in the night, and fled southward toward Egypt, taking the boy, whose origins were framed in bewilderment, hardship and violence, into the further desolation of exile.

The mark of the outcast was on Him, from the start.

BIRTH OCCURRED ABOUT 7 B.C.—

The First 30 Years--The Private Life Of Jesus

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The first 30 years of Jesus' life went virtually unrecorded. Here is the first of five articles with details of what may have happened during those hidden years.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Out of shadows and uncertainties, His life emerged. It was unknown, except in its consequences. He was reared and lived mostly in obscurity. Yet He gripped the world.

"I glorify myself," He said, "my glory is nothing."

A curtain of silence surrounds the time of Jesus on earth. Of His 33 years, there are accourts of only three. Nine-tenths of His biography is untold. Yet His name excels every name in the annals of mankind.

Questions cloak the story—whose beginning is called Christmas. Much of it is mystifying. Much is hidden. Yet there are ancient hints and clues to many of the missing elements.

Glimpse Possible

From the bits of evidence, along with conditions of the period, it is possible to make out some of the undisclosed background—to glimpse the secret years of Jesus.

They lasted throughout His childhood and young manhood until He reached the age of about 30, at the start of His public ministry.

The concealed years began at his birth in a hillside cave on the edge of Bethlehem—a dark, drafty limestone cavern used for animals — smelly, littered with offal, crawling with insects.

There, in desperation, a transient peasant couple from Galilee, Joseph and Mary, had taken refuge for the delivery of her son. It was not a pleasant setting, as often pictured.

Feed Trough

The mother, weak from her labor, dark hollows under her eyes, sprinkled the infant with salt to toughen His skin, swathed Him with strips of cloth to strengthen His body, and laid Him in a chiseled-out pit in the rock floor used as a feed trough.

The date was about 7 B.C. —not 1 A.D., as miscalculated in the modern calendar.

The Roman Empire's satrap, Herod the Great, then ruled Israel. Scripture indicates that Jesus was born at least two years and likely three before Herod's death in the old Roman year 750 (4 B.C.).

Also, scripture notes that the tax census requiring Joseph to register in Bethlehem took place while Quirinius was Rome's governor of Syria. Modern archeology has dated his term from 9 B.C. until 6 B.C.

Conjunction

Coincidentally, in 7 B.C., as determined centuries afterward by astronomical calculations, an extraordinary conjunction of the planets Jupiter and Saturn formed a brilliant sphere low in the evening sky.

A "star," says Matthew's Gospel, beckoned the Eastern sages, presumably from Persia, on their 1,200-mile journey of perhaps a year or more—in wonder and awe at what had transpired.

Months before they could arrive, however, the elderly woodworker, Joseph, and his youthful wife, Mary, obviously had decided to remain in Bethlehem rather than return at once to Nazareth.

Stay Away

Demeaning insinuations had arisen there about her pregnancy, according to ancient noncanonical accounts, and the couple — almost alone in trusting the holy inception — chose to stay away from that strained hometown atmosphere.

For more than a year, the couple apparently resided in Bethlehem, with the child almost entirely in His mother's care, suckling until He was at least 2.

But sometime before that point, the foreign astrologers arrived, with their mystic interpretations and their gifts. The visit aroused suspicions of the depraved King Herod, whose fear of plots already had drenched his own household in blood.

He sent troops to destroy all Bethlehem nurslings up to the age of 2, a furious onslaught of screaming terror and massacre, yet a not surprising tactic in that region of oppression and defiance.

Warned beforehand in a dream, Joseph had gathered his family in the night, and fled southward toward Egypt, taking the boy, whose origins were framed in bewilderment, hardship and violence, into the further desolation of exile.

The mark of the outcast was on Him, from the start.

WHEAT GROWERS HEAR ABOUT . . .

Wisconsin Farmer Using U.S. Grain To Feed Latin Children

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Wheat growers attending the National Assn of Wheat Growers convention here last week were given a first hand account of what American wheat means to little boys and girls who are suffering from malnutrition, and in many cases just plain starvation.

Supplying this word picture was Leonard G. Wolf, a 40-year-old Wisconsin farm native, who served as the director of Food for Peace in Brazil and currently coordinator of "Operation Ninos" in all Latin America.

"Ninos" is Spanish for children, said Wolf as he supplied first hand accounts of how American wheat is increasing expectancy of life and life expectancy in Latin America.

5 of 10 Die

Wolf was asked twice to repeat his statement, when he said, "For every 10 children born in Latin America, five die before they reach age six."

To make his point more clear, Wolf said, "Yes, half of the graves in Latin America are filled with children that didn't reach age six."

He told how little bodies suffering from malnutrition are more readily acceptable to disease, illustrated by figures in one Latin American country where 380 times as many children die from measles as in the United States.

"It seems that worms and many, many other diseases will attack the little underfed body that would be unable to get a hold on a child properly fed," said Wolf.

AID

In his present work Wolf is responsible for the coordination of all activities involving AID resources and international coordination with the United States in this field.

He says American leaders who are insisting that countries receiving aid must develop plans to produce more food in their own countries are "exactly on the button."

"You don't just go over and put your neighbors crop in, you help him if he is in trouble, but you don't do it all for him," said Wolf in explaining his thoughts on aid should be offered to other countries.

Wolf gave as an example the method used in developing a Brazilian school lunch program.

He noted that in 1961 Brazil had a total budget of $25,000 for school lunch programs. Last week the budget in federal Brazil support alone was $3 million, with every one of Brazil's 21 states having state budgets to support school lunch programs

Wolf said that the contract with Brazil is for an eight year program where after the fifth year American aid diminishes and at the end of the program it is Brazil's total program.

"This program of school lunches probably never would have gotten under way had it not been for American help," said Wolf.

He foresees a potential market for food products in Brazil that could develop similar to Japan where today Japan is purchasing $1 billion a year in American food products and supplies.

Wolf says the big problem in helping underdeveloped countries is to develop a physical plant to transport, store and distribute the food to the people.

Farm Exports To Hit New High Of $6.2 Billion

U.S. agricultural exports for the year ending next June 30 likely will total $6.2 billion, up from the past year's record of $6.1 billion, according to a report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This continues the trend of recent years for higher agricultural exports to increasingly outpace relatively stable imports, adding important strength to the favorable balance of U.S. total trade.

Greater commercial sales of farm goods for dollars will more than make up for a slight drop in shipments under Government programs, according to the report issued periodically by USDA's Economic Research Service.

The report estimates commercial exports at $4.6 billion compared with $4.4 billion for fiscal year 1964-65.

Mostly responsible for the commodity grains are expected increases in shipments of feed grains, wheat, tobacco, soybeans, fruits, variety meats, and hides and skins.

Tractor Lab Tests Record 55 Models

A record total of 55 tractors were tested in 1965 by the Nebraska Tractor Testing Laboratory. This was the largest number of tractors tested since the facility was established in 1920.

Among the 55 tractors were four English models, several American models with English engines, and a Japanese model. The Japanese tractor was the first from Asia to be tested at the Nebraska laboratory. "We expect it to be the first of many," said Frank Zoz, instructor of agricultural engineering and tractor testing at the University of Nebraska.

Thirty-one diesel tractors, 20 gasoline tractors, and four tractors using liquified petroleum (LP) gas were tested. According to L. F. Larsen, engineer-in-charge at the laboratory, few diesel tractors were brought for testing when he joined the lab in 1947. In 1960 half the tractors tested were diesel, in 1964 two-thirds were, and more than half were this type in 1965.

4-Wheel Drive

Besides the trend towards diesel tractors, more four-wheeled drive and large tractors are being tested. One four-wheeled drive model was tested and was demonstrated at Tractor Power & Safety Day. Three tractors with more than 100 horsepower were tested.

Larsen said that the average performance of the tractors this year was better than in 1964. One tractor set a fuel economy record, in one part of the test.

"There is higher engine speed in all of the tractors now," he said. "Most of those tested this year were over 2000 rpm."

Many of the models use dry air cleaners, he added Positive hydraulic steering with no mechanical connection is used, too.

Dynamometer

A $60,000 dynamometer, a machine that measures the power take-off horsepower, was put into use for the first time this year. It is used in testing tractors which have over 100 horsepower.

The NU testing season runs from March to December.

In 1920 the tractors were tested free, but today the manufacturers pay a fee of $800, plus $30 per unit of horsepower. The average fee is about $1,500-$1,600.

The Nebraska lab, the only one operated by a university in the United States, has tested more tractors than any other lab in the world. The 1965 season brought the total number to 931. Included in this figure are tractors from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Italy, France, Germany, Canada, England, and Japan.

The Nebraska Tractor Testing Laboratory is the result of a Polk County state senator's disappointment with his tractor. He felt that its performance did not meet the manufacturer's claims, and proposed a bill calling for measurement of performance by an unbiased authority.

The senator's bill received only one negative vote from his fellow legislators. The bill stipulated that before a model of tractor could be placed on the Nebraska market, a corresponding model must be tested at the NU lab. The

Bettering Of Swine Crop Under Study

Forty-two persons from 18 Nebraska counties "brainstormed" ways of increasing pork consumption at a meeting here.

The session at the University of Nebraska meats laboratory was sponsored by the Nebraska Swine Council's pork promotion committee. Those present took the view that constructive steps can be taken to improve the "image" of pork to the consumer—a long-range job that needs to be done despite the fact that hog prices have rocketed to new highs and a short supply has caused worker layoffs at major pork processing plants.

Dr. Leo Lucas, NU Extension livestock specialist, listed five problems pork producers must solve if the image of pork is to be improved:

—Hogs must be leaner.

—Most pork is not prepared properly to meet consumer tastes.

—Producers' own lack of enthusiasm for pork, once his live hogs are delivered to the market place.

—Soft, watery pork which is repugnant to the housewife.

—The scare from trichinosis (trichina), which pork industry leaders say is no longer a problem.

Lucas emphasized that pork quality has improved vastly in the past 50 years, although much remains yet to be done.

NU Agronomists Complete Weed Killer Control Study

Experiments in the summer of 1965 across the state showed that there are a number of weed killers and weed killer combinations that can control annual weeds in Nebraska cornfields.

The experiments were carried out by Dr. O. C. Burnside and Dr. L. R. Robison, University of Nebraska agronomists.

They tested 16 preemergence herbicides or herbicide combinations at 28 locations.

Atrazine alone or in combination with other herbicides was found to do the best job.

Other herbicide treatments that give better than 80 per cent control of both broadleaf and grassy weeds were:

—Amiben plus a chemical called Ramrod applied at a rate of 1 and 3 pounds active material per acre respectively.

—Amiben plus fenac at 1½ pounds per acre respectively.

—Ramrod at 4 pounds per acre.

—Linuron at 2 pounds per acre.

However, linuron injured the corn, they reported.

The Farm Round Up

By Glenn Kreuscher, Farm Editor

Probably the most meaningful resolution in the National Assn. of Wheat Growers convention here to many Nebraska wheat growers was the stipulation, "that in no case shall the projected yield applying to the 1966 wheat program be less than the 1965 yield."

After reading the initial reports on the Food and Agricultural Act of 1965 that begin for wheat by saying, "The Act continues the voluntary wheat certificate program with changes to boost wheat income," most Nebraska wheat farmers were quite pleased.

Now comes the shocker for almost two-thirds of the counties in the state that the projected yield figured on the period 1959 to 1964 gives most of the counties in the state a lower suggested yield for the 1966 wheat program than they had this year.

4 to 5 Bushel

In some of the counties the community committeemen for ASCS four to five bushel on the method of figuring yields from what the USDA is going to allow the farmers in the 1966 wheat program.

One matter that has been very disturbing to U.S. wheat growers have been the increased acreage percentages of other countries.

Ervain Friehe of McCook, chairman of the Nebraska Wheat Commission, says Australia has increased acreage 70% during 1962-65, and during the same period Canada has increased wheat acreage 23 8%, but in the U.S. wheat farmers have had a 4.5% decrease

Resolution

A National Wheat Growers resolution aimed at this matter read

"Our growers are becoming increasingly concerned with the expanding acreage and production in other exporting countries which do not participate in holding world wheat surplus supplies to stabilize world wheat prices.

"Therefore, we recommend that a complete review of policy be implemented and action taken toward expanding Soviet Bloc trade for U.S. wheat and flour, particularly as related to (a) removing the barrier of requiring the use of U.S. flag shipping at non-competitive costs, and (b) the extension of fully competitive credit arrangements."

Pat Greathouse, vice president of United Auto Workers, seemed as much at home discussing farm problems as he did in talking about the manufacturing of automobiles, tractors, and farm machinery.

Beat Around Bush

Greathouse didn't beat around the bush in definitely stating that his union was not interested in organizing farmers.

"Agriculture income is very important as far as we are concerned, because the largest single customer outside of flat-wage earners are farmers and we make the equipment they purchase and use.

"Our people are aware that if agriculture or any one segment of the country gets in trouble it can be trouble for the rest," said Greathouse.

Greathouse, a former farm boy, added, "Agriculture and labor represent the same thing, they represent people."

While Greathouse didn't want anything to do with organizing farmers, he thinks this is their business, he is interested in supporting their position when it comes to securing legislation that will benefit agriculture

"I don't know of any reason why farm and labor should spar," said Greathouse.

Anyone not familiar with some of labor's spokesmen that might have expected a tough looking fellow with a club showing up to address the wheat growers would never have recognized the conservative dressed, well informed and equally well presentable Greathouse take a calm, direct approach to any questions tossed his way.

Broken Bow Fire Destroys City Hall

Broken Bow (AP)— Fire, which broke out in a meeting hall, virtually destroyed the Broken Bow City Hall Sunday.

Fire Chief Frank Klapal said the cause was undetermined, but a city official said investigation was being made of a gas heater in the meeting room.

There was no immediate estimate of the loss. The three story brick building was constructed in 1910, but did not house all of the city offices.

Building Destroyed

Sheriff R. G. Fox called the building "destroyed," saying the roof and the top story were gone, and the other two floors badly smoke and water damaged. The walls remained standing.

The top floor contained the meeting room where the fire broke out, plus some smaller rooms, used by the scouts and other groups, and city council chambers.

On the middle floor was the utilities department, the police department and the firemen's meeting room. Most of the utility records were saved as they had been taken to the city clerk's private office in another building for checking.

Fire Trucks, Jail

The ground floor of the structure was a storage area for city trucks, including fire trucks, and housed the jail.

The fire equipment, after battling the blaze, was moved to another nearby structure, but officials said space would need to be rented immediately for the utilities department.

A special meeting of the city council was called Monday to determine what action would be taken.

Four Youths Still At Large From Center

Omaha (AP) — Four of six youths who escaped from the Douglas County Youth Center Saturday night following a disturbance remained at large Sunday. Two 16-year-olds were captured within an hour after their escape.

Youth Center Director Pete Knolla said the youths broke out 18 windows, knocked the locks off several doors and caused other minor damage. The escapees range in age from 12 to 17.

Knolla said they broke out a retention screen on one window, fleeing into the night wearing only light clothing. The two arrested were taken to county jail along with one, described by Knolla as the ringleader.

Attendant Fred White said the trouble apparently grew all evening among some of the 38 youths at the center. When ordered to their wards because of unruliness. White said some others became uncontrollable and indicated they might try to take keys from an attendant and escape. Police were summoned and the disturbance quieted.

Investigation Of Thurston County Killing Continues

Pender (AP)—Bond was to be set Monday in Thurston County for a 19-year-old Macy youth, charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of Raymond Fields, also of Macy, following a fight.

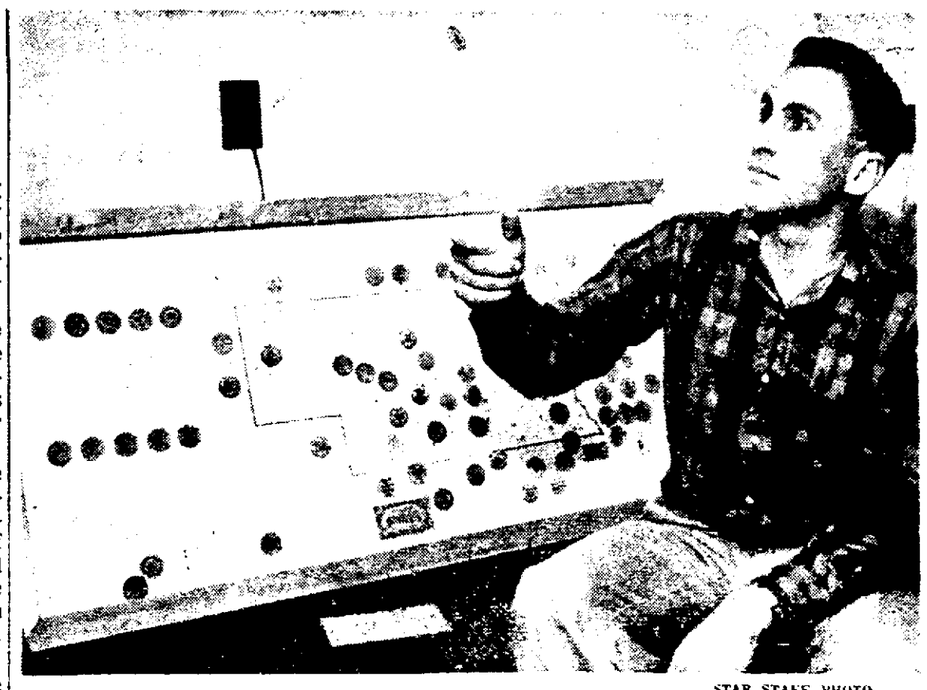

Thurston County Judge Charles Boughn said preliminary hearing for Alvin Freemont on the second degree murder charge had not yet been set.

He said Sheriff Harold Obermeyer was continuing an investigation of the Monday fight in which the 18-year-old Fields was injured fatally.

Freemont, meanwhile, is held in jail after being given 15 days and fined $250 on a liquor violation charge. He was charged before Monday night's incident with procuring liquor for a minor.

Wooden Nickels Trace History

. . . ON HOBBIEST'S MAP

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Fremont—Look what happens when you ignore good service.

They told Gelvin Leeper, "Don't take any wooden nickels."

But the Fremont hobbiest didn't heed—and he ended up with over 600 of the things!

Collects Them

"I really don't know what got me started," he says. "Somehow I'd aquire about two dozen when I got interested in collecting them."

Not quite as worthless as they're cracked up to be by quipsters, the nickels can carry a value up to around $5.00, and many could actually buy things when they were issued.

Primarily promotional gimmicks for local celebrations, they offered such things as "a cup of coffee at Joe's," five cents in cash or trade at any local merchant and even $20 on the purchase of a mobile home.

Every Purpose

But Leeper points out, "They've been issued everywhere for every prupose."

Though there's an elaborate book with plastic inserts holding dozens of pieces swapped and bought from coin clubs and several boxes of miscellaneous coins around the house, Leeper's main interest centers on his home state.

"My goal," he said, "is to complete a set of Nebraska nickels."

Laid out on a map of the state, the collection now forms a tracing of history with such as Gothenburg's Pony Express station souvenir, the Trenton Dam and his own Dodge County centennial.

Color keyed pinheads identify centennials, diamond jubilees, coin clubs and special events, and private issues.

"I wanted to have something to display at coin shows," explained the numismatist, who laments, "You've got to have a lot of money to get a complete set of coins."

First Prize

Turning to the less-costly wooden nickels, he made up the map and won first prize in the tough miscellaneous division of the State Numismatic Convention last spring.

Prominent on the framed display is the rectangular 1938 Humboldt nickel—misspelled "nickle"—believed to be the first in the state, and the same town's first known round one of the following year.

And maybe Farnam has some history only its wood nickel designer knew about. Its Diamond Jubilee coin is dated "1811-1961."

Value Increase

Such mistakes, Leeper points out, increase their value to collectors, as does rarity.

The most expensive the Fremont Coin Club secretary knows of is a recent issue by a midwestern town to alleviate the coin shortage. The government took most of those, and the remainder are worth around $5.00 each.

But that's how the whole thing started in this country, Leeper said, in 1931 in Tenino, Wash., where the bank failed and wood currency became a means of local trade.

However, the "don't take none" advice may date back to the Greek era of 1,500 years ago, according to one expert.

"Why not?" says Gelvin Leeper.

Kearney County Conservationist Retires Thursday

Minden (AP) — Howard Richardson of Minden will retire Thursday after 31 years with the Soil Conservation Service.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, he became associated with the government when President Franklin D. Roosevelt created the Soil Erosion Service, later called the Soil Conservation Service.

The 55-year-old Richardson, who has farmed a quarter section of land just southwest of Minden, plans to pursue his hobby, radio electronics. He wants to seek a first class license now that he has more time.

He will be replaced in the Kearney County Soil and Water Conservation District by Dale Mathine, now a technician with the SCS in Jefferson County at Fairbury.

Woods Charity Fund Gives $10,000 To Restore Willa Cather's Home

Red Cloud — A grant of $10,000 to restore the girlhood home of Pultizer Prize winning author, Willa Cather, has been received by the Willa Cather Pioneer Memorial and Educational Foundation in Red Cloud from the Woods Charitable Fund of Lincoln.

The announcement was made Monday by Mrs. Mildred R. Bennett of Red Cloud, president of the Cather Memorial, who stated the grant would be used to recondition the house and return it as accurately as possible to its original state of 1885.

In 1960, the Cather home in Red Cloud was purchased by Dr. W. K. Bennett of Red Cloud, who put a foundation under it and then donated it to the Cather Memorial.

Frank H. and Nelle C. Woods, founders of the Woods Fund, were classmates of Willa Cather at the University of Nebraska in the 1890's. Thomas C. Woods Jr. of Lincoln is vice president of the fund and a grandson of the founders. Frank H. Woods of Chicago, a son, is secretary-treasurer.

Broken Bow Fire Destroys City Hall

Broken Bow (AP)— Fire, which broke out in a meeting hall, virtually destroyed the Broken Bow City Hall Sunday.

Fire Chief Frank Klapal said the cause was undetermined, but a city official said investigation was being made of a gas heater in the meeting room.

There was no immediate estimate of the loss. The three story brick building was constructed in 1910, but did not house all of the city offices.

Building Destroyed

Sheriff R. G. Fox called the building "destroyed," saying the roof and the top story were gone, and the other two floors badly smoke and water damaged. The walls remained standing.

The top floor contained the meeting room where the fire broke out, plus some smaller rooms, used by the scouts and other groups, and city council chambers.

On the middle floor was the utilities department, the police department and the firemen's meeting room. Most of the utility records were saved as they had been taken to the city clerk's private office in another building for checking.

Fire Trucks, Jail

The ground floor of the structure was a storage area for city trucks, including fire trucks, and housed the jail.

The fire equipment, after battling the blaze, was moved to another nearby structure, but officials said space would need to be rented immediately for the utilities department.

A special meeting of the city council was called Monday to determine what action would be taken.

What Comes Next?

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A thousand years from now, some historian might write in regard to family life of this period: "They lived in rather closely arranged structures called dwellings or houses in which climate was automatically controlled by a rather crude mechanical device. By means of a rather unrefined system of exchange, families acquired these dwellings at progressively earlier ages and considerable resources were expended in the preservation of such places."

In other words, the social and economic orders in which we live today may be a far cry from what might exist far into the future. Even today, we have only to look at a period of time such as 20 years to see quite a substantial change. A picture of modern family life is painted in the figures given in the 1965 Statistical Abstract of the United States. It is often said that statistics are a bore but such is not necessarily the case. Take, for instance, the matter of climate control. In 1940, 46.6 percent of all housing units in the country were heated with a heating stove, the most popular of all ways of heating.

Twenty-Year Changes

In 1960, the heating stove was used in only 22.6 per cent of homes and forced warm air heat h taken over the l ding spot, being found in 31.5 percent of the homes. Someday, of course, we may not even need to heat our homes or cool them because we will be controlling th outside temperature.

For those who want something a little different than the majority, heat will probably be a matter of a two-square-inch device placed strategically in the home. In 1940, 39.1 percent of all homes had no bathtub or shower while the figure for 1960 stood at only 11.9 percent.

While thus improving the state of our personal hygiene, we were also learning to live better. In one respect, the fundamentals of cooking haven't changed much. Gas in one form or another, bottled or pipeline, served 48.8 percent of the homes for cooking purposes in 1940 and remained at the top and in 51.5 percent of the homes in 1960. Yet, electricity, being a cooking fuel in only 5.4 percent of the homes in 1940, had jumped to 30.8 percent in 1960. Wood, coal, fuel oil and kerosene have been the big losers, running second with 45.4 percent in 1940 and serving only 4.9 percent of the homes in 1960. In case you are wondering, ½ percent of the homes have no means of cooking at all.

Presumably, these homes would represent either extreme poverty or extreme wealth. Either they are homes where cooking fue ot be afforded or they are homes in which all meals are eaten out. We were never sorry to see t old day go. It meant no cinders for slippery walks in the winte e and nothing with which to fill the mud holes in the alleys . so eliminated hauling ashes, bringing up the coal from the basement and banking of fires at night. And when something went ong, the coal burners, be they for heat or cooking, could cough up an awful black mess that demanded of everyone to fall to on the cleanup gang. It's true that soups that used t simmer all day on a black stove plate were a meal unto themselves but such is the price of progress.

Testimonials to our growing affluency can be seen in the statistics on telephones and automobiles. The number found in occupied housing units is data that was not even collected in 1940. In the case of telephones, it was probably just overlooked but in the case of automobiles, the situation is a little different. When you consider the fact that only 56.9 percent of such housing units had an automobile available to them in 1960, there must not have been enough to bother counting in 1940.

And by 1960, we had started counting even those units with two cars per unit. In 1960, 21.5 percent of the units had two cars available to them and 21.5 percent had none. As to telephones, they are found in 87.3 percent of the homes but a surprising 21.5 percent have no telephone, at all. We must admit there are times when we wish we were among that 21.5 percent.

More and more people, of course, own their homes as time goes by. Well, they really don't own them but they are headed in that direction. Calculated in FHA insured mortgages, 96.3 percent of new homes in 1950 were in the under-$10,000 range. That group had fallen to 4 percent by 1964 and the $20,000-and-over class that wasn't even recorded in 1950 constituted 10.3 percent of the total in 1964. However, we are not quite as well off as the figures might indicate, as we are borrowing heavily on the future to achieve our growth.

Home Loan Figures

The 35-year mortgage was non-existent in 1950 but covered 33 percent of new home loans in 1964. While 68 percent of new homes carried a down-payment of from 10 to 19 percent in 1950, 32 pe ent carried a down-payment of only 3 to 4 percent in 1964. From that point, it would seem that any further change would have to be pretty drastic.

Erhard Chose The White House

WASHINGTON — It was a bit of a blow to LBJ's famed hospitality that Chancellor Ludwig Erhard didn't want to meet him again at the Texas ranch. Their first meeting in December 1963 took place at the ranch, and Lady Bird had gone out of her way to make the chancellor of Germany feel at home.

She put a book on Erhard's bedside table, "Pioneers in God's Hills," describing the German colonization of Texas. She had Pierre Salinger secure the longest, fattest cigars. She prepared Quiche Lorraine, a cheese custard pie, one of the Chancellor's favorites, and when he arrived at the ranch house a big picture of him was on the front porch together with the German greeting "wilkommen."

During their talks the new President of the United States took the new Chancellor of Germany deer-watching, for a tour in his convertible, and to church services where the pastor preached in both English and German.

Prior to his present trip, however, Erhard made it clear that he didn't want to go to Texas. He wanted the additional press coverage of a formal visit at the White House. That's what he's getting now.

Johnson and Erhard know each other quite well. They have had four talks, and the President almost feels as if he could get along without the interpreter. Erhard speaks English, though haltingly; and Johnson used to speak German as a boy but has forgotten most of it. So they will rely on an interpreter, which handicaps the President because he likes to deal in direct, persuasive, personal conversation.

Erhard not only likes the President, but is grateful to Johnson for his support, which has gone much further than most people realize. In the summer of 1964, when Erhard was having trouble inside his own Christian Democratic party, LBJ came to his rescue.

☆ ☆ ☆

The incident occurred after President De Gaulle had called on the new chancellor, found him rather vague about German - French relations, and not as cooperative as his predecessor, Konrad Adenauer. When De Gaulle later reported this to Adenauer, there was criticism inside the party and Erhard was asked to attend a party meeting in Munich to report on his behavior.

Prior to the meeting, Erhard seemed worried. When he entered the room, however, he was cocky.

There was good reason. For the new chancellor pulled a letter from his pocket from Lyndon Johnson stressing the joint aims of the United States and Germany.

That ended the intra-party rebellion.

Kids Not Gun-Minded

It is popularly believed that small American boys are war crazy and generally go into heavy action Christmas morning. They no more than get the latest plastic weapon unwrapped than they do in grandma with a shower of missiles. Later they get grandpa strategically by flanking 'm with a regiment or so of toy soldiers.

While this is going on toy w es are flying overhead dropping ping pong bombs into the gravy and dressing.

At least this is the picture the y makers are strenuously trying to destroy. They say it isn't so. We gather that far more children are learning to cheat trying Peter Coddle than are picking up a war temperament through toy guns.

The Toy Manufacturer's Association has released the result of a study which shows that only 5 percent of the toys purchased by dollar volume are toy guns. Far more children rejoice over riding toys, non-riding toys, dolls and games.

One gathers from the temper of the study that it is the adult population that's overdoing the armament business. Half our national budget, something like $50 billion annually, goes into weapons. So who is beefing the young fry for getting only 5 percent of their Christmas toys as weapons?

But to get back to the dangers and joys of childhood. Wheel goods get 22 percent of the toy dollar and sporting goods demand 12 percent.

Dolls are the perennial favorite of little girls upon which they can lavish love, affection and dominance without any back talk.

The nation should be relieved by the toy association's survey. There seems to be no danger of the American family being blown to bits by our militant young fry.

Any Port In Storm

Perhaps you have heard about such things in connection with the flights of Geminis 6 and 7 as the fuel cell which created a water problem. The cell generates electricity by the chemical reaction of hydrogen and oxygen.

You probably know about that because it was a fairly well publicized malfunction. You knew about and maybe you understood it all and maybe you didn't. Most of us are greatly awed by the fantastic complexity of the entire space operation.

And yet, it has its strictly human side. Another malfunction occurred in Gemini 7 which not too much was made of. The astronauts found that they could not rewind one of their tape recorders. The recorders pick up data from the spacecraft and send it back to earth.

After some conversation between earth and astronauts about the recorder trouble, earth ground control suggested: "If all else fails, we'd like you just to kick it a couple of times." One of the astronauts did so but without luck. "You didn't kick hard enough," he was told by ground control.

The thought to kick the recorder is a thought that might well have occurred to any of us. Even we non-scientific laymen can understand the value of a well placed kick. Even if it doesn't work, it does wonders for your state of mind.

Had we been at ground control, we might even have offered a little more advice such as turning the recorder upside down and giving it a good shaking. It's good to know that nothing is yet so complex that there isn't room enough for good humor and a little plain old human nature.

The Wrong Idea

Several Michigan college students, going to school under draft deferments, were reclassified 1-A by their local draft boards after they had participated in a sit-in to protest the Viet Nam struggle. They were arrested, convicted and punished for trespassing.

We understand that the Michigan draft boards involved also notified boards of other states of the court action against nonresident participants. We presume there was an implied suggestion for draft reclassification in it.

A great many Americans do not approve of these marches and sit-ins and will be inclined to support the draft boards. Just the same it is an unwise move and certainly no service to the military branches. The young people who were arrested were punished for their law breaking. There is no reason for draft boards to make military service an additional punishment. The Selective Service act is for the purpose of national defense and not punishment. It is a question whether these resentful young people will contribute more than a morale problem for the armed forces. Certainly not many of them in their aggravated state of mind can become good soldiers or sailors. Morale is as important as training in the molding of a good combat outfit. For this reason Selective Service should not become a punitive measure.

If in the majority opinion the penalties for such demonstrations as a few youth are making are not severe enough, then more stringent laws should be passed in keeping with established constitutional guarantees. Certainly it is not good for our defense establishment to load it with dissident young people. That is like trying to cure smallpox by infecting a great number of people.

The Knolls And Annexation To City

Lincoln, Neb.

As you know from our telephone conversations, I was quite shocked by your editorial of December 15 entitled "Time To Be Counted." In view of our long-standing friendship and what I have thought was mutual respect, I was dumfounded by your use of the power of the press in an attempt to reduce the issue of annexation of The Knolls to a question of personal integrity and civic responsiblity.

The question of annexation of residential property lying either adjacent or well beyond the city limits, as is the case with The Knolls, is a vexatious problem which for many years has troubled thoughtful City Councils and other responsible citizens. The issues are economic and financial and, in my judgment, can be solved intelligently only by engineering and economic feasibility studies. It seems to me that you do a great disservice to city officials and residents of The Knolls when you so dramatically attempt to convince your readers that the only issue is the city's need to protect itself against people who are trying to get something for nothing. In so doing, you have misconstrued badly the basis of the opposition to annexation which I presented to the City Council.

Inasmuch as you did not hear or read the prepared statement which I presented on December 13 to the City Council prior to the publication of your editorial, I believe the public should have a factual account of what I actually said for both myself and on behalf of a majority of the residents of The Knolls. I reported to the council that the majority of the residents of The Knolls had long been willing taxpayers of the city and expected to be, again, in the future. And I might have added that some of them continue to pay taxes on property owned and located within the city. My prepared statement is conclusive evidence that the people for whom I spoke, myself included, are opposing annexation of The Knolls only at the present time. However, you charged that "The Knolls majority apparently does not want to be annexed" and that they "don't want to pay city taxes." I do not regard these statements as responsible journalism as they clearly misrepresent the basis for the opposition to the annexation of The Knolls.

In somewhat more detail, our opposition to immediate annexation was based almost entirely on (1) the contention that it is not just, fair, and equitable to levy ad valorem taxes on real estate when one or more essential city services, e.g., water and sewerage systems, are not available to serve the subject property, and (2) the question of whether annexation would not violate Section 15-104 of the Reissued Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, and amendments thereto because the city is not now serving The Knolls with either water or sewerage service.

In your editorial, you call attention to the obvious fact that if the residents of The Knolls were supplied water and sewerage service by the city, they would pay for such service through special assessments and water and sewer charges. But it is the availability of the services to which the residents of The Knolls believe they are entitled at the time they start paying city ad valorem taxes. And I believe you know full well the enormous expense of constructing or laying water mains and sewer lines to the general vicinity of The Knolls would have to be borne by all the users of water and sanitary sewers in the city of Lincoln and not by the few families in the new water and sewer district which would have to be formed.

Another related issue, involving all these users of city water and sewer systems (mostly taxpayers, direct or indirect), also was raised. This is a question of whether the extension of large water mains and sewer systems through or adjacent to unimproved land, in order to serve limited and somewhat remote residential areas, might not be so costly as to more than offset the ad valorem taxes and water and sewer charges collected from a relatively small number of additional taxpayers. We suggested only that the economic feasibility of rendering at this time these additional services to The Knolls be explored carefully. And it might be added that the police and fire protection, snow removal, and the electric power which the city would be obliged to make available to an annexed area now somewhat remote could prove to be most uneconomical with the result that the Lincoln taxpayers' situation might be worsened.

Removing all the emotional nonsense and reducing the issue to its simplest terms, it is not a question of whether The Knolls should be annexed but when. Let the public be informed that the city has the responsibility to make available all city services to taxpayers and that the majority of the residents of the area have indicated that they will not oppose annexation when the City Council deems it economically and financially sound to supply such services to The Knolls. With the power to effect annexation without notice, the council can adopt a program which contemplates the construction of water and sanitary sewerage systems with completion to coincide with the date on which the subject property would be annexed and added to the tax rolls.

Meanwhile, let not the public labor under the illusion that the city is shouldering a heavy financial burden for the residents of The Knolls. Actually, no city funds have been spent in developing, maintaining or serving The Knolls. In black-faced type, you have laid much emphasis on the contractual arrangement between the city and a rural fire district which provides fire protection to the Knolls. You convey the impression that the residents of The Knolls are getting something for nothing. First of all, you should know that The Knolls geographically is only a small part of the fire district involved and that annexation of The Knolls in itself would presumably not terminate the agreement between the city and the district. Secondly, the agreement provides that the city may use the equipment owned by the district in fighting fires within its own confines. Considering the limited exposure (number of houses in the fire district) on a relative basis, who can say that the city isn't being adequately compensated for storage and the stand-by use of its manpower?

You have chosen to single me out as one who "works in Lincoln, drives our streets, enjoys the cultural benefits of Lincoln, the recreational benefits and the economic advantages of the Lincoln population center" and one who you say "doesn't want to pay city taxes." I have confidence that the public will recognize that most of these benefits which you have dredged up to bolster your untenable case are provided by private enterprise and the cooperation and efforts of civic-minded people working together to promote business, culture, education, entertainment and good health and not by the taxes paid to the city of Lincoln. The record of the people who live in The Knolls and what they have contributed to this community really need not be extolled. Admitting that the use of city streets and city parks are benefits, are we to get no credit for the taxes which we have paid for so many years in the past? Is it not to be recognized that in due course we shall, again, be paying city taxes?

Your entire editorial promotes dissension, resentment, and strife in the community. Your choice of such phrases as "wishy-washy public officials," "some sharing only the responsibilities and some only the benefits," and "exploitation of others" only incites ill feeling in the community rather than the cooperation which you seem to champion. And, I daresay that those who read your editorial to its bitter end understood the class consciousness of your final thrust. "One more bet you can make — West Lincoln will be annexed and you can make what you want out of the fact that it hasn't much social or economic weight to throw around" (emphasis supplied by me).

In my judgment, the power of the press, not tempered with judicious judgment, can render much damage to a community and its people. Civic-minded people, who have been counted for many years in this community, expect something better than the treatment accorded them in your editorial, "Time To Be Counted."

Quiet On Issue

Lincoln, Neb.

It is amazing to see such indignation from some of the clergy over banning such filth as "To Kill A Mockingbird" from the impressionable minds of seventh and eighth graders. And yet these same men are very, very quiet when the question of banning prayer, the Sermon on the Mount, the Ten Commandments and even part of the "Star-Spangled Banner" from our schools is raised.

Seeking Cousin

El Centro, Calif.

I have read where occasionally the newspapers have been able to locate people whom no one has seen for several years.

I am trying to locate a cousin. At one time Betty Lou Barr had grandparents by the last name of Carter living in Lincoln. Her mother's maiden name was Evelyn Carter and her father was Paul W. Barr. He was in newspaper work about 1929.

This girl is not a missing person, but I have heard so much about her that I would like to know more about her.

No Holds Barred

Lincoln, Neb.

I read a letter from one of The Star's readers on December 15, opposed to censorship in the issue, in Lincoln's public schools, regarding the book, "To Kill A Mocking Bird."

This letter said the Bible mentions suggestive and immoral things, too, but I want to present the other side of the issue.

What one is so fast to say about the Bible may be only in the critic's mind. I don't feel that the incidents in the Bible should be compared with the incidents mentioned in "To Kill A Mocking Bird" because one would have to compare both books. Does the Bible mention in the same way that contemporary books do those matters which pertain to all the desires, emotions, passions and senses of a man just to make it seem desirable?

There is a big difference between the mere mention of something and leaving nothing to the imagination. I believe in Bible inspiration, but it isn't technical enough to appear like a guided tour on depravity. And our contemporary books do appear in this light, doing all to hold the reader's interest, no holds barred.

Red Tape Prevents Quick A-Bomb Use

WASHINGTON — While the Russians seem only mildly uneasy that the German air force has been approved to carry American A-bombs, some of Germany's NATO allies appear to be in downright panic. The extent of precautions taken to prevent overzealousness by the Luftwaffe must be somewhat embarrassing to the new Germany and its leaders.

It takes several hours to study the long list of checks and counterchecks, but, as nearly as I can figure it, if Russia attacks the free world, this is what would have to happen before German A-bomb planes could help NATO:

The German air force would ask the American Army guarding the atomic weapon stockpile in Germany for some A-bombs, quick. The U.S. commander in Germany would check with NATO and then ask the Joint Chiefs back in Washington about it. The Joint Chiefs would ask the President and he would say, "Y'all hold everything, I'd best ask De Gaulle and the British."

Some time will be saved here because, as war broke out in Europe, De Gaulle will have fled to England. LBJ will be able to speak to the British and French leaders at the same time. The Prime Minister will give his O.K. and De Gaulle will say he is prepared to lead an America army to free France, if it should fall. The President will call the Joint Chiefs back and they will tell the U.S. commander in Germany to give some A-bombs to the Germans.

The Luftwaffe will hurry the bombs over to its planes, but will be turned away by American soldiers guarding the German aircraft. The Luftwaffe will ask the U.S. commander to remove his soldiers, he will ask the Joint Chiefs, they will ask the President, etc. Eventually, the American soldiers will step aside and the bombs will be loaded.

However, A-bombs will not explode unless activated by a secret radio signal. The fail-safe mechanism is that the signal must be sent simultaneously by a U.S. specialist and a NATO representative. After another frantic exchange of communiques, the bombs will get their first, primary arming. The Luftwaffe must then seek permission to take off. Once this is gotten, the runways must be cleared of obstacles placed there by NATO to prevent a madman from stealing a bomber.

Once aloft (and, so help me, this plan was announced last week), the German squadron leader will request their final activation by another radio signal from NATO headquarters. This must be approved by the U.S. President. Provided there are no delays, permission will come shortly. The German planes will at last be on their way.

Perhaps we shouldn't judge too harshly NATO's nervousness where Germany is concerned. In the past the Luftwaffe has had an unsettling way of appearing over a country several days prior to a declaration of war. On the other hand, it is estimated that World War III will last only 45 minutes; the German air force may miss the war by an hour and a half.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"There now, you wait right there for 30 minutes, Bob."

What Comes Next?

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A thousand years from now, some historian might write in regard to family life of this period: "They lived in rather closely arranged structures called dwellings or houses in which climate was automatically controlled by a rather crude mechanical device. By means of a rather unrefined system of exchange, families acquired these dwellings at progressively earlier ages and considerable resources were expended in the preservation of such places."

In other words, the social and economic orders in which we live today may be a far cry from what might exist far into the future. Even today, we have only to look at a period of time such as 20 years to see quite a substantial change. A picture of modern family life is painted in the figures given in the 1965 Statistical Abstract of the United States. It is often said that statistics are a bore but such is not necessarily the case. Take, for instance, the matter of climate control. In 1940, 46.6 percent of all housing units in the country were heated with a heating stove, the most popular of all ways of heating.

Twenty-Year Changes

In 1960, the heating stove was used in only 22.6 per cent of homes and forced warm air heat had taken over the leading spot, being found in 31.5 percent of the homes. Someday, of course, we may not even need to heat our homes or cool them because we will be controlling the outside temperature.

For those who want something a little different than the majority, heat will probably be a matter of a two-square-inch device placed strategically in the home. In 1940, 39.1 percent of all homes had no bathtub or shower while the figure for 1960 stood at only 11.9 percent.

While thus improving the state of our personal hygiene, we were also learning to live better. In one respect, the fundamentals of cooking haven't changed much. Gas in one form or another, bottled or pipeline, served 48.8 percent of the homes for cooking purposes in 1940 and remained at the top and in 51.5 percent of the homes in 1960. Yet, electricity, being a cooking fuel in only 5.4 percent of the homes in 1940, had jumped to 30.8 percent in 1960. Wood, coal, fuel oil and kerosene have been the big losers, running second with 45.4 percent in 1940 and serving only 4.9 percent of the homes in 1960. In case you are wondering, ½ percent of the homes have no means of cooking at all.

Presumably, these homes would represent either extreme poverty or extreme wealth. Either they are homes where cooking fuel cannot be afforded or they are homes in which all meals are eaten out. We were never sorry to see the old days go. It meant no cinders for slippery walks in the winter time and nothing with which to fill the mud holes in the alleys. It also eliminated hauling ashes, bringing up the coal from the basement and banking of fires at night. And when something went wrong, the coal burners, be they for heat or cooking, could cough up an awful black mess that demanded of everyone to fall to on the cleanup gang. It's true that soups that used to simmer all day on a black stove plate were a meal unto themselves but such is the price of progress.

Testimonials to our growing affluency can be seen in the statistics on telephones and automobiles. The number found in occupied housing units is data that was not even collected in 1940. In the case of telephones, it was probably just overlooked but in the case of automobiles, the situation is a little different. When you consider the fact that only 56.9 percent of such housing units had an automobile available to them in 1960, there must not have been enough to bother counting in 1940.

And by 1960, we had started counting even those units with two cars per unit. In 1960, 21.5 percent of the units had two cars available to them and 21.5 percent had none. As to telephones, they are found in 87.3 percent of the homes but a surprising 21.5 percent have no telephone, at all. We must admit there are times when we wish we were among that 21.5 percent.

More and more people, of course, own their homes as time goes by. Well, they really don't own them but they are headed in that direction. Calculated in FHA insured mortgages, 96.3 percent of new homes in 1950 were in the under-$10,000 range. That group had fallen to 4 percent by 1964 and the $20,000-and-over class that wasn't even recorded in 1950 constituted 10.3 percent of the total in 1964. However, we are not quite as well off as the figures might indicate, as we are borrowing heavily on the future to achieve our growth.

Home Loan Figures

The 35-year mortgage was non-existent in 1950 but covered 33 percent of new home loans in 1964. While 68 percent of new homes carried a down-payment of from 10 to 19 percent in 1950, 32 percent carried a down-payment of only 3 to 4 percent in 1964. From that point, it would seem that any further change would have to be pretty drastic.

In black-faced type, you have laid much emphasis on the contractual arrangement between the city and a rural fire district which provides fire protection to the Knolls. You convey the impression that the residents of The Knolls are getting something for nothing. First of all, you should know that The Knolls geographically is only a small part of the fire district involved and that annexation of The Knolls in itself would presumably not terminate the agreement between the city and the district. Secondly, the agreement provides that the city may use the equipment owned by the district in fighting fires within its own confines. Considering the limited exposure (number of houses in the fire district) on a relative basis, who can say that the city isn't being adequately compensated for storage and the stand-by use of its manpower?

You have chosen to single me out as one who "works in Lincoln, drives our streets, enjoys the cultural benefits of Lincoln, the recreational benefits and the economic advantages of the Lincoln population center" and one who you say "doesn't want to pay city taxes." I have confidence that the public will recognize that most of these benefits which you have dredged up to bolster your untenable case are provided by private enterprise and the cooperation and efforts of civic-minded people working together to promote business, culture, education, entertainment and good health and not by the taxes paid to the city of Lincoln. The record of the people who live in The Knolls and what they have contributed to this community really need not be extolled. Admitting that the use of city streets and city parks are benefits, are we to get no credit for the taxes which we have paid for so many years in the past? Is it not to be recognized that in due course we shall, again, be paying city taxes?

Your entire editorial promotes dissension, resentment, and strife in the community. Your choice of such phrases as "wishy-washy public officials," "some sharing only the responsibilities and some only the benefits," and "exploitation of others" only incites ill feeling in the community rather than the cooperation which you seem to champion. And, I daresay that those who read your editorial to its bitter end understood the class consciousness of your final thrust, "One more bet you can make — West Lincoln will be annexed and you can make what you want out of the fact that it hasn't much social or economic weight to throw around" (emphasis supplied by me).

In my judgment, the power of the press, not tempered with judicious judgment, can render much damage to a community and its people. Civic-minded people, who have been counted for many years in this community, expect something better than the treatment accorded them in your editorial, "Time To Be Counted."

Quiet On Issue

Lincoln, Neb.

It is amazing to see such indignation from some of the clergy over banning such filth as "To Kill A Mockingbird" from the impressionable minds of seventh and eighth graders. And yet these same men are very, very quiet when the question of banning prayer, the Sermon on the Mount, the Ten Commandments and even part of the "Star-Spangled Banner" from our schools is raised.

Seeking Cousin

El Centro, Calif.

I have read where occasionally the newspapers have been able to locate people whom no one has seen for several years.

I am trying to locate a cousin. At one time Betty Lou Barr had grandparents by the last name of Carter living in Lincoln. Her mother's maiden name was Evelyn Carter and her father was Paul W. Barr. He was in newspaper work about 1929.

This girl is not a missing person, but I have heard so much about her that I would like to know more about her.

No Holds Barred

Lincoln, Neb.

I read a letter from one of The Star's readers on December 15, opposed to censorship in the issue, in Lincoln's public schools, regarding the book, "To Kill A Mocking Bird."

This letter said the Bible mentions suggestive and immoral things, too, but I want to present the other side of the issue.

What one is so fast to say about the Bible may be only in the critic's mind. I don't feel that the incidents in the Bible should be compared with the incidents mentioned in "To Kill A Mocking Bird" because one would have to compare both books. Does the Bible mention in the same way that contemporary books do those matters which pertain to all the desires, emotions, passions and senses of a man just to make it seem desirable?

There is a big difference between the mere mention of something and leaving nothing to the imagination. I believe in Bible inspiration, but it isn't technical enough to appear like a guided tour on depravity. And our contemporary books do appear in this light, doing all to hold the reader's interest, no holds barred.

Kids Not Gun-Minded

It is popularly believed that small American boys are war crazy and generally go into heavy action Christmas morning. They no more than get the latest plastic weapon unwrapped than they do in grandma with a shower of missiles. Later they get grandpa strategically by flanking him with a regiment or so of toy soldiers.

While this is going on toy workshops are flying overhead dropping ping pong bombs into the gravy and dressing.

At least this is the picture the toy makers are strenuously trying to destroy. They say it isn't so. We gather that far more children are learning to cheat playing Peter Coddle than are picking up a war temperament through toy guns.

The Toy Manufacturer's Association has released the result of a study which shows that only 5 percent of the toys purchased by dollar volume are toy guns. Far more children rejoice over riding toys, non-riding toys, dolls and games.

One gathers from the temper of the study that it is the adult population that's overdoing the armament business. Half our national budget, something like $50 billion annually, goes into weapons. So who is beefing the young fry for getting only 5 percent of their Christmas toys as weapons?

But to get back to the dangers and joys of childhood. Wheel goods get 22 percent of the toy dollar and sporting goods demand 12 percent.

Dolls are the perennial favorite of little girls upon which they can lavish love, affection and dominance without any back talk.

The nation should be relieved by the toy association's survey. There seems to be no danger of the American family being blown to bits by our militant young fry.

Any Port In Storm

Perhaps you have heard about such things in connection with the flights of Geminis 6 and 7 as the fuel cell which created a water problem. The cell generates electricity by the chemical reaction of hydrogen and oxygen.

You probably know about that because it was a fairly well publicized malfunction. You knew about and maybe you understood it all and maybe you didn't. Most of us are greatly awed by the fantastic complexity of the entire space operation.

And yet, it has its strictly human side. Another malfunction occurred in Gemini 7 which not too much was made of. The astronauts found that they could not rewind one of their tape recorders. The recorders pick up data from the spacecraft and send it back to earth.

After some conversation between earth and astronauts about the recorder trouble, earth ground control suggested: "If all else fails, we'd like you just to kick it a couple of times." One of the astronauts did so but without luck. "You didn't kick hard enough," he was told by ground control.

The thought to kick the recorder is a thought that might well have occurred to any of us. Even we non-scientific laymen can understand the value of a well placed kick. Even if it doesn't work, it does wonders for your state of mind.

Had we been at ground control, we might even have offered a little more advice such as turning the recorder upside down and giving it a good shaking. It's good to know that nothing is yet so complex that there isn't room enough for good humor and a little plain old human nature.

The Wrong Idea

Several Michigan college students, going to school under draft deferments, were reclassified 1-A by their local draft boards after they had participated in a sit-in to protest the Viet Nam struggle. They were arrested, convicted and punished for trespassing.

We understand that the Michigan draft boards involved also notified boards of other states of the court action against nonresident participants. We presume there was an implied suggestion for draft reclassification in it.

A great many Americans do not approve of these marches and sit-ins and will be inclined to support the draft boards. Just the same it is an unwise move and certainly no service to the military branches. The young people who were arrested were punished for their law breaking. There is no reason for draft boards to make military service an additional punishment. The Selective Service act is for the purpose of national defense and not punishment. It is a question whether these resentful young people will contribute more than a morale problem for the armed forces. Certainly not many of them in their aggravated state of mind can become good soldiers or sailors. Morale is as important as training in the molding of a good combat outfit. For this reason Selective Service should not become a punitive measure.

If in the majority opinion the penalties for such demonstrations as a few youth are making are not severe enough, then more stringent laws should be passed in keeping with established constitutional guarantees. Certainly it is not good for our defense establishment to load it with dissident young people. That is like trying to cure smallpox by infecting a great number of people.

Erhard Chose The White House

WASHINGTON — It was a bit of a blow to LBJ's famed hospitality that Chancellor Ludwig Erhard didn't want to meet him again at the Texas ranch. Their first meeting in December 1963 took place at the ranch, and Lady Bird had gone out of her way to make the chancellor of Germany feel at home.

She put a book on Erhard's bedside table, "Pioneers in God's Hills," describing the German colonization of Texas. She had Pierre Salinger secure the longest, fattest cigars. She prepared Quiche Lorraine, a cheese custard pie, one of the Chancellor's favorites, and when he arrived at the ranch house a big picture of him was on the front porch together with the German greeting "wilkommen."

During their talks the new President of the United States took the new Chancellor of Germany deer-watching, for a tour in his convertible, and to church services where the pastor preached in both English and German.

Prior to his present trip, however, Erhard made it clear that he didn't want to go to Texas. He wanted the additional press coverage of a formal visit at the White House. That's what he's getting now.

Johnson and Erhard know each other quite well. They have had four talks, and the President almost feels as if he could get along without the interpreter. Erhard speaks English, though haltingly; and Johnson used to speak German as a boy but has forgotten most of it. So they will rely on an interpreter, which handicaps the President because he likes to deal in direct, persuasive, personal conversation.

Erhard not only likes the President, but is grateful to Johnson for his support, which has gone much further than most people realize. In the summer of 1964, when Erhard was having trouble inside his own Christian Democratic party, LBJ came to his rescue.

☆ ☆ ☆

The incident occurred after President De Gaulle had called on the new chancellor, found him rather vague about German-French relations, and not as cooperative as his predecessor, Konrad Adenauer. When De Gaulle later reported this to Adenauer, there was criticism inside the party and Erhard was asked to attend a party meeting in Munich to report on his behavior.

Prior to the meeting, Erhard seemed worried. When he entered the room, however, he was cocky.

There was good reason. For the new chancellor pulled a letter from his pocket from Lyndon Johnson stressing the joint aims of the United States and Germany.

That ended the intra-party rebellion.

Red Tape Prevents Quick A-Bomb Use

WASHINGTON — While the Russians seem only mildly uneasy that the German air force has been approved to carry American A-bombs, some of Germany's NATO allies appear to be in downright panic. The extent of precautions taken to prevent overzealousness by the Luftwaffe must be somewhat embarrassing to the new Germany and its leaders.

It takes several hours to study the long list of checks and counterchecks, but, as nearly as I can figure it, if Russia attacks the free world, this is what would have to happen before German A-bomb planes could help NATO:

The German air force would ask the American Army guarding the atomic weapon stockpile in Germany for some A-bombs, quick. The U.S. commander in Germany would check with NATO and then ask the Joint Chiefs back in Washington about it. The Joint Chiefs would ask the President and he would say, "Y'all hold everything, I'd best ask De Gaulle and the British."

☆ ☆ ☆

Some time will be saved here because, as war broke out in Europe, De Gaulle will have fled to England. LBJ will be able to speak to the British and French leaders at the same time. The Prime Minister will give his O.K. and De Gaulle will say he is prepared to lead an America army to free France, if it should fall. The President will call the Joint Chiefs back and they will tell the U.S. commander in Germany to give some A-bombs to the Germans.

The Luftwaffe will hurry the bombs over to its planes, but will be turned away by American soldiers guarding the German aircraft. The Luftwaffe will ask the U.S. commander to remove his soldiers, he will ask the Joint Chiefs, they will ask the President, etc. Eventually, the American soldiers will step aside and the bombs will be loaded.

However, A-bombs will not explode unless activated by a secret radio signal. The fail-safe mechanism is that the signal must be sent simultaneously by a U.S. specialist and a NATO representative. After another frantic exchange of communiques, the bombs will get their first, primary arming. The Luftwaffe must then seek permission to take off. Once this is gotten, the runways must be cleared of obstacles placed there by NATO to prevent a madman from stealing a bomber.

Once aloft (and, so help me, this plan was announced last week), the German squadron leader will request their final activation by another radio signal from NATO headquarters. This must be approved by the U.S. President. Provided there are no delays, permission will come shortly. The German planes will at last be on their way.

Perhaps we shouldn't judge too harshly NATO's nervousness where Germany is concerned. In the past the Luftwaffe has had an unsettling way of appearing over a country several days prior to a declaration of war. On the other hand, it is estimated that World War III will last only 45 minutes; the German air force may miss the war by an hour and a half.

90% Of American People Favor Draft, Survey Reveals

By LOUIS HARRIS

As the manpower needs for Viet Nam mount, the draft is now favored by 90% of the American people. Nonetheless, 7% of the public still believe that college students should receive deferments until they have completed their education, despite the rather wide association made between anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators and students.

Harris

Part of the reason for this is that Viet Nam is not quite looked upon as a full-scale war; part is the conviction that college graduates can be highly useful in the armed forces after graduation. But the chief reason is that the deep respect for a college degree simply takes precedence over national service in the war in Viet Nam.

One in five Americans believes that a majority of college students oppose the draft. (An earlier study of a cross section of college students showed that only 36% actually were opposed to the draft.)

The cross section of the public was asked: "Most undergraduate college students are deferred from the draft until they have completed their college education. Do you approve or disapprove of deferring college students from the draft?"

	Approve	Disapprove	Not Sure
Nation-wide	71%	19%	10%
By education
Eighth grade or less	57%	28%	15%
High school	71%	19%	10%
College	85%	9%	6%

REASONS BEHIND VIEWS ON COLLEGE DEFERMENTS

	Total Nation
Why favor deferring:	71%
Education comes ahead of military	23%
Only if students are doing well	17%
College graduates useful to military	14%
If leave school, may never go back	11%
Good jobs depend on college	3%
Future leaders are in college	2%

Why oppose deferring:	19%
All able-bodied should fight	10%
Can get education after war	3%
Students no better than others	3%
Some there to avoid draft	2%
Rich can buy way out	1%
Not sure	10%

But even though college is considered a special achievement in this country, most Americans agree that all able-bodied young men should eventually be subject to the draft. The number in favor of the draft has risen sharply since earlier this year.

Back in March and again in December, cross sections of the public were asked: "Do you feel that all young men who are able-bodied should be eligible to be drafted for military service (or offered noncombat service for religious reasons) or do you oppose the draft?"

	December Nation	March Nation
Favor draft	90%	64%
Oppose draft	5%	29%
Not sure	5%	7%

As the demands of the fighting men in Viet Nam have heightened, the public has responded with a willingness to send its young men into military service. This, of course, is the way it has always been in this country.

"Without such effective teamwork, an estimated 560 to 660 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the three-day Christmas weekend from 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 23, to midnight Sunday, Dec. 26, the council said.

"Individual driving caution and effective police action against law violators could hold deaths down to near 470, the number of persons who would be killed if the same three days were not a holiday," the council said.

It also estimated that between 26,000 and 31,000 persons would suffer disabling injuries over the Christmas weekend as compared to 22,000 during a comparable non-holiday period.

Travel over the Christmas period is expected to reach about 11.3 billion vehicle-miles, compared to 8.9 for a normal weekend, the council said.

Disney Gets Bid For $35 Million 'Alpine Village'

Washington (UPI) — Walt Disney Productions was selected over five other bidders to build a $35 million "Alpine Village" in the Mineral-King area of the Sequoia National Forest in California.

Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said the Disney group soon will be issued a preliminary permit to work on the high Sierra ski resort and recreation project.

It then will have three years to complete detailed development plans, Freeman said. If these are satisfactory a 30-year permit will be granted.

The cross section of the public was asked: "Most undergraduate college students are deferred from the draft until they have completed their college education. Do you approve or disapprove of deferring college students from the draft?"

A large gulf exists between the views on the draft question of the less well-educated and those with college backgrounds. Still, a majority of all groups approves of deferring students.

When asked the reasons for their feelings about deferring men at college, the underlying motivation of the American people emerged.

In Kingsport, Tenn., a 37-year-old service repairman with five children objects to college deferment: "Some young people can't afford to go to college. If you think about it, the poor are being penalized, the lives of the rich being saved."

But this is a minority view. In Adamsville, Ala., a 50-year-old housewife said, "The better a man's education, the better serviceman he'll make." In Andover, N.Y., a lathe operator said, "Education is too important to be interrupted, even for a war. You can't get ahead without an education." A clerk in a department store in Mason City, Iowa, said, "If they're getting good grades, are serious, they should be deferred. Otherwise, they'll never go back afterward."

When all of the volunteered reasons were added up, here is the pattern of answers:

	Approve	Disapprove	Not Sure
Nation-wide	71%	19%	10%

Chicago (UPI)—The National Safety Council said that teamwork between the man behind the wheel and the man behind the badge could hold down Christmas holiday traffic deaths.

Father Asks LBJ To Allow Son To Return For Holiday

Franklin Square, N. Y. (AP) — A Long Island father has sent a telegram to President Johnson asking him to "give my son the same consideration you are giving the Cuban refugees."

Henry McKay said he sent the telegram when he learned that his son, Dennis, 19, was scheduled to be sent from the Fort Dix, N. J., Army induction center to Camp Hood, Tex., four days before Christmas.

"What is he going to do in Texas, except get issued some gear and then be given a three day pass to nowhere," McKay said. "Why can't they leave him and the rest of the boys in his barracks at Fort Dix until the day after Christmas and then send them to Texas?"

Normandy Veteran

In his telegram to the President, McKay, a veteran of the Normandy Invasion of World War II, said: "Give my son the same consideration you are giving the Cuban refugees. I missed five Christmases serving this country during World War II. I want him home."

McKay recalled that "the President expressed a desire some time ago to see Cuban refugees reunited with their families in this country by Christmas."

He said there are about 30 boys in his son's barracks who are under orders to be sent to Texas Dec. 21, and added: "I'm not doing this only for my son. He told me when I visited the camp yesterday that either all the fellows in his barracks get their orders delayed or none."

'Somebody Goofed'

"I'm 100% in favor of our stand in Viet Nam," McKay said. "I am proud and delighted that my son can fulfill his military duty.

"I'm not fighting the Army or the President. It's just that somebody goofed in cutting these orders. They just didn't think about Christmas.

"Let's face it, this might be the last Christmas he will ever get to spend in the states—why make him spend it sitting alone in some tiny Texas town with nothing to do?"

Erhard, Advisers Arrive For Meeting With LBJ On NATO

Washington (UPI) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, ready to "give and take," arrived Sunday for talks with President Johnson on the future of the North Atlantic defense shield.

Erhard was welcomed at the start of his three-day visit by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He will see Johnson Monday.

The West German leader expressed his country's full solidarity with the United States on Viet Nam and extended heartfelt sympathy to Am ican families who have suffered because of the fighting. He also praised the achievement of the U.S. Gemini spacemen.

As for the problems of the western alliance, Erhard said he was seeking "fair solutions of give and take." But he did not go into detail about the delicate issues of nuclear weapons control expected to dominate the discussions here.

Erhard and a team of top-level advisers were expected to lay out in detail during discussions Monday and Tuesday West Germany's proposals for management of NATO's nuclear weaponry.

The chancellor was to see the President at least three times. Foreign Affairs Minister Gerhard Schroeder and Defense Minister Kai-uwe Von Hassel scheduled meetings with their American counterparts, Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

NO LETUP IN CHRISTMAS RUSH

The Post Office remained open Sunday to accommodate persons wanting to mail Christmas packages—and the response was huge. A total of 92 persons were in line when the top picture was made. Postal officials misjudged the response to their Sunday opening and had to open a second window to cut down waiting time. Meanwhile a special space at the Fairgrounds was being used, bottom, to sort packages. It was operating at full steam Sunday, too. (Star Photos.)

Wanted Man Arrested By Alliance Cop

Alliance (AP)—A 24-year-old man was in custody here Sunday after he attempted to pull a gun as a police officer sought to arrest him in connection with a federal warrant on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Box Butte County Attorney John Anderson identified the man as Andrew Edward Giambuzzi, 24, of Philadelphia, Pa.

He said the federal warrant was in connection with an El Paso, Tex., robbery. Anderson said he had also talked to Las Cruces, N.Mex., authorities who were investigating a robbery-murder of a service station Dec. 4.

Anderson said that Giambuzzi pulled a snub nosed revolver when police Sgt. Charles Weston sought to arrest him. During the struggle for the gun, one shot was fired.

Anderson said the weapon had been sent to Washington D.C. for comparison tests in connection with the Las Cruces case.

Giambuzzi appeared in county court Saturday on charges of assault with intent to kill, wound or maim, carrying a concealed weapon, and interfering with a police officer. He requested the court to appoint an attorney and the case was set over until Monday. Anderson said bond was set at $3,000.

Anderson said he had no details on either the Texas or the New Mexico cases.

President Buys Ticket

Rio De Janeiro (AP)— Brazilian President Humberto Castello Branco and his military advisers have joined forces to buy a ticket in the Christmas lottery. Sources say Castello Branco and his friends put up $67.50 in the hope of winning $900.

Two Persons Hurt In 2-Car Crash On Cornhusker

A two-car head-on collision at about 33rd and Cornhusker injured two persons.

Police said Victor A. Tooley, 13, of 1621 No. 29th and Velma E. Gammel, 66, of 430 No. 24th were treated and released from Lincoln General Hospital for injuries suffered.

The accident occurred when a car driven by James R. Frederick, 19, of 2649 No. Cotner, which was eastbound on Cornhusker, collided with a car westbound on Cornhusker driven by Allen R. Tooley, 58, of 1621 No. 29th.

The injured were passengers in the Tooley vehicle.

Father Asks LBJ To Allow Son To Return For Holiday

Franklin Square, N. Y. (AP) — A Long Island father has sent a telegram to President Johnson asking him to "give my son the same consideration you are giving the Cuban refugees."

Henry McKay said he sent the telegram when he learned that his son, Dennis, 19, was scheduled to be sent from the Fort Dix, N. J., Army induction center to Camp Hood, Tex., four days before Christmas.

"What is he going to do in Texas, except get issued some gear and then be given a three day pass to nowhere," McKay said. "Why can't they leave him and the rest of the boys in his barracks at Fort Dix until the day after Christmas and then send them to Texas?"

Normandy Veteran

In his telegram to the President, McKay, a veteran of the Normandy Invasion of World War II, said: "Give my son the same consideration you are giving the Cuban refugees. I missed five Christmases serving this country during World War II. I want him home."

McKay recalled that "the President expressed a desire some time ago to see Cuban refugees reunited with their families in this country by Christmas."

He said there are about 30 boys in his son's barracks who are under orders to be sent to Texas Dec. 21, and added: "I'm not doing this only for my son. He told me when I visited the camp yesterday that either all the fellows in his barracks get their orders delayed or none."

'Somebody Goofed'

"I'm 100% in favor of our stand in Viet Nam," McKay said. "I am proud and delighted that my son can fulfill his military duty.

"I'm not fighting the Army or the President. It's just that somebody goofed in cutting these orders. They just didn't think about Christmas.

"Let's face it, this might be the last Christmas he will ever get to spend in the states—why make him spend it sitting alone in some tiny Texas town with nothing to do?"

Desegregation Suits Set, Even Against Districts Refusing U.S. Aid

Washington (AP)— The Justice Department plans desegregation suits in the next few weeks against a number of school districts, including some that have rejected federal funds in an effort to preserve segregation.

John Doar, assistant attorney general in charge of the department's civil rights division, disclosed this Sunday and said that merely refusing federal funds does not free a school district from the obligation to obey the laws against segregation.

Speaking on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation," Doar said:

"If they don't do it voluntarily, we'll have to turn to the courts to require them to desegregate."

Refused To Apply

The 1964 Civil Rights Act requires the withholding of federal assistance funds from educational and other programs in which segregation is practiced. Hundreds of Southern school districts have adopted desegregation plans to avoid this penalty but a few have simply refused to apply for funds.

Doar didn't spell out how many cases will be involved or what states are included in the expected legal action.

There has been criticism by some civil rights leaders that the Justice Department has been moving too slowly in this field.

Doar estimated that the department has moved against about 25 or 26 school districts this year.

No 'Massive Effort'

When pressed as to whether he thinks this is a "massive effort," Doar conceded it is not, but he asserted that when one suit is brought, other localities "get the message" and this helps bring about voluntary compliance.

"You don't get respect for the law by suing everybody," Doar argued.

He said the South in general has made remarkable progress in eliminating the school caste system, but he is "not at all satisfied" with what's being done in the North, particularly in providing equality in the quality of education for Negroes and whites.

On the problems of equal justice and jury selection in the South, Doar said studies are being made to determine whether better laws are needed and Justice Department proposals are expected to be ready by the time Congress gets back to discuss such a legislative program.

POSTCARD — by Stan Kallenberger

A frosty evening in our suburban acres. The hillsides are aglow with window squares of Christmas tree lights. The clear, chill night is fragrant with the smell of blazing oak drifting from the chimneys.

We're all waiting for Santa Claus — I imagine he's equipped for radar landings these electronic days.

It's a well-ordered community. All of us keeping up with the mortgages. Our children's teeth expensively braced against a hopeful future. Life insurance against the inevitable. And modest bank accounts sandbagging time's erosion.

It's a foxhole.

One of the Christmas tree lights went out. It's the old string. If one goes, they all go.

You must then start with the first light—hot as a baked potato—and unscrew it. Put in a fresh one. And so down the line until you replace the one that burned out.

It's an Italian import, this string of lights. We could buy American lights that don't all go out at once. Just one at a time. But no.

"This is a darling string of IMPORTED lights," says the lady showing off the scatter to her friends. "They seem to be out now. But Joe will fix it. Joe? Were are you?"

Joe is in the kitchen, nipping the cooking sherry. Merry Christmas, Joe. Come in and burn your pinkies.

☆ ☆ ☆

We are hung on the tether of the power company. I read in the paper that the astronauts are ready to climb grandly into space.

What happens? Some lug unplugged an ordinary socket plug. The whole flight is scrubbed with lift-off smoke boiling under the rocket.

When power fails in a storm, we are like the Princess in the sleeping magic castle.

The refrigerator stops humming. The oven stops baking. The washing machine churns to a soggy halt. The coffee stops boiling, and the bacon stops frying.

The lights go out. The TV is blank and silent. The freezer warms up—spoiling the deep-frozen salmon. The automatic furnace goes off.

We live on a mighty thin thread of wire.

When the juice goes off these days, I am powerless. Was a time in leaner days the company shut me down for lack of payment. Power companies are very strict on the payoff.

I learned to live briefly with candles. And to cook hamburgers in the fireplace over wooden coat hangers.

These days if the power goes off, it's because of wire failure. What companies like to put in the fine print as "an Act of God." All big companies put in the contract that they aren't responsible for acts of the Almighty — an attitude they'll have to account for on Judgment Day.

The idea is you can't sue big companies if you're cut off but not on purpose. That's the corporate point of it.

☆ ☆ ☆

Since we are hung up on this imported string of lights, you'd think we'd have extra bulbs. But no.

We HAD extra bulbs when we put them away last year.

"Did you look in the tool box?"

That's a good question. Why would I look in the tool box? This box is for tools—which are constantly disappearing, I might add.

"Look in the box in the garage. Where we put the tulip bulbs."

Anyone can see the logic of that. Tulip bulbs. Christmas tree bulbs. File under "bulbs."

☆ ☆ ☆

The bulbs have disappeared. (And people who buy such imports take no responsibility for such things.)

I shook the string. And for some reason, the lights came on again.

The visiting ladies said they were absolutely adorable. They said it was wonderful what beautiful things you get from Italy.

A Stamp Collector? Then pictures and news of new and old Stamps in the "Sunday Journal and Star's" "Stamp News" column is a must.

Do your Christmas driving early.

In the hustle and bustle of getting ready for the holidays, give yourself time to get ready for your holiday travel. The drivers at the General Motors Proving Grounds suggest you set out early enough to avoid the rush, both going and coming home.

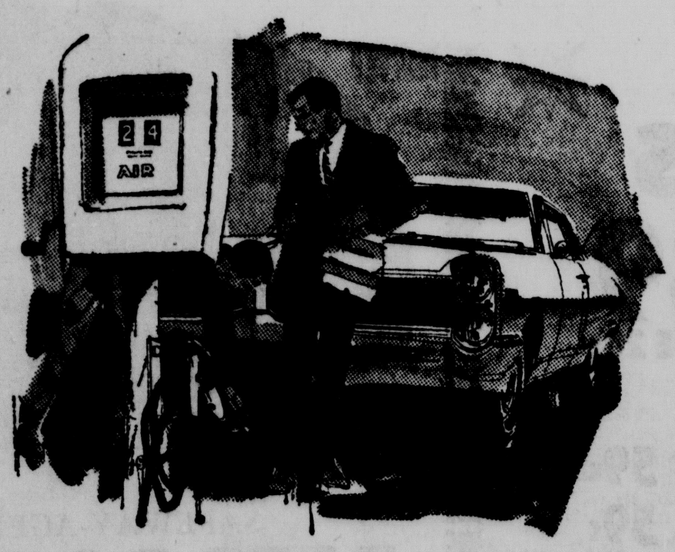

Here are some of their tips to help make your trip safer and more enjoyable.

Some things to check before you leave

If you've missed your regular inspection, ask an expert to make these pre-trip checks.

- ☐ Examine the battery, oil, cooling system and exhaust system.
- ☐ Test the steering, brakes and headlight aim.
- ☐ Inspect the tires for proper pressure, cuts and signs of excessive wear.
- ☐ Test the defroster, windshield washers and wipers.

They're all important.

How to plan ahead

Look over your maps before you leave. When your route is outlined and reviewed ahead of time, it's easier to spot areas that call for extra alertness. Try to anticipate detours, rush hours, and meals. Remember also to check the weather situation ahead.

Winter changes the rules

One of the things our test drivers watch out for is moisture. Highways can be extremely treacherous with a thin coating of water, ice or snow over them.

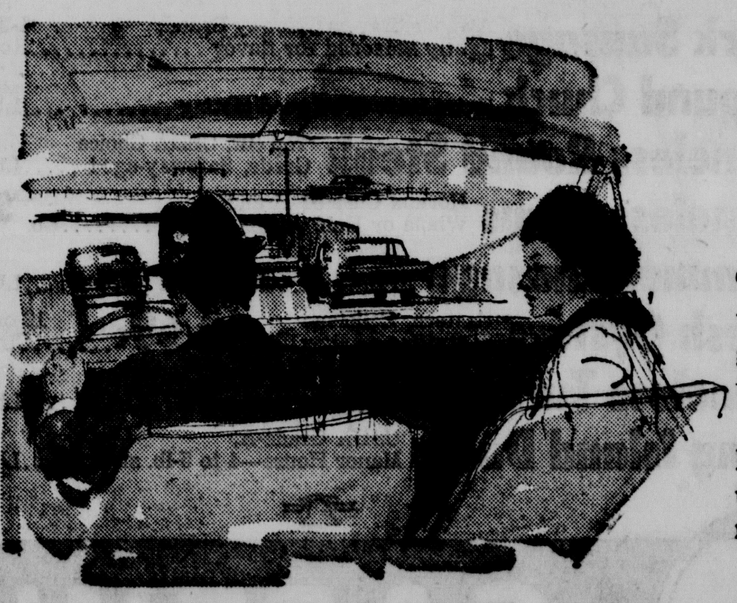

Test your steering and braking. Increase the distance between yourself and the car in front—and let "tailgaters" pass. At the first sign of bad weather, slow down.

Watch the shady side of the street

Ice and snow last longer in the shadows, under and on overpasses and bridges. If you're likely to encounter ice or snow, remember snow tires or chains. Carrying an ice scraper is a good idea, too.

Give yourself a break

1. Stop at the first sign of fatigue or at least every two hours.
2. Get out of the car at rest areas and walk around.
3. On the road, listen to the radio and change stations frequently. It can help you stay alert.

4. Fresh air also helps. Keep it circulating throughout the car.

Travel the freeways whenever you can. They're designed to handle traffic more safely and quickly.

As the sun goes down, new problems come up

GM drivers know that twilight and darkness create some unique driving problems. Here are some of their reminders:

- ☐ Driving with parking lights alone is dangerous. Other drivers may be deceived—they think you are farther away than you actually are.
- ☐ Keep your headlights clean.

- ☐ Turn them on at the very first sign of darkness or poor visibility.
- ☐ Use bright lights prudently, dimming quickly for oncoming cars or cars you're overtaking.
- ☐ Bright lights are less effective in fog or falling snow. They reflect more glare, causing distortion and even poorer visibility.

A parting thought

That old reminder to buckle up your seat belts is still very important. Be comfortable, but be sure they're good and snug. And, of course, stay buckled up for the whole trip.

After 335 millions miles, the drivers at the General Motors Proving Grounds have found these guidelines to be helpful, effective. We hope you'll keep them in mind over the holidays.

And have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

One of the Christmas tree lights went out It's the old string. If one goes, they all go

You must then start with the first light—hot as a baked potato—and unscrew it. Put in a fresh one. And so down the line until you replace the one that burned out.

It's an Italian import, this string of lights. We could buy American lights that don't all go out at once. Just one at a time. But no.

"This is a darling string of IMPORTED lights," says the lady showing off the scatter to her friends. "They seem to be out now. But Joe will fix it. Joe? Were are you?"

Joe is in the kitchen, nipping the cooking sherry. Merry Christmas, Joe. Come in and burn your pinkies

☆ ☆ ☆

We are hung on the tether of the power company. I read in the paper that the astronauts are ready to climb grandly into space.

What happens? Some lug unplugged an ordinary socket plug. The whole flight is scrubbed with lift-off smoke boiling under the rocket.

When power fails in a storm, we are like the Princess in the sleeping magic castle.

The refrigerator stops humming. The oven stops baking. The washing machine churns to a soggy halt The coffee stops boiling, and the bacon stops frying.

The lights go out. The TV is blank and silent. The freezer warms up—spoiling the deep-frozen salmon The automatic furnace goes off

We live on a mighty thin thread of wire.

When the juice goes off these days, I am powerless. Was a time in leaner days the company shut me down for lack of payment. Power companies are very strict on the payoff.

I learned to live briefly with candles. And to cook hamburgers in the fireplace over wooden coat hangers.

These days if the power goes off, it's because of wire failure. What companies like to put in the fine print as "an Act of God" All big companies put in the contract that they aren't responsible for acts of the Almighty — an attitude they'll have to account for on Judgment Day

The idea is you can't sue big companies if you're cut off but not on purpose. That's the corporate point of it.

☆ ☆ ☆

Since we are hung up on this imported string of lights, you'd think we'd have extra bulbs. But no.

We HAD extra bulbs when we put them away last year.

"Did you look in the tool box?"

That's a good question. Why would I look in the tool box? This box is for tools—which are constantly disappearing, I might add.

"Look in the box in the garage. Where we put the tulip bulbs."

Anyone can see the logic of that. Tulip bulbs. Christmas tree bulbs. File under "bulbs."

☆ ☆ ☆

The bulbs have disappeared. (And people who buy such imports take no responsibility for such things.)

I shook the string. And for some reason, the lights came on again.

The visiting ladies said they were absolutely adorable. They said it was wonderful what beautiful things you get from Italy.

Do your Christmas driving early.

In the hustle and bustle of getting ready for the holidays, give yourself time to get ready for your holiday travel. The drivers at the General Motors Proving Grounds suggest you set out early enough to avoid the rush, both going and coming home.

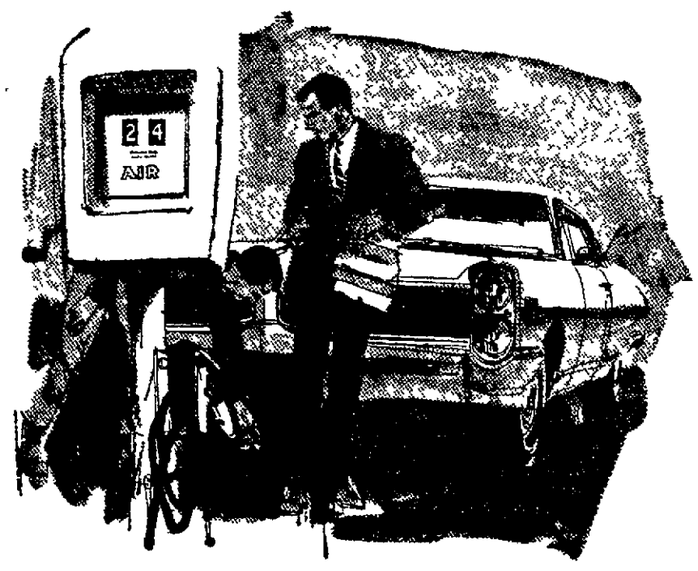

Here are some of their tips to help make your trip safer and more enjoyable.

Some things to check before you leave

If you've missed your regular inspection, ask an expert to make these pre-trip checks.

- ☐ Examine the battery, oil, cooling system and exhaust system.
- ☐ Test the steering, brakes and headlight aim.
- ☐ Inspect the tires for proper pressure, cuts and signs of excessive wear.
- ☐ Test the defroster, windshield washers and wipers.

They're all important.

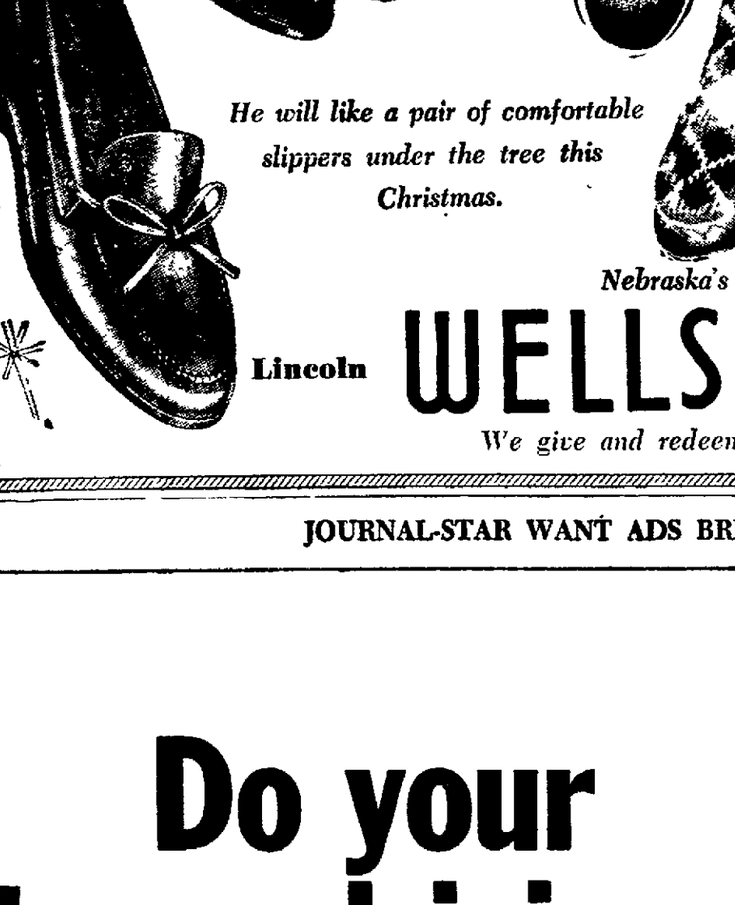

How to plan ahead

Look over your maps before you leave. When your route is outlined and reviewed ahead of time, it's easier to spot areas that call for extra alertness. Try to anticipate detours, rush hours, and meals. Remember also to check the weather situation ahead.

Winter changes the rules

One of the things our test drivers watch out for is moisture. Highways can be extremely treacherous with a thin coating of water, ice or snow over them.

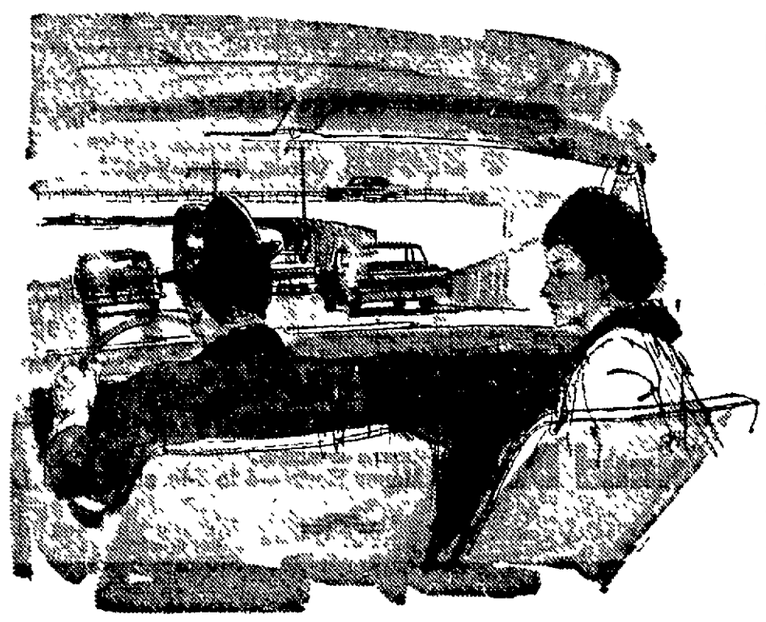

Test your steering and braking. Increase the distance between yourself and the car in front—and let "tailgaters" pass. At the first sign of bad weather, slow down.

Watch the shady side of the street

Ice and snow last longer in the shadows, under and on overpasses and bridges. If you're likely to encounter ice or snow, remember snow tires or chains. Carrying an ice scraper is a good idea, too.

Give yourself a break

1. Stop at the first sign of fatigue or at least every two hours.
2. Get out of the car at rest areas and walk around.
3. On the road, listen to the radio and change stations frequently. It can help you stay alert.

4. Fresh air also helps. Keep it circulating throughout the car.

Travel the freeways whenever you can. They're designed to handle traffic more safely and quickly.

As the sun goes down, new problems come up

GM drivers know that twilight and darkness create some unique driving problems. Here are some of their reminders:

- ☐ Driving with parking lights alone is dangerous. Other drivers may be deceived—they think you are farther away than you actually are.
- ☐ Keep your headlights clean.

- ☐ Turn them on at the very first sign of darkness or poor visibility.
- ☐ Use bright lights prudently, dimming quickly for oncoming cars or cars you're overtaking.
- ☐ Bright lights are less effective in fog or falling snow. They reflect more glare, causing distortion and even poorer visibility.

A parting thought

That old reminder to buckle up your seat belts is still very important. Be comfortable, but be sure they're good and snug. And, of course, stay buckled up for the whole trip.

After 335 millions miles, the drivers at the General Motors Proving Grounds have found these guidelines to be helpful, effective. We hope you'll keep them in mind over the holidays.

And have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

General Motors Proving Grounds

Red Terror Plan Is Told In Indonesia

Singapore (AP) — The Indonesian Communist Party planned to murder and mutilate tens of thousands during a massive terror campaign if its coup attempt had succeeded last October, highly reliable sources reported here Sunday.

American, British and other western diplomats and their families would have been victims of the campaign, they said. This was the story they reported:

Details of the campaign were uncovered recently by the Indonesian Army in the diaries of some 600 Communist Party cadres. Information of the contents of the diaries was brought here by diplomats.

Terror Campaign

The diaries reveal that the terror campaign would have been launched after the murder of top-ranking Army generals Oct. 1.

Seven generals including Army Chief Achmad Yani, were killed by the communists but the communist-backed coup was crushed soon after it was launched by forces loyal to defense minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution.

The diaries disclose that the campaign would have run from Oct. 2 to 5, culminating in the public execution of 600 "Kabirs" in Merdeka Square in the Indonesain capital Jakarta. "Kabir" is an Indonesian Communist word meaning "bureaucratic capitalist."

The diaries indicate the campaign would have been confined to the greater Jakarta area. But the 105 million people of this sprawling archipelago nation—fifth largest in the world—are controlled from Jakarta, the seat of government.

Mutilation

The diaries stipulated which victims of the campaign were to be killed and which to be mutilated. The most frequent mutilation mentioned was eye-gouging.

The sources said all Communist Party cadres had orders to keep detailed diaries of their daily activities. The party hierarchy used these as a method to check the cadres' diligence and dedication.

The diaries as reported here — show that the party build up a detailed picture of the whole of the greater Jakarta area before the coup attempt so the terror campaign could be launched effectively. This picture was built up by each cell of cadres, consisting of four to six men. Each was allotted a small area of the city to cover.

They had to list each house in their area and provide the names of occupants, with personality notes on heads of families. Particular stress was placed on getting the political beliefs of the occupants of each house.

Lists of visitors to these houses were compiled and in some of the diaries ground plan sketches of certain homes, with bedrooms and even the occupants carefully marked. The diaries listed tens of thousands of these occupants for "treatment."

Some of them also listed "Neocolim" diplomats and their families as potential victims of the campaign. "Neocolim" is a coined word meaning neocolonialists, colonialists and imperialists. The United States, Britain and several other western and pro-western countries were dubbed "Neocolim" by the communists.

Goldie, right, the London Zoo eagle who dislikes being cooped up, is back on a limb again with its mate, Regina, following its capture Sunday after four days of freedom. Scientists Use Eels To Research Blood Pressure Control In Humans

London (AP) — Believe it or not, eels have blood pressure, just like humans.

And scientists at St. Mary's Hospital in London are carrying out research on the blood pressure of eels to see if it has any bearing on the way blood pressure is controlled in man. The scientists haven't said yet whether eels get high blood pressure.

Why eels?

"It's because they have this special little gland," said Prof. William Peart. "It's called the gland of stanius and there's nothing quite like it in the rest of the animal world."

Peart, who is in charge of the medical unit at St. Mary's where much of the research is being carried out, added:

"The gland is outside the kidney of the eel. It helps to adjust the salt balance in the eel's body when it makes its annual change from fresh water to salt water and back again.

"An interesting fact is that when you inject another animal with substance from this special eel gland the animal's blood pressure goes up.

"We know very little at present about what causes high blood pressure in humans. We just never find the cause in most cases.

"We do know that the adrenal gland in people is involved in high blood pressure, and we know there's a link with the kidney. We hope the eel with its peculiar extra gland will teach us more."

Research assistants at the hospital go to London's famous Billingsgate fish market to get their eels — hundreds of them.

If the scientists are successful it could be that the business executive of the future will owe his moderate blood pressure to the common eel.

Genius Found In School For Retarded

Tulsa, Okla. (UPI) — The story of how a 17-year-old boy with the IQ of a genius spent 12 years in a school for mentally retarded unfolded here Sunday.

Doctors discovered there was nothing wrong with the boy's mind. He was deaf. As a result, he will start a new life in a school for the deaf, where he will begin instruction at the primer level.

Case records show the deaf genius was admitted to the Enid, Okla., State School for Mentally Retarded when he was five years old. Recently he was transferred to the Hissom Memorial Center near here, a modern new school that emphasizes remedial rather than custodial care.

At the former school, doctors said, apparently because he was so bright he soon learned how he thought he was supposed to act—just like mentally retarded children about him.

Frustrated

But frustration kept breaking through and he became a behavior problem. He could not yell to make himself understood, so his only alternative was physical action. This simply solidified the attidue of most of his attendants that his was a hopeless case of retardation.

The Hissom center gives all patients a series of screening tests on admission, but the boy's ability came to light suddenly through a chance incident.

An employe left a transistor radio kit on a table, thinking the boy might like to play with it.

The deaf genius looked at the intricate wiring diagram and assembled the radio. It played perfectly.

Testers searched the boy's records. They noticed he had taught himself to swim a few years earlier simply by watching a swimming exhibition on television.

Like Tiny Child

"He functions at the level of a tiny child," said one.

"Except that he can build electronic wiring models and teach himself to swim with amazing swiftness," observed another.

"Maybe it's not his brain but his ears," said a third.

Earphones were placed over his ears. And the sound was revved up past the normal level of physical pain. He showed no response. He was deaf. Excited attendants then started giving the boy a series of sophisticated intelligence tests. The normal tests for a boy that age would not apply since he could not read.

One of them had the subject duplicate designs of putting colored shapes on a white card after observing them on a flash card.

One test was so difficult it takes a normal person five minutes. The boy did it in one minute.

Dr. N. C. Gaddis, Hissom's medical director, took some of the same tests given the boy.

"The boy beat me to death," he said.

Obvious Conclusion

The conclusion was obvious. The youth was a deaf genius.

Gaddis said one purpose of the institution's screening program is to seek the causes of mental retardation — that one problem may lead to another.

"If you see one birth defect in a child," he said, "you better search pretty diligently because there are probably more."

The boy has been transferred to the State School for the Deaf at Sulphur, Okla., where he will soon discover a new world of learning.

Loser Calls Election Start For Negroes

Raleigh, N.C. (AP) — State Sen. Walter Jones scored a smashing victory in North Carolina's First District Democratic Congressional primary, but a Negro woman who was runner-up said Sunday she feels "this is the starting point for Negroes."

"From here, I think we will grow and have a big voice in future elections," said Mrs. Sarah E. Small, a 38-year-old Williamston housewife and civil rights worker.

Mrs. Small, the state's first Negro Congressional candidate in 64 years and a political newcomer, received 6,021 votes in the 15-county Democratic primary Saturday. There were five candidates.

Farmville

Jones, an office equipment dealer from Farmville, piled up 25,927 votes to win the nomination for the unexpired term of the late Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, who served in Congress 25 years. Bonner died early last month of cancer.

"I was surprised at the margin of victory," Jones said. "I not only had to compete against four candidates but also Santa Claus since many people were busy Christmas shopping."

He carried every county in the district, piling up a large vote in his home county of Pitt. Only in Bertie county did Mrs. Small come close. She lost to Jones there by 25 votes.

The First District is a tobacco and peanut farming area of northwestern North Carolina and has a heavy concentration of negroes although many are not registered to vote. Four of the counties are predominantly non-white.

Not Interested

Negro civil rights leaders had appealed for a Negro bloc vote and Mrs. Small said she was pleased with her vote total "because Negroes don't bother too much with politics."

Floyd McKissick, national chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), managed Mrs. Small's campaign. He was assisted by Golden Frinks, a regional official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

Whether they would support Jones in his race against Republican John East in a special general election Jan 22 was not known. They said the decision had not yet been made.

Jones said he was "sure we got some Negro votes throughout the district," but declined further comment.

Jones, 52, lost by about 6,000 votes in 1960 when he opposed Rep. Bonner and is expected to win the January election. East, a professor of political science at East Carolina College, is a political unknown and the First District traditionally goes Democratic.

Saturday's election results showed former State Rep. Robert Jackson Jr. of Hertford County in third place with 5,504 votes. Fourth was Don Langston, a Winterville banker, with 1,618. Dr. O. Woodrow Pittman an Ahoskie optometrist, finished last with 227 votes.

Jones said he would not resign as a state senator for the time being and would serve in a special legislative session which convenes in Raleigh Jan. 10.

Camera Flash Hurts Brigitte's Eye

New York (AP)—A press agent said that Brigitte Bardot suffered an eye injury early Sunday when a photographer's camera flashed close to her.

The publicist, John Dartique, said the French actress' eye was inflamed and slightly swollen. He said she saw a specialist, but declined to name him.

The incident occurred, Dartique said, as Miss Bardot returned to her hotel about 1 a.m. after attending a party following the premiere of her new movie.

Mrs. Louis Malle, wife of the film's director, said Miss Bardot had blood in the white part of her eye.

Dartique said it was still to be determined whether Miss Bardot will fly to Los Angeles Monday as scheduled. She arrived here Thursday from Paris.

Rhodesia Hikes Royalties On Coal

Salisbury, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia has slapped an additional royalty of five pounds ($14) per short ton on coal delivered to the copper mines of Zambia, Prime Minister Ian Smith announced Sunday night.

He said in a radio address that the increase was introduced "because of the economic sanctions initiated by Mr. (British Prime Minister Harold) Wilson."

In addition, an export tax of eight pounds ($22.40) per ton is being applied on coke.

Smith said the additional income to Rhodesia from these taxes would amount to nearly 10 million pounds ($28 million).

"I hope this will meet our present requirements," he added. "If not, we will have to consider a further increase in the royalty."

Landed in Wrong Place

He spoke as the first British airlift plane carrying oil to beat a Rhodesian blockade reached Lusaka, Zambia. The plane, a Royal Air Force transport carrying 2,370 gallons of diesel fuel, landed in the wrong place and tore a 12-inch deep furrow in the airport tarmac, but without harm to the plane. The flight originated in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania.

In Nairobi, Kenya, meanwhile, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, President Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya and Prime Minister Milton Obote of Uganda met and issued a call for an immediate meeting of the heads of African states to agree on a line of action to meet the Rhodesian problem.

This stems from the Smith regime's declaration of independence Nov. 11, Britain's economic sanctions to break the White government in Salisbury, and pressure from African nations for Britain to take even harder action.

Smith said he regretted the greatest hardship from the increase taxes "will be borne by — not the real culprits, the British governmetnt — but by the people of Zambia."

"However, if it has not been appreciated up to the present, I hope it will be now, that the more we are attacked the more determined, indeed the more defiant, we become.

"We will never, no matter what the cost, allow the forces of evil to break down our type of civilization, which has taken almost 2,000 years to create."

Increased

The price of coal to Zambia ranges between one pound ($2.80) and 25 shillings ($2.50) a ton. Until Friday midnight the royalty charged was about one shilling (14 cents) a ton. This has now been increased to $14 a ton.

Smith said the effect of the economic warfare between Zambia and Rhodesia would be more harmful to Zambia than to Rhodesia. Unless she can bring coal from South Africa by an extremely circuitous route through the Portuguese territory of Angola, Zambia must have Rhodesian coal to keep her copper mines —her greatest assets — operating.

Smith has threatened to raise the railway rates for carrying copper from landlocked Zambia through Rhodesia to the Mozambique port of Beira.

Zambia imports more than 700,000 tons of coal annually from Rhodesia.

Western Cities Warned Of Air Pollution Danger

Cincinnati (AP) — The Taft Sanitary Engineering Center Sunday issued an air pollution alert for a wide area of the Far West.

The center said that in the 36 hours beginning at 11 a.m. CST, stagnant air will exist in the area bounded by these cities:

Portland, Ore., Boise, Idaho; Malad City, Idaho; Evanston, Wyo.; Las Vegas, Nev.; Bishop, Calif.; Roseburg and Salem, Ore.; back to Portland.

The center said thus far, it has had no reports of extreme high pollution but added unless winds or rain occur, the condition probably will worsen.

Loser Calls Election Start For Negroes

Raleigh, N.C. (AP) — State Sen. Walter Jones scored a smashing victory in North Carolina's First District Democratic Congressional primary, but a Negro woman who was runner-up said Sunday she feels "this is the starting point for Negroes."

"From here, I think we will grow and have a big voice in future elections," said Mrs. Sarah E. Small, a 38-year-old Williamston housewife and civil rights worker.

Mrs. Small, the state's first Negro Congressional candidate in 64 years and a political newcomer, received 6,021 votes in the 15-county Democratic primary Saturday. There were five candidates.

Farmville

Jones, an office equipment dealer from Farmville, piled up 25,927 votes to win the nomination for the unexpired term of the late Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, who served in Congress 25 years. Bonner died early last month of cancer.

"I was surprised at the margin of victory," Jones said. "I not only had to compete against four candidates but also Santa Claus since many people were busy Christmas shopping."

He carried every county in the district, piling up a large vote in his home county of Pitt. Only in Bertie county did Mrs. Small come close. She lost to Jones there by 25 votes.

The First District is a tobacco and peanut farming area of northwestern North Carolina and has a heavy concentration of negroes although many are not registered to vote. Four of the counties are predominantly non-white.

Negro civil rights leaders had appealed for a Negro bloc vote and Mrs. Small said she was pleased with her vote total "because Negroes don't bother too much with politics."

Jones said he would not resign as a state senator for the time being and would serve in a special legislative session which convenes in Raleigh Jan. 10.

HER

wedding was on Sunday

The marriage of Miss Elaine Hanthorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hanthorn of Indianola, to Jim Misner, son of Mrs. Helen Misner of Crete, and of Richard Misner, Omaha, was solemnized Sunday afternoon, Dec. 19, at Memorial Methodist Church in McCook. The double ring service was solemnized at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. Harold Mitchell.

Wearing Empire frocks of velvet and peau de soie in poinsettia pink were Miss Frances Kingery, Lincoln, as the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Sherrill Shadbolt, Gordon, and Miss Jo Misner, Crete.

Tom Harvey of Omaha, served Mr. Misner as best man, and the ushers were Charles Hoffman, Falls City; Dennis Cox, Superior; and Don Armstrong, Lincoln.

The bride's gown of white silk organza was patterned with satin petal appliques traced with seed pearls. The petal motif framed the off-shoulder decolletage of the basque, and beneath the sashed midriff, the skirt was caught into back fullness and continued into a chapel train. A pearl crown held her train-length veil of silk illusion, and she carried a single white orchid showered with pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis and satin petals.

The couple will live in Lincoln, where the bride is a senior at the University of Nebraska, a member of Sigma Kappa sorority, Delta Omicron music sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta and Pi Lambda Theta honoraries. A member of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Misner is a graduate of the university and a member of Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia, Mu Epsilon Nu, Gamma Lambda and Pi Kappa Lambda.

Sunday Weddings

Arrangements of white roses and evergreen boughs formed the background in the Methodist Church at Fullerton, Sunday, Dec. 19, for the wedding of Miss Janice Irene Whitney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitney, Fullerton, and Jerrold Arnold Hibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hibbs, Smithfield. The Rev. Thomas Rehorn read the lines of the 3 o'clock service.

Long-skirted frocks of emerald green velveteen were chosen for the attendants who were Mrs. Terry Grotelueschen of Scottsbluff, as her sister's matron of honor; Miss Patti Teel, Ft. Collins, Colo., the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Linda Whitney, Fullerton, also a sister of the bride; Miss Marsha Lester, Seward; and Miss Jeannette Nedrow, Davenport.

Serving as best man was Zale Quibie, Merriman, and the ushers were George Libal, Lexington; Roger Wolford, Kearney; Jerry Puls, McCook; and Galen Plihal, DeWitt.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of white peau de soie and imported Venise lace. A double frill of the lace edged the fitted elbow sleeves, and the sheath skirt of lace over silk was complemented by a panel train of silk. Her illusion veil was held by a pillbox cap of lace and silk, and she carried a modern arrangement of white roses and pine.

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbs will live in Lincoln, where both are seniors at the University of Nebraska. The bride is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and Mortar Board. Mr. Hibb's fraternity is Alpha Gamma Rho.

MICHENER-ZAGER

At a candlelight service solemnized Sunday evening, Dec. 19, Miss Linda Ann Michener of Lincoln, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Newcomer of Stromsburg, became the bride of Dennis Lamar Zager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Zager. The Rev. W. W. Koenig read the lines of the ceremony at Calvary Lutheran Church, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Dorothy Oberheu, organist, who also accompanied Miss Patty Wells, the vocal soloist.

Wearing Empire frocks fashioned with velveteen bodices and full-length skirts of peau de soie in Christmas red were Miss Judith Zager, sister of the bridegroom, who was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Lynee Schmidt. They carried rounded bouquets of pink rose petals.

Don Zager served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Gary Schmidt of Seward; Gary Zager, also a brother of the bridegroom; and Burdett Berck.

The bride's gown of white peau de soie was trimmed with Rosepoint lace. Lace-over-silk fashioned the snug bodice and continued into long, fitted sleeves, and the skirt of controlled fullness was completed by a detachable train of lace-paneled silk extending to cotillion length. A circlet of lace held her fingertip veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Zager will reside temporarily in Lincoln.

Help For Santa

Learning the joy — and the hard work — involved in being Santa's helpers have been a group of 2nd grade Brownie Scouts at Hartley School.

Earlier this fall, the youngsters staged a financially-successful bake sale and with the funds purchased 20 small dolls which they have been industriously clothing ever since. Stuffed animals will also make the trip to the State Hospital.

From the left are Cathy Schumaker, Carmen Gerstenschlager, LeAnne Royer, Corrie Lynn Butler and Debbie Ann Hegler. Leaders of the group are Mrs. Jerry Marshall, Mrs. Karl Gerstenschlager and Mrs. Leslie Campbell.

Serving as best man was Zale Quible, Merriman, and the ushers were George Libal, Lexington; Roger Wolford, Kearney; Jerry Puls, McCook; and Galen Plihal, DeWitt.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of white peau de soie and imported Venise lace. A double frill of the lace edged the fitted elbow sleeves, and the sheath skirt of lace over silk was complemented by a panel train of silk. Her illusion veil was held by a pillbox cap of lace and silk, and she carried a modern arrangement of white roses and pine.

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbs will live in Lincoln, where both are seniors at the University of Nebraska. The bride is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and Mortar Board. Mr. Hibb's fraternity is Alpha Gamma Rho

MICHENER-ZAGER

At a candlelight service solemnized Sunday evening, Dec. 19, Miss Linda Ann Michener of Lincoln, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Newcomer of Stromsburg, became the bride of Dennis Lamar Zager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Zager. The Rev. W. W. Koenig read the lines of the ceremony at Calvary Lutheran Church, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Dorothy Oberheu, organist, who also accompanied Miss Patty Wells, the vocal soloist.

Wearing Empire frocks fashioned with velveteen bodices and full-length skirts of peau de soie in Christmas red were Miss Judith Zager, sister of the bridegroom, who was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Lynee Schmidt. They carried rounded bouquets of pink rose petals.

Don Zager served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Gary Schmidt of Seward; Gary Zager, also a brother of the bridegroom; and Burdett Berck.

The bride's gown of white peau de soie was trimmed with Rosepoint lace. Lace-over-silk fashioned the snug bodice and continued into long, fitted sleeves, and the skirt of controlled fullness was completed by a detachable train of lace-paneled silk extending to cotillion length. A circlet of lace held her fingertip veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Zager will reside temporarily in Lincoln.

Help For Santa

Learning the joy — and the hard work — involved in being Santa's helpers have been a group of 2nd grade Brownie Scouts at Hartley School.

Earlier this fall, the youngsters staged a financially-successful bake sale and with the funds purchased 20 small dolls which they have been industriously clothing ever since. Stuffed animals will also make the trip to the State Hospital.

COED reveals betrothal

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Phifer of Mason City make announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Marlis Jean, to Lt. Lawrence E. Hammond, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hammond of Kearney.

A summer wedding is planned.

Miss Phifer is a senior at the University of Nebraska from where she will be graduated in January.

Lt. Hammond is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is a member of Farm House fraternity, of which he served as president, and of Alpha Zeta, an honorary. He now is in flight training at Laughlin Air Force Base, Del Rio, Tex.

Annual School Program

The annual Christmas program of the Brownell School will be presented for the members of the school's PTA on Tuesday afternoon beginning at 1:15 o'clock.

The program will include "The Christmas Story," to be given by the Rev. Albert Lapthorne.

AI, PEO, 12:30 o'clock dessert at the home of Mrs. E. G. Edwards, 2721 Bradfield.

THIS week the talk is about Christmas

This week everyone is talking about Christmas — with a dash of Orange—Next week everyone will be talking about the Orange Bowl — and Christmas will have gone where all nice Christmases go—for a year's rest.

* * *

And the Christmas guests still come—Saturday brought a sixsome from Grand Rapids, Mich. — and the sixsome included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clay — their daughter, Lynn — son Jim, and twin sons, Jodi and Jon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay will be the guests of Mrs. Clay's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Carveth, through Christmas, and then will go to Arkansas City, Kans., for a visit with Mr. Clay's family before returning to their home.

* * *

Arriving from Carlinville, Ill., the past weekend was Mrs. Ben James who will divide her stay in Lincoln between her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ben James, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Eiche.

* * *

There was a party on the weekend calendar, also — Last Saturday evening Dr. and Mrs. Richard Toren entertained the members of their bridge club at a Christmas party at their home. Following an evening of bridge a late supper will be served. And we hear that there is to be a guest couple at the affair — Dr. and Mrs. Harold Maude.

* * *

Apropos of Christmas parties — 'Christmas, Christmas' is the party theme for the Fifty Fifty Club members who will be dining and dancing on Tuesday evening at the Lincoln Country Club.

Arranging the party details is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Ketelsen, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McVicker, co-chairmen; Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Capek, Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James Clark and Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Lamphere.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Alexander will be party guests.

We Hear That

A holiday visitor in Lincoln is Lt. Bill Baragar, USMC, who returned home last Friday from more than a year's service in Viet Nam. Lt. Baragar will be the guest of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arnold Baragar, and also will visit with his brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Donald J. Pavelka and family in Omaha. Lt. Baragar will leave the first of the year for his new station at the El Toro Marine Base, Calif.

NEWS of the suburban areas

Visitors from far and near are the high spots in suburban news this morning. Some have come from a distance afar, while others have come or are coming from quite near, to spend the holiday season with relatives. With each arriving guest, the pile of packages under the tree gets a little higher, until the levels take on the resemblance of a stratified rock formation.

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Donahoo had as their weekend houseguests Mrs. Donahoo's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Wilmes, and their four daughters from Marysville, Mo.

But with the departure of the Missouri visitors Sunday, Lincoln is minus another suburban visitor, Herman Wilmes, who had been the guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donahoo, since Thanksgiving. Mr. Wilmes motored home to Marysville with his son and family.

SUNNYSIDE ACRES

Last Saturday the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Jansky was deserted as the family took a short motor trip to Omaha for some shopping and a little different scenery.

SOUTHBROOK SUMMIT

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Vosta will be Mrs. Vosta's mother Mrs. Harvey Lehr of Ashland. The pre-Christmas visitor will be in Lincoln until midweek.

HOLLYWOOD HEIGHTS

The guest book at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Grapes has been well-used recently. Thursday evening the Grapes' entertained Mr. and Mrs. Don Anfinson at dinner, and arriving today will be Mr. Grapes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Grapes of Big Springs. The western Nebraska visitors will be in the city for the weekend.

Saturday evening a trip to Omaha was planned for the foursome. In the city they visited Mrs. Grapes' mother, Mrs. Walter Sharp, and attended a movie.

LINCOLN HEIGHTS

One visitor in the Lincoln Heights community brings Christmas spirit to his family. Arriving home Thursday from Austin, Tex., where he is a freshman at the University of Texas, was Sheldon Otto. The young Mr. Otto will spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Otto, Jr., and his sister, Melissa.

Also spreading the joy of the holiday season from Columbia, Mo. to Lincoln are Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Paine. The Paines will be guests at the home of Mrs. Paine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Umberger. While in Nebraska the traveling two-some will take a trip to Grand Island after Christmas and then will be back in Lincoln for the first day of the new year.

Also entertaining company during the holidays are Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kitt and their family. The Kitts are expecting Mr. Kitt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Kitt of Wauneta.

Out of town guests seem to be in style across the Lincoln Heights suburban area. We also find this morning that Mr. and Mrs. John Fifer are entertaining relatives from out of state. Their daughter, Mrs. Warren Rockenbach, has arrived in the area from Fort Clark, N.D. to spend the holiday season in Lincoln. Also traveling from afar was Mr. and Mrs. Fifer's son, Earl Fifer of Tuscon, Ariz., who is a Yuletide visitor. There is also the news that the Fifers soon will be moving to another area in Lincoln.

Bride-Elect Honored

A series of recent bridal courtesies have honored bride-elect, Miss Sharon Kaye Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Martin, who has chosen a January date for her marriage to Willard J. Ernst of Vermillion, S.D.

A miscellaneous shower was presented to the former University of Nebraska coed on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 28, when Mrs. Virgil Thaller, Mrs. Harry Thaller, Mrs. Hilda Thaller and Mrs. Donald Sabin were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Virgil Thaller.

Also in courtesy to the soon-to-be bride was the party given by Miss Joyce Ilg, Miss Barbara Phillips, Miss Sue Steele and Miss Stephanie Beltz. The miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Miss Ilg.

Miss Martin also was honored at a personal shower recently for which Miss Joan Focht and Mrs. Edna Crom were co-hostesses at the home of Miss Focht. The guests included office coworkers of the bride-elect.

The marriage of Miss Martin and Mr. Ernst will be solemnized at a 7 o'clock evening service, Saturday, Jan. 8, at Christ Methodist Church. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ernst of Vermillion, Mr. Ernst is a former student at the University of South Dakota.

Senior Group

A meeting and program of the Retired Senior Citizens Club has been planned for Tuesday afternoon. The noon to 4 o'clock program will be held at the First Federal Bldg., 1235 N.

ABBY

he could ask salesman's advice

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why do most men prefer to buy their own clothes, no matter how poor their taste is, rather than let their wives go shopping with them? I know very few men whose wives couldn't dress them better than they dress themselves. Most men know nothing about style. They come out of the store with something just like what they went in with. You have to look close to see if they're wearing their new blue suit or their old one. You should write a whole column on how the well-dressed man should dress.

SICK OF SLOBS

DEAR SICK: I don't have to write a column on how men should dress. Any man who wants to be well-dressed needs only to walk into a first-class men's clothing store and ask one of the salesmen for guidance. Men who sell men's clothing are among the best-dressed men in the country. They make an honest effort to sell the customer what is right for him. And only if they fail, will they let him buy what he wants, regardless.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as it is very important to me. There is this real cute boy at school and I like him very much, but he doesn't like me. He likes another girl. She is real popular and I am not. This girl has a big mouth, terrible personality and she's a big showoff, but she's good-looking and that's why she's popular. This isn't just my opinion. Lots of kids agree with me. I am not cute, but I am not ugly, either. This boy is going to ask this girl to go steady. I told him he is making a big mistake and he said that was for HIM to decide. What can I do to get him?

LIKES HIM

DEAR LIKES: Nothing. No boy likes to be told whom to like, and any coaching from the sidelines will only make him more determined to make up his own mind. It's not possible to throw mud without getting some on yourself, so my advice to you is to concentrate on making yourself more "likable" and quit attempting to cut other girls down.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter who is seven years old and, Abby, she is about the slowest eater I have ever seen. It took her 45 minutes to eat a bowl of cereal this morning. She has always been a slow eater, and nothing can make her eat faster. I don't know if we should try to get her to eat faster or not. Can you advise me?

MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: Forth-five minutes is far too long to sit over a bowl of cereal. She's not "eating"—she's dawdling. These are the years children form their habits, so give her a certain amount of time (like 15 minutes) in which to eat her cereal, and then remove the bowl. Full or empty. She has trained you to accept her fiddling around. Change her tune, and train HER to get on with the business of eating at mealtime.

☆ ☆ ☆

FAMOUS HANDS

	NORTH ♠ J 3 ♥ A K 10 9 6 5 3 ♦ J 8 6 ♣ 10
WEST ♠ 6 2 ♥ 8 ♦ A 10 9 7 3 2 ♣ A K Q 5		EAST ♠ A 10 8 5 ♥ — ♦ K Q 5 4 ♣ 9 8 7 3 2
	SOUTH ♠ K Q 9 7 4 ♥ Q J 7 4 2 ♦ — ♣ J 6 4

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
5 ♦

Opening lead — king of hearts.

This remarkable hand occurred in the Masters Pairs played in England in 1963. It was difficult for West to realize, after East had passed, that a grand slam in diamonds was unbeatable, and in the only case where East-West bought the contract, West became declarer on the bidding shown.

West made seven, but despite having stopped at only five, East-West got the top score in their direction for being plus 440 points. This was because at all other tables North-South played in five or six hearts, either making the contract or going down one.

At one table the bidding followed this peculiar course:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	1 NT
4 ♦	4 ♥	5 ♦	5 ♥
Dble

The psychic notrump overcall proved to be very successful when South easily made five hearts doubled.

Normally this would have turned out to be a top score for North-South, but making five hearts doubled was excelled at another table by a different North-South pair who succeeded in making six.

This extraordinary result came about after the bidding had gone:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	3 ♥
4 ♥	5 ♦	5 ♠	6 ♥
Dble

West was an imaginative player who thought he might become declarer at six diamonds, which he felt he could make if he could somehow or other prevent a spade lead. Accordingly, he bid five spades over South's five diamonds.

Unfortunately, the bid boomeranged. East, a trusting soul, led the ace and another spade against six hearts doubled expecting his partner to ruff. West didn't, and North made six hearts.

When the hand was over, West said rather heatedly to East: "What in the world are you doing, partner? Trusting my bidding?"

MARRIAGE

Miss Beverly Jo Wilken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle E. Wilken, became the bride of William Roger Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garner Morgan of Cincinnati, Ohio, at an afternoon wedding, Sunday, Dec. 19. The ceremony was solemnized at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Pleasant Dale, by the Rev. Richard Hoffman.

As the matron of honor, Mrs. Steven Butts appeared in an Empire frock of velvet in the ruby red shade and carried white cyrysanthemums and feathered, peppermint carnations. Costumed identically were the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Arthur Vagts, Pleasant Dale, and Mrs. Richard Craiglow.

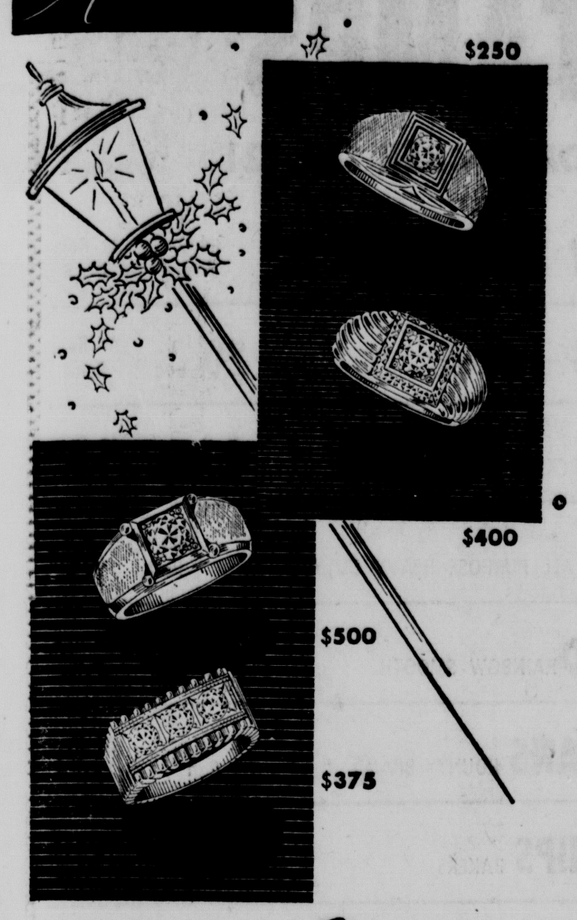

Serving his brother as best man was Larry Morgan of Cincinnati, and seating the guests were Merle E. Wilken, Jr., Emerald; and Paul Alexander.

The bride selected traditional white satin for her wedding gown. Floral appliques of jeweled Alencon lace bordered the rounding neckline of the bodice, and the lace motif was repeated in the trim of the bell skirt which continued into an aisle-wide train. A cap of jeweled petals held her shoulder-length veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Mr. Morgan and his bride will make their home in Lincoln.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as it is very important to me. There is this real cute boy at school and I like him very much, but he doesn't like me. He likes another girl. She is real popular and I am not. This girl has a big mouth, terrible personality and she's a big showoff, but she's good-looking and that's why she's popular. This isn't just my opinion. Lots of kids agree with me. I am not cute, but I am not ugly, either. This boy is going to ask this girl to go steady. I told him he is making a big mistake and he said that was for HIM to decide. What can I do to get him?

LIKES HIM

DEAR LIKES: Nothing. No boy likes to be told whom to like, and any coaching from the sidelines will only make him more determined to make up his own mind. It's not possible to throw mud without getting some on yourself, so my advice to you is to concentrate on making yourself more "likable" and quit attempting to cut other girls down.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter who is seven years old and, Abby, she is about the slowest eater I have ever seen. It took her 45 minutes to eat a bowl of cereal this morning. She has always been a slow eater, and nothing can make her eat faster. I don't know if we should try to get her to eat faster or not. Can you advise me?

MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: Forth-five minutes is far too long to sit over a bowl of cereal. She's not "eating"—she's dawdling. These are the years children form their habits, so give her a certain amount of time (like 15 minutes) in which to eat her cereal, and then remove the bowl. Full or empty. She has trained you to accept her fiddling around. Change her tune, and train HER to get on with the business of eating at mealtime.

☆ ☆ ☆

CONFIDENTIAL TO "C. M. IN CORONA, CALIF.": You will never win the boy's "love" by buying him presents. Just behave so that when people tell him he's just like his father, he'll stick out his chest instead of his tongue.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
5 ♦

Opening lead — king of hearts.

This remarkable hand occurred in the Masters Pairs played in England in 1963. It was difficult for West to realize, after East had passed, that a grand slam in diamonds was unbeatable, and in the only case where East-West bought the contract, West became declarer on the bidding shown.

West made seven, but despite having stopped at only five, East-West got the top score in their direction for being plus 440 points. This was because at all other tables North-South played in five or six hearts, either making the contract or going down one.

At one table the bidding followed this peculiar course:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	1 NT
4 ♦	4 ♥	5 ♦	5 ♥
Dble

The psychic notrump overcall proved to be very successful when South easily made five hearts doubled.

Normally this would have turned out to be a top score for North-South, but making five hearts doubled was excelled at another table by a different North-South pair who succeeded in making six.

This extraordinary result came about after the bidding had gone:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	3 ♥
4 ♥	5 ♦	5 ♠	6 ♥
Dble

West was an imaginative player who thought he might become declarer at six diamonds, which he felt he could make if he could somehow or other prevent a spade lead. Accordingly, he bid five spades over South's five diamonds.

Unfortunately, the bid boomeranged. East, a trusting soul, led the ace and another spade against six hearts doubled expecting his partner to ruff. West didn't, and North made six hearts.

When the hand was over, West said rather heatedly to East: "What in the world are you doing, partner? Trusting my bidding?"

MARRIAGE

Miss Beverly Jo Wilken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle E. Wilken, became the bride of William Roger Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garner Morgan of Cincinnati, Ohio, at an afternoon wedding, Sunday, Dec. 19. The ceremony was solemnized at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Pleasant Dale, by the Rev. Richard Hoffman.

As the matron of honor, Mrs. Steven Butts appeared in an Empire frock of velvet in the ruby red shade and carried white cyrysanthemums and feathered, peppermint carnations. Costumed identically were the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Arthur Vagts, Pleasant Dale, and Mrs. Richard Craiglow.

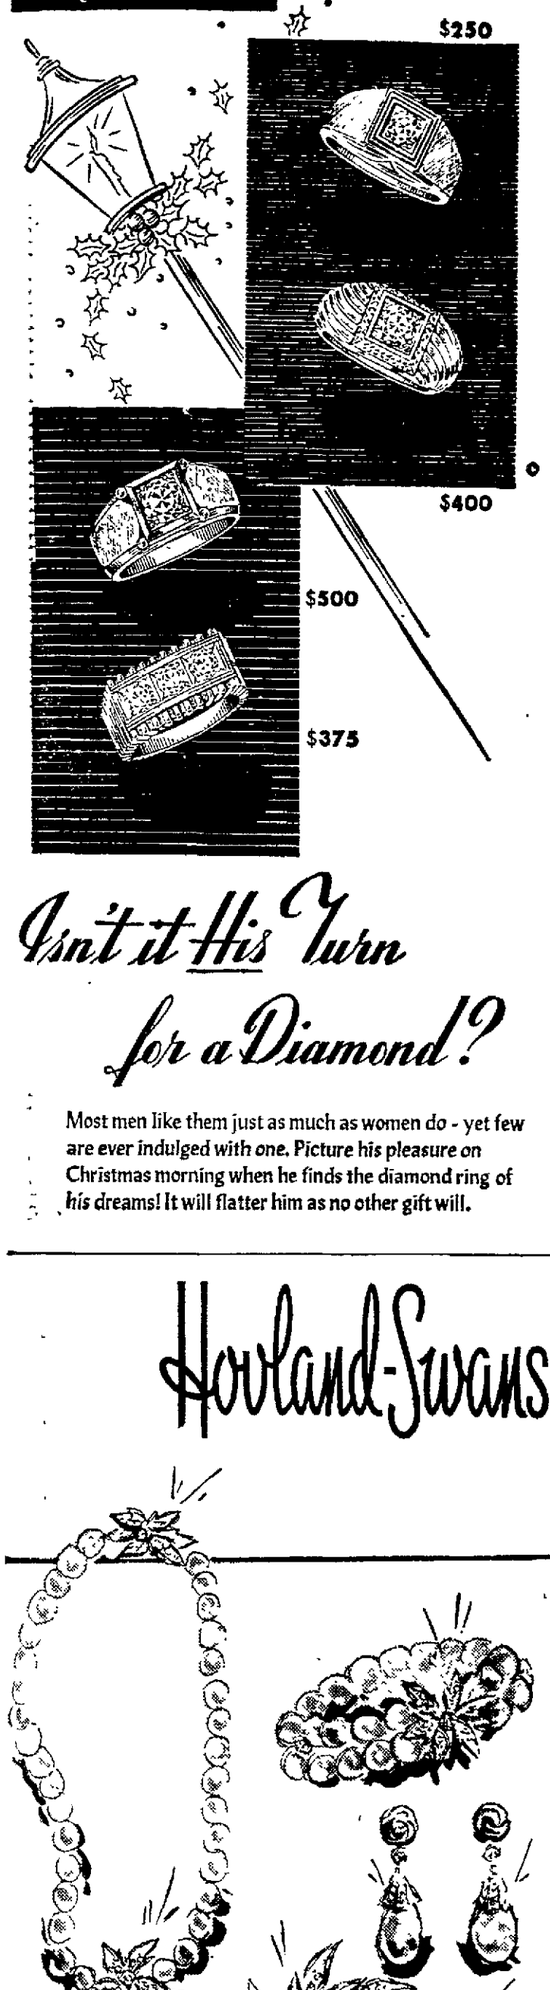

Serving his brother as best man was Larry Morgan of Cincinnati, and seating the guests were Merle E. Wilken, Jr., Emerald; and Paul Alexander.

The bride selected traditional white satin for her wedding gown. Floral appliques of jeweled Alencon lace bordered the rounding neckline of the bodice, and the lace motif was repeated in the trim of the bell skirt which continued into an aisle-wide train. A cap of jeweled petals held her shoulder-length veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Mr. Morgan and his bride will make their home in Lincoln

Dallas Gets 38-20 Win Over NY

New York (AP)—Don Meredith passed the Dallas Cowboys into a second-place Eastern Conference tie with New York and a trip to the Jan. 9 Playoff Bowl in Miami, Fla., with a 38-20 National Football League victory Sunday over the Giants.

Obert Logan, a free agent rookie pickup from Trinity of Texas raced 60 yards after Cornell Green blocked Jerry Allebrand's 42-yard field goal attempt for a key touchdown in the final period.

Meredith hit Bob Hayes, the former Olympic star rookie from Florida A&M with two touchdown passes and connected with the veteran Buddy Dial for one. J. D. Smith scored the fifth Dallas TD on a two yard plunge.

The Cowboys, who saw their lead narrowed to 24-20 early in the final period, smashed back with two scores to wrap up the Miami trip. Dallas gets the Playoff Bowl spot because it defeated the Giants twice although the two clubs finished in a tie.

Danny Villanueva's 25-yard field goal, followed by Meredith's 65-yard scoring pass to Hayes gave Dallas a 10-0 lead in the first period.

Although the Giants came back with three TD passes by Earl Morrall, one to Aaron Thomas and two to Bobby Crespino, they never could close the gap. In fact, Dallas had the ball on the Giants' four when the game ended.

It was 17-14 before when Green blocked Hillebrand's first field goal attempt of his pro career, and Logan ran it back 60 yards for the score. The Giants came back again closing the gap to 24-20 on Crespino's second TD catch, but Mike Gaechter blocked Andy Stynchula's attempted conversion.

San Diego Wins Final Tilt 24-14

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Lance Alworth struck like lightning on a 66-yard touchdown pass catch in the fourth quarter Sunday to push the San Diego Chargers by the Oakland Raiders 24-14 in an American Football League game.

Alworth grabbed a Don Breaux pass on the Oakland 44 and outraced Raider defenders to the end zone, snapping a 14-14 tie and giving the Western Division champions a record of 9-2-3. The season's concluding loss left the runner-up Raiders at 8-5-1.

The Chargers, who clinched the division title last week, meet the Buffalo Bills for the AFL title here Dec. 26.

The Chargers spotted Oakland 14 points before tying the game with two John Hadl to Don Norton scoring passes.

Norton made a game tying catch of a 10-yard aerial in the third period after putting San Diego on the scoreboard late in the first half with a 22-yard touchdown catch.

The Chargers' Bud Whitehead, with two enterceptions, and Chuck Allen, whose theft of a Tom Flores pass set up Alworth's touchdown, stopped Oakland drives in the fourth quarter. Whitehead's second interception set up a 15-yard field goal by Herb Travenio with 1:02 left to play.

A fake field goal formation from the 50 yard line helped Oakland score its first touchdown. Kicker Mike Mercer threw a 14-yard pass to Roger Haberg for a first down. Then Flores threw a four-yard TD strike to end Art Powell with 1:53 left in the first period.

Fine Money Donated By Denver Broncos

Kansas City, Mo. (AP) — The Denver Broncos voted Sunday to donate their fine money, some $1,500, to the family of Kansas City's Mack Lee Hill, who died Tuesday of complications of a knee injury. The money represents the amount various players were fined throughout the season.

The Broncos were beaten by Kansas City 45-35 in the closing American Football League game for both teams. The Chiefs dedicated the game to Hill.

Nebraska Cagers Face 'Stern Opposition' Tonight

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska's basketball team, boasting a 5-1 record, must be prepared for stern opposition tonight as the Huskers meet West Coast threat Stanford in the Coliseum at 7:30 p.m.

The Indians, with a 3-2 record, have among their wins a decisive victory over West Coast power San Francisco, while their two losses consist of a defeat at the hands of San Jose State and 73-65 loss to Kansas State Saturday night.

Stanford coach Howie Dallmar has had some problems since three starters were graduated from the 1964-65 team that completed the season with a 15-8 record and finished second in the Athletic Association of Western Universities (AAWU) behind national champion UCLA.

However, 6-6½, all-conference forward Bob Bedell, who averaged 16.2 points per game last year, and 6-9 center Ray Kosanke, with a 12.1 average last year, have returned as the bulwarks of the team.

Kosanke has been hampered by a bad back and his early play was somewhat limited. He is expected, however, to start tonight.

Two other returning lettermen will start at the other forward and guard positions. Jack Gilbert, a 6-7½ senior, will start at forward while Mike Preisler, the third guard last year, will be the playmaker.

The other guard position will probably be filled by 6-4 sophomore Arthur Harris. As a freshman, Harris broke the frosh scoring record and averaged 10 rebounds per game.

Cornhusker coach Joe Cipriano looks for Stanford's rebounding ability to be a problem. "Stanford is a very strong rebounding team," he said. "This could cause us a lot of trouble."

Further adding to Husker problems is the probability that starting center Willie Campbell will be unable to play.

"He (Campbell) hurt his ankle in the last two minutes of the California game," Cipriano explains. Sunday was the first time Campbell had a chance to test the ankle, and he remains very doubtful.

The Huskers were not very impressive in their 77-60 victory over South Dakota Saturday, and Cipriano feels there is much work to be done. "Our fast break needs work," says Cipriano, "and I am not pleased with the defensive play of some of the players."

South Dakota forced the Huskers to slow down, and the Nebraska press worked to little avail.

Cipriano is impressed, nonetheless, with some of the players. "(Fred) Hare has improved . . . and (Stuart) Lantz is doing well as are most of my sophomores."

Cipriano will probably start the same players that started Saturday night. They are: Frank Empkey, center; Lantz and Grant Simmons, guards; Tom Baack and Nate Branch, forwards.

The game tonight will be a "Family Night" when all children 12 or under accompanied by a paying adult will be admitted free. There will be no preliminary game.

Packers, 49ers Tie, 24-24; Minnesota Upsets Chicago

Sayers Scores Once In Loss . . . 24-17

Chicago (AP)—Brilliant rookie Gale Sayers established a National Football League touchdown-making record at 22, but it failed to stop the rallying Minnesota Vikings from upsetting the Chicago Bears 24-17 in the season finale for both Sunday.

The Vikings exploded for 21 points in the final quarter, moving ahead for the first time on Rip Hawkins' 35-yard touchdown run with a pass interception with 65 seconds left.

Only 21 seconds before, a 22-yard scoring pass from Fran Tarkenton to Gordon Smith pulled the Vikings into a 17-17 tie.

Minnesoa, closing wih a 7-7 NFL record, thus napped a five game winning streak by the Bears, who had won nine out of their 10 previous starts.

The Bears, who dropped their first three starts of the season, wound up with a 9-5 record.

Sayers plunged two yards for the second touchdown which gave the Bears a 14-3 lead at the start of the fourth quarter.

Sayers, who last week scored six touchdowns against the San Francisco 49ers and broke the former NFL season TD mark of 20, also wound up the year with a league scoring record of 132 points.

The flashy rookie from the University of Kansas, effectively checked by the Vikings in the first half, got rolling somewhat in the second half. He finished with 82 yards on 14 carries and returned three kickoffs 41, 26 and 14 yards.

But the Bears, who pulled an earlier game out of the fire at Minnesota 45-37, had the tables turned on them this time by the fast finishing Vikings.

It seemed the Bears wrapped up the game on Sayers' short touchdown smash, after he had carried six times for 43 yards in a 65-yard drive to put Chicago ahead 14-3 two minutes after the fourth period started.

But Tarkenton, who completed only seven of 20 passes the first three quarters, ignited a 79-yard drive for the first Minnesota touchdown. He connected on a 37-yarder to Paul Flatley and then fired a 17-yard scoring shot to Tom Hall, and the Vikings trailed 14-10.

With less than three minutes left, the Bears made it 17-10 on Roger Leclerc's 20-yard field goal.

Then came the closing Viking heroics.

With 1:26 left, Tarkenton moved the Vikings to the tying touchdown on his 22-yard shot to Smith after hitting Hall on a 41-yard toss.

Rudy Bukich's desperation pass then was snared by Hawkins on the Bear 35, and he ran across for the decisive touchdown.

NO GAIN . . . Packer halfback Paul Hornung (5) is held for no gain against the San Francisco 49ers. Blocking charging 49er is Fred Thurston (63).

GB, Baltimore Need Playoff . . . TO DECIDE TITLE

San Francisco (AP) — The scrappy San Francisco 49ers scored on a 27-yard pass from John Brodie to Vern Burke with one minute, seven seconds left Sunday to tie Green Bay 24-24 and force the Packers into a playoff with Baltimore for the National Football League Western Conference championship.

Green Bay and Baltimore collide next Sunday in the Conference showdown at Green Bay, Wis.

Each team had led twice during the hard hitting battle, and the Packers held a 24-17 lead with 1:48 left.

Kermit Alexander returned Don Chandler's kickoff from the five to the 29 and the Packers drew a 15-yard penalty for grabbing a face guard.

Starting from the San Francisco 44, Brodie passed to Dave Parks for 13 yards, to Gary Lewis for seven, Parks for nine and then the 27-yarder to Burke in the end zone. Tommy Davis booted the conversion that brought the deadlock.

The Packers finished the regulation season with a 10-3-1 record, the same as the Baltimore Colts, who beat Los Angeles 20-17 Saturday.

The winner of the game between the Packers and the Colts will battle the Cleveland Browns for the NFL championship Jan. 2.

San Francisco scored first on a 21-yard Davis field goal early in the second quarter. In four plays covering 72 yards, the Packers came right back for a touchdown, Bart Starr hitting Boyd Dowler with a 43-yard shot.

The Packers thought they had another touchdown late in the period when Willie Wood picked up a bouncing lateral pass and ran 85 yards. The officials ruled a defensive player must catch a lateral in the air or he cannot run with it. Coach Vince Lombardi objected strenuously to the decision.

In the third quarter, defensive back Herb Adderley boosted the margin when he intercepted a Brodie pass and ran 13 yards into the end zone.

Brodie, who before the game received the 49er Award as their most inspirational player, marshalled his forces from the 14-3 deficit. Twice in a row, San Francisco marched to score. Seven pass completions gained 82 yards, the last covering 32 with John David Crow scoring.

The 49ers then went 66 yards in nine plays, starting with a 28-yard gain by Ken Willard and ending with Parks diving catch of a 13-yard-touchdown throw.

After Davis' conversion, San Francisco led 17-14.

Green Bay came back with only its second sustained drive of the chilly, sunny afternoon. The Packers traveled 55 yards in 10 plays, compensating also for a 15-yard penalty against them, and Jim Taylor scored from the five.

Wood then intercepted a Brodie pass at the 50 and set up a 31-yard field goal by Chandler. It appeared the Packers had the division championship sewed up 24-17.

But Brodie needed only 41 seconds to burst the stitches and pull out a tie. It gave the 49ers a 7-6-1 season record, their best since they registered the same mark in 1961.

A crowd of 45,710, the largest in Kezar Stadium this season, cheered the rugged action. Although Taylor was reported suffering from a leg injury in midweek, he carried the Packer running attack.

Paul Hornung, who scored five touchdowns just a week ago against Baltimore, was thrown for two yards lost on three first quarter plays and saw no further service.

Unbeaten Squads Reduced . . . BRADLEY HEADS LIST

The list of unbeaten major teams in college basketball has been chopped to 17 after three weeks of the new season.

Bradley with an 8-0 record tops the perfect list after Saturday night's action. Close behind are Iowa, Syracuse and Temple each 7-0.

Bunched at 6-0 are Vanderbilt, Utah, Kentucky, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, DePaul, Dayton and Washington State. After that at 5-0 come Brigham Young, Providence and Colorado State University. Minnesota, Auburn and Wichita round out the list with 4-0 records.

The week's competition chopped 15 teams from the unbeaten ranks.

Kansas was knocked out by UCLA, South Carolina by NYU, Princeton by Rutgers, Alabama by Clemson, Florida by North Carolina, St. Louis by Bradley, North Texas by Hardin Simmons, Cincinnati by Southern California, Texas A&M by Houston, Oklahoma City by Southern Methodist, Western Kentucky by Vanderbilt, Penn State by Syracuse, Duquesne by Wake Forest, Columbia by Georgetown, D.C., and Austin Peay by Lamar Tech.

Once-beaten Duke, No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, got a scare before defeating the scrappy Virginia Cavaliers 75-72 at Charlottesville Saturday night. The Blue Devils had to come from behind several times in the second half before field goals by Jack Marin and Bob Riedy put them ahead for good at 65-64 with four minutes left.

The close shave sent up danger signals for the Blue Devils when they play the third-ranked Michigan Wolverines Tuesday night in Detroit. Michigan, also in the once-beaten class, did not play last week.

Big Clyde Lee, with 23 points and 22 rebounds, brought fifth-ranked Vanderbilt from behind in the second half to defeat Western Kentucky 72-69 and win the Vanderbilt Holiday Classic title.

Perhaps the outstanding individual performance Saturday night was turned in by Ron Widby, a 6-foot-4 Tennessee junior. Widby helped the Vols win the Gulf South Classic by defeating Centenary 49-43.

Widby scored 18 points and was named the most valuable player of the tourney. What made his performance unusual was the fact that he helped Tennessee beat Tulsa 27-6 in the Bluebonnet football bowl game at Houston in the afternoon, then flew to Shreveport for the basketball game.

Another standout performance by Freddie Lewis gave Arizona State an 84-81 victory over Seattle and the championship in the Sun Devil Classic. Lewis scored six points in the last 28 seconds.

Tom Flynn's two-handed set shot from 30 feet out with two seconds left gave Marquette a 75-74 victory over the Washington Huskies and the Milwaukee Classic title.

Kentucky won its own UK Invitational by defeating Indiana 91-56 behind the 28 point effort of Louie Dampier. Virginia Tech won its VPI Invitational by defeating Clemson 72-62. It was Tech's fifth straight victory after an opening game loss to Duke.

Little 5-10 Billy Oakes paced the second-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks to an 82-65 victory over Michigan State with 27 points. Henry Finkel's 31 points helped Dayton keep its slate clean with a 70-67 win over Canisius.

Fourth-ranked Kansas lost twice on the road. The Jayhawks lost to UCLA, No. 8 in the AP poll, 78-71 on Friday and then took it on the chin from Southern California 81-69. Unranked Cincinnati rebounded from its defeat Friday at the hands of the Trojans to whip UCLA, the national champions, 82-76. It broke the Bruins' 28-game winning streak at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The other teams in the AP Top Ten all won Saturday. Minnesota, No. 6, whipped Creighton 89-77; Providence, No. 7, took New Orleans Loyola 88-76; Bradley, No. 9, downed Murray State 78-64, and Wichita, No. 10, humbled Texas Tech 105-84 behind Melvin Reed's 30 points.

Dave Bing's 26 points sparked Syracuse over Connecticut 87-62. Auburn downed Georgia Tech 79-74, North Carolina whipped Florida 66-59, DePaul romped over St. Joseph's of New Mexico 96-74, Chicago Loyola crushed Tulsa 100-72, Princeton surprised Illinois 84-81, Utah defeated San Jose 86-57, Brigham Young beat Santa Clara 87-79, Colorado State U. conquered Montana State 82-68, Kansas State defeated Stanford 73-65 and Boston College took Notre Dame 93-89.

—MONDAY SLATE ALTERED—

Husker Sunday Drill Canceled

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Phoenix, Ariz. — Religion took precedence over football for the Nebraska Cornhuskers here Sunday in their preparation for Alabama in the Orange Bowl New Year's night.

Head Coach Bob Devaney earlier planned a workout but decided Sunday not to work out.

"We could have changed our plans and worked Sunday morning and Sunday night," he explained, "but we would have then have had to miss church and we didn't want to do that."

Sunday night's workout had been scheduled to make up for one of the two sessions rained out here, but the Huskers will now remain two behind schedule and maybe three shy when they leave for Lincoln Tuesday morning.

Devaney has altered the Monday schedule for a night workout to replace the afternoon one. They also will work Monday morning.

The Tuesday morning workout prior to leaving for Lincoln at 10:30 is on the schedule, but Devaney indicated Sunday night that the session might be eliminated.

"If we do work, it will be a tight squeeze to work it in and get out of Phoenix on time," Devaney said. This could cause trouble back in Lincoln because several of our players have flights to get home by Christmas. We don't want to take a chance on this."

However, Devaney said the decision would not be made on the Tuesday practice until after the Monday drill. "It depends on how we look in Monday's practice," he said Sunday. "If we can get in two good workouts Monday, we will probably skip the Tuesday session."

The Huskers continued to work Sunday with no injuries cropping up. The Husker offensive coaches continued to install plays to be used against the Crimson Tide New Year's night while the defense looked so good in Saturday's scrimmage it is preparing for what Alabama might do offensively.

The steak fry that was scheduled Sunday night at Mummy's Mountain was cancelled when temperatures dropped at sundown.

Devaney will be the main speaker Monday noon at a meeting of the Scottsdale Quarterback Club.

Ak-Sar-Ben To Add Feature Stakes For 66

Omaha — Ak-Sar-Ben has added another Stakes for Nebraska-bred Thoroughbreds which will be inaugurated during the 1966 meeting.

The race will be the $7,500 added Ak-Sar-Ben Breeders' Sprint Stakes for Nebraska-bred three-year-olds at six furlongs.

Details for this fifth Stakes for Nebraska-breds was worked out between Ak-Sar-Ben officials and officers of the Nebraska Thoroughbred Breeders Association.

WASHINGTON SIGNS 4TH DRAFT CHOICE

Washington (AP) — The Washington Redskins announced Sunday the signing of Bill Clay, defensive back from the University of Mississippi.

He was the Redskins' No. 4 draft choice and was selected fifth by Denver of the American Football League.

Browns Hit St. Louis By 27-24

St. Louis, Mo. (AP) — Linebacker Vince Costello's interception set up Frank Ryan's 24-yard scoring pass to Tom Hutchinson with 4½ minutes left and carried the Cleveland Browns to a 27-24 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in their National Football League regular season finale.

The Eastern Division champion Browns, playing without Jimmy Brown, who was ejected for fighting at the end of the first half, had lost a 17-0 lead to the heroics of St. Louis safety Larry Wilson.

Wilson intercepted three Ryan passes, returning one 95 yards for a touchdown and setting up two other scores that brought the Cardinals back to a 24-17 lead under the direction of third-string quarterback Terry Nofsinger.

The Cardinal defense gave them one last chance when it blocked a field goal attempt by Lou Groza and Pat Fisher picked up the ball at the 50 and raced to the Cleveland 24 with 1½ minutes left. But Jackie Smith dropped a pass in the end zone and Nofsinger was unable to connect a fourth down pass.

The Browns, who revenged an earlier 49-13 loss to the Cardinals, built their early lead on three interceptions of Buddy Humphrey passes. Larry Benz grabbed one, setting up the first of Lou Groza's two field goals, and Jim Houston nabbed two, putting Cleveland in position for Ryan's 13-yard toss to Gary Collins and Brown's three-yard scoring run.

Brown's touchdown gave him 21 for the season, but the ejection from the game ruined his chance to overtake Chicago's Gale Sayers, who won the scoring title with 22 scores. St. Louis defensive end Joe Robb also was ejected from the game.

Namath's TD Passes Top Bills

New York (AP)— Joe Namath's two touchdown passes to Don Maynard and a series of muffed conversion and field goal attempts by Buffalo brought the New York Jets a 14-12 victory over the Eastern Division champions Bills Sunday.

The triumph also clinched a second place finish in the American Football League's Eastern sector for the Jets, who finished the regular season with a 5-8-1 record. The Bills, who meet San Diego for the AFL title next Sunday, finished at 10-3-1.

Namath, the AFL's rookie of the year, missed on nine straight pass attempts at one stretch but hit consistently enough with Maynard, who grabbed an 18-yarder in the first quarter and a 36-yarder in the third.

The touchdown passes brought Namath's season total to 18-four caught by Maynard.

Namath's first touchdown pass gave the Jets a 7-0 lead, but the Bills immediately closed when Charlie Warner raced 87 yards for a touchdown with the ensuing kickoff.

On the conversion, the snap by center Dave Behrman to holder Daryle Lamonica was high, and Pete Gogolak was unable to attempt the kick. Lamonica tried to pass, but it was incomplete.

After Namath's second touchdown pass, the Bills came back to score on Lamonica's 11-yard touchdown toss to Warner. Lamonica then tried to run for a two-point conversion but was stopped short of the line.

Dallas Gets 38-20 Win Over NY

New York (AP)—Don Meredith passed the Dallas Cowboys into a second-place Eastern Conference tie with New York and a trip to the Jan. 9 Playoff Bowl in Miami, Fla., with a 38-20 National Football League victory Sunday over the Giants.

Obert Logan, a free agent rookie pickup from Trinity of Texas raced 60 yards after Cornell Green blocked Jerry Allebrand's 42-yard field goal attempt for a key touchdown in the final period.

Meredith hit Bob Hayes, the former Olympic star rookie from Florida A&M with two touchdown passes and connected with the veteran Buddy Dial for one. J. D. Smith scored the fifth Dallas TD on a two yard plunge.

The Cowboys, who saw their lead narrowed to 24-20 early in the final period, smashed back with two scores to wrap up the Miami trip. Dallas gets the Playoff Bowl spot because it defeated the Giants twice although the two clubs finished in a tie.

Danny Vaillanueva's 25-yard field goal, followed by Meredith's 65-yard scoring pass to Hayes gave Dallas a 10-0 lead in the first period.

Although the Giants came back with three TD passes by Earl Morrall, one to Aaron Thomas and two to Bobby Crespino, they never could close the gap. In fact, Dallas had the ball on the Giants' four when the game ended.

It was 17-14 before when Green blocked Hillebrand's first field goal attempt of his pro career, and Logan ran it back 60 yards for the score. The Giants came back again closing the gap to 24-20 on Crespino's second TD catch, but Mike Gaechter blocked Andy Stynchula's attempted conversion.

San Diego Wins Final Tilt 24-14

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Lance Alworth struck like lightning on a 66-yard touchdown pass catch in the fourth quarter Sunday to push the San Diego Chargers by the Oakland Raiders 24-14 in an American Football League game.

Alworth grabbed a Don Breaux pass on the Oakland 44 and outraced Raider defenders to the end zone, snapping a 14-14 tie and giving the Western Division champions a record of 9-2-3. The season's concluding loss left the runner-up Raiders at 8-5-1.

The Chargers, who clinched the division title last week, meet the Buffalo Bills for the AFL title here Dec. 26.

The Chargers spotted Oakland 14 points before tying the game with two John Hadl to Don Norton scoring passes.

Norton made a game tying catch of a 10-yard aerial in the third period after putting San Diego on the scoreboard late in the first half with a 22-yard touchdown catch.

The Chargers' Bud Whitehead, with two enterceptions, and Chuck Allen, whose theft of a Tom Flores pass set up Alworth's touchdown, stopped Oakland drives in the fourth quarter. Whitehead's second interception set up a 15-yard field goal by Herb Travenio with 1:02 left to play.

A fake field goal formation from the 50 yard line helped Oakland score its first touchdown. Kicker Mike Mercer threw a 14-yard pass to Roger Haberg for a first down. Then Flores threw a four-yard TD strike to end Art Powell with 1:53 left in the first period.

Fine Money Donated By Denver Broncos

Kansas City, Mo. (AP) — The Denver Broncos voted Sunday to donate their fine money, some $1,500, to the family of Kansas City's Mack Lee Hill, who died Tuesday of complications of a knee injury. The money represents the amount various players were fined throughout the season.

The Broncos were beaten by Kansas City 45-35 in the closing American Football League game for both teams. The Chiefs dedicated the game to Hill.

Nebraska Cagers Face 'Stern Opposition' Tonight

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska's basketball team, boasting a 5-1 record, must be prepared for stern opposition tonight as the Huskers meet West Coast threat Stanford in the Coliseum at 7:30 p.m.

The Indians, with a 3-2 record, have among their wins a decisive victory over West Coast power San Francisco, while their two losses consist of a defeat at the hands of San Jose State and 73-65 loss to Kansas State Saturday night.

Stanford coach Howie Dallmar has had some problems since three starters were graduated from the 1964-65 team that completed the season with a 15-8 record and finished second in the Athletic Association of Western Universities (AAWU) behind national champion UCLA.

However, 6-6½, all-conference forward Bob Bedell, who averaged 16.2 points per game last year, and 6-9 center Ray Kosanke, with a 12.1 average last year, have returned as the bulwarks of the team.

Kosanke has been hampered by a bad back and his early play was somewhat limited. He is expected, however, to start tonight.

Two other returning lettermen will start at the other forward and guard positions. Jack Gilbert, a 6-7½ senior, will start at forward while Mike Preisler, the third guard last year, will be the playmaker.

The other guard position will probably be filled by 6-4 sophomore Arthur Harris. As a freshman, Harris broke the frosh scoring record and averaged 10 rebounds per game.

Cornhusker coach Joe Cipriano looks for Stanford's rebounding ability to be a problem. "Stanford is a very strong rebounding team," he said. "This could cause us a lot of trouble."

Further adding to Husker problems is the probability that starting center Willie Campbell will be unable to play.

"He (Campbell) hurt his ankle in the last two minutes of the California game," Cipriano explains. Sunday was the first time Campbell had a chance to test the ankle, and he remains very doubtful.

The Huskers were not very impressive in their 77-60 victory over South Dakota Saturday, and Cipriano feels there is much work to be done. "Our fast break needs work," says Cipriano, "and I am not pleased with the defensive play of some of the players."

South Dakota forced the Huskers to slow down, and the Nebraska press worked to little avail.

Cipriano is impressed, nonetheless, with some of the players. "(Fred) Hare has improved .. and (Stuart) Lantz is doing well as are most of my sophomores."

Cipriano will probably start the same players that started Saturday night They are: Frank Empkey, center; Lantz and Grant Simmons, guards; Tom Baack and Nate Branch, forwards.

The game tonight will be a "Family Night" when all children 12 or under accompanied by a paying adult will be admitted free. There will be no preliminary game.

Packers, 49ers Tie, 24-24; Minnesota Upsets Chicago

Sayers Scores Once In Loss . . . 24-17

Chicago (AP)—Brilliant rookie Gale Sayers established a National Football League touchdown-making record at 22, but it failed to stop the rallying Minnesota Vikings from upsetting the Chicago Bears 24-17 in the season finale for both Sunday.

The Vikings exploded for 21 points in the final quarter, moving ahead for the first time on Rip Hawkins' 35-yard touchdown run with a pass interception with 65 seconds left.

Only 21 seconds before, a 22-yard scoring pass from Fran Tarkenton to Gordon Smith pulled the Vikings into a 17-17 tie.

Minnesoa, closing wih a 7-7 NFL record, thus napped a five game winning streak by the Bears, who had won nine out of their 10 previous starts.

The Bears, who dropped their first three starts of the season, wound up with a 9-5 record.

Sayers plunged two yards for the second touchdown which gave the Bears a 14-3 lead at the start of the fourth quarter.

Sayers, who last week scored six touchdowns against the San Francisco 49ers and broke the former NFL season TD mark of 20, also wound up the year with a league scoring record of 132 points.

The flashy rookie from the University of Kansas, effectively checked by the Vikings in the first half, got rolling somewhat in the second half. He finished with 82 yards on 14 carries and returned three kickoffs 41, 26 and 14 yards.

But the Bears, who pulled an earlier game out of the fire at Minnesota 45-37, had the tables turned on them this time by the fast finishing Vikings.

It seemed the Bears wrapped up the game on Sayers' short touchdown smash, after he had carried six times for 43 yards in a 65-yard drive to put Chicago ahead 14-3 two minutes after the fourth period started.

But Tarkenton, who completed only seven of 20 passes the first three quarters, ignited a 79-yard drive for the first Minnesota touchdown. He connected on a 37-yarder to Paul Flatley and then fired a 17-yard scoring shot to Tom Hall, and the Vikings trailed 14-10.

With less than three minutes left, the Bears made it 17-10 on Roger Leclerc's 20-yard field goal.

Then came the closing Viking heroics.

With 1:26 left, Tarkenton moved the Vikings to the tying touchdown on his 22-yard shot to Smith after hitting Hall on a 41-yard toss.

Rudy Bukich's desperation pass then was snared by Hawkins on the Bear 35, and he ran across for the decisive touchdown.

GB, Baltimore Need Playoff . . . TO DECIDE TITLE

San Francisco (AP) — The scrappy San Francisco 49ers scored on a 27-yard pass from John Brodie to Vern Burke with one minute, seven seconds left Sunday to tie Green Bay 24-24 and force the Packers into a playoff with Baltimore for the National Football League Western Conference championship.

Green Bay and Baltimore collide next Sunday in the Conference showdown at Green Bay, Wis.

Each team had led twice during the hard hitting battle, and the Packers held a 24-17 lead with 1:48 left.

Kermit Alexander returned Don Chandler's kickoff from the five to the 29 and the Packers drew a 15-yard penalty for grabbing a face guard.

Starting from the San Francisco 44, Brodie passed to Dave Parks for 13 yards, to Gary Lewis for seven, Parks for nine and then the 27-yarder to Burke in the end zone. Tommy Davis booted the conversion that brought the deadlock.

The Packers finished the regulation season with a 10-3-1 record, the same as the Baltimore Colts, who beat Los Angeles 20-17 Saturday.

The winner of the game between the Packers and the Colts will battle the Cleveland Browns for the NFL championship Jan. 2.

San Francisco scored first on a 21-yard Davis field goal early in the second quarter. In four plays covering 72 yards, the Packers came right back for a touchdown, Bart Starr hitting Boyd Dowler with a 43-yard shot.

The Packers thought they had another touchdown late in the period when Willie Wood picked up a bouncing lateral pass and ran 85 yards. The officials ruled a defensive player must catch a lateral in the air or he cannot run with it. Coach Vince Lombardi objected strenuously to the decision.

In the third quarter, defensive back Herb Adderley boosted the margin when he intercepted a Brodie pass and ran 13 yards into the end zone.

Brodie, who before the game received the 49er Award as their most inspirational player, marshalled his forces from the 14-3 deficit. Twice in a row, San Francisco marched to score. Seven pass completions gained 82 yards, the last covering 32 with John David Crow scoring.

The 49ers then went 66 yards in nine plays, starting with a 28-yard gain by Ken Willard and ending with Parks diving catch of a 13-yard-touchdown throw.

After Davis' conversion, San Francisco led 17-14.

Green Bay came back with only its second sustained drive of the chilly, sunny afternoon. The Packers traveled 55 yards in 10 plays, compensating also for a 15-yard penalty against them, and Jim Taylor scored from the five.

Wood then intercepted a Brodie pass at the 50 and set up a 31-yard field goal by Chandler. It appeared the Packers had the division championship sewed up 24-17.

But Brodie needed only 41 seconds to burst the stitches and pull out a tie. It gave the 49ers a 7-6-1 season record, their best since they registered the same mark in 1961.

A crowd of 45,710, the largest in Kezar Stadium this season, cheered the rugged action. Although Taylor was reported suffering from a leg injury in midweek, he carried the Packer running attack.

Paul Hornung, who scored five touchdowns just a week ago against Baltimore, was thrown for two yards lost on three first quarter plays and saw no further service.

Unbeaten Squads Reduced . . . BRADLEY HEADS LIST

The list of unbeaten major teams in college basketball has been chopped to 17 after three weeks of the new season.

Bradley with an 8-0 record tops the perfect list after Saturday night's action. Close behind are Iowa, Syracuse and Temple each 7-0.

Bunched at 6-0 are Vanderbilt, Utah, Kentucky, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, DePaul, Dayton and Washington State. After that at 5-0 come Brigham Young, Providence and Colorado State University. Minnesota, Auburn and Wichita round out the list with 4-0 records.

The week's competition chopped 15 teams from the unbeaten ranks.

Kansas was knocked out by UCLA, South Carolina by NYU, Princeton by Rutgers, Alabama by Clemson, Florida by North Carolina, St. Louis by Bradley, North Texas by Hardin Simmons, Cincinnati by Southern California, Texas A&M by Houston, Oklahoma City by Southern Methodist, Western Kentucky by Vanderbilt, Penn State by Syracuse, Duquesne by Wake Forest, Columbia by Georgetown, D.C., and Austin Peay by Lamar Tech.

Once-beaten Duke, No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, got a scare before defeating the scrappy Virginia Cavaliers 75-72 at Charlottesville Saturday night. The Blue Devils had to come from behind several times in the second half before field goals by Jack Marin and Bob Riedy put them ahead for good at 65-64 with four minutes left.

The close shave sent up danger signals for the Blue Devils when they play the third-ranked Michigan Wolverines Tuesday night in Detroit. Michigan, also in the once-beaten class, did not play last week.

Big Clyde Lee, with 23 points and 22 rebounds, brought fifth-ranked Vanderbilt from behind in the second half to defeat Western Kentucky 72-69 and win the Vanderbilt Holiday Classic title.

Perhaps the outstanding individual performance Saturday night was turned in by Ron Widby, a 6-foot-4 Tennessee junior. Widby helped the Vols win the Gulf South Classic by defeating Centenary 49-43.

Widby scored 18 points and was named the most valuable player of the tourney. What made his performance unusual was the fact that he helped Tennessee beat Tulsa 27-6 in the Bluebonnet football bowl game at Houston in the afternoon, then flew to Shreveport for the basketball game

Another standout performance by Freddie Lewis gave Arizona State an 84-81 victory over Seattle and the championship in the Sun Devil Classic. Lewis scored six points in the last 28 seconds.

Tom Flynn's two-handed set shot from 30 feet out with two seconds left gave Marquette a 75-74 victory over the Washington Huskies and the Milwaukee Classic title.

Kentucky won its own UK Invitational by defeating Indiana 91-56 behind the 28 point effort of Louie Dampier. Virginia Tech won its VPI Invitational by defeating Clemson 72-62. It was Tech's fifth straight victory after an opening game loss to Duke.

Little 5-10 Billy Oakes paced the second-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks to an 82-65 victory over Michigan State with 27 points. Henry Finkel's 31 points helped Dayton keep its slate clean with a 70-67 win over Canisius.

Fourth-ranked Kansas lost twice on the road. The Jayhawks lost to UCLA, No. 8 in the AP poll, 78-71 on Friday and then took it on the chin from Southern California 81-69. Unranked Cincinnati rebounded from its defeat Friday at the hands of the Trojans to whip UCLA, the national champions, 82-76. It broke the Bruins' 28-game winning streak at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The other teams in the AP Top Ten all won Saturday. Minnesota, No. 6, whipped Creighton 89-77; Providence, No. 7, took New Orleans Loyola 88-76; Bradley, No. 9, downed Murray State 78-64, and Wichita, No. 10, humbled Texas Tech 105-84 behind Melvin Reed's 30 points.

Dave Bing's 26 points sparked Syracuse over Connecticut 87-62. Auburn downed Georgia Tech 79-74, North Carolina whipped Florida 66-59, DePaul romped over St. Joseph's of New Mexico 96-74, Chicago Loyola crushed Tulsa 100-72, Princeton surprised Illinois 84-81, Utah defeated San Jose 86-57, Brigham Young beat Santa Clara 87-79, Colorado State U. conquered Montana State 82-68, Kansas State defeated Stanford 73-65 and Boston College took Notre Dame 93-89.

—MONDAY SLATE ALTERED—

Husker Sunday Drill Canceled

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Phoenix, Ariz. — Religion took precedence over football for the Nebraska Cornhuskers here Sunday in their preparation for Alabama in the Orange Bowl New Year's night.

Head Coach Bob Devaney earlier planned a workout but decided Sunday not to work out.

"We could have changed our plans and worked Sunday morning and Sunday night," he explained, "but we would have then have had to miss church and we didn't want to do that."

Sunday night's workout had been scheduled to make up for one of the two sessions rained out here, but the Huskers will now remain two behind schedule and maybe three shy when they leave for Lincoln Tuesday morning.

Devaney has altered the Monday schedule for a night workout to replace the afternoon one. They also will work Monday morning.

The Tuesday morning workout prior to leaving for Lincoln at 10:30 is on the schedule, but Devaney indicated Sunday night that the session might be eliminated.

"If we do work, it will be a tight squeeze to work it in and get out of Phoenix on time," Devaney said. This could cause trouble back in Lincoln because several of our players have flights to get home by Christmas. We don't want to take a chance on this."

However, Devaney said the decision would not be made on the Tuesday practice until after the Monday drill. "It depends on how we look in Monday's practice," he said Sunday. "If we can get in two good workouts Monday, we will probably skip the Tuesday session."

The Huskers continued to work Sunday with no injuries cropping up. The Husker offensive coaches continued to install plays to be used against the Crimson Tide New Year's night while the defense looked so good in Saturday's scrimmage it is preparing for what Alabama might do offensively.

The steak fry that was scheduled Sunday night at Mummy's Mountain was cancelled when temperatures dropped at sundown.

Devaney will be the main speaker Monday noon at a meeting of the Scottsdale Quarterback Club.

Ak-Sar-Ben To Add Feature Stakes For 66

Omaha — Ak-Sar-Ben has added another Stakes for Nebraska-bred Thoroughbreds which will be inaugurated during the 1966 meeting.

The race will be the $7,500 added Ak-Sar-Ben Breeders' Sprint Stakes for Nebraska-bred three-year-olds at six furlongs.

Details for this fifth Stakes for Nebraska-breds was worked out between Ak-Sar-Ben officials and officers of the Nebraska Thoroughbred Breeders Association.

WASHINGTON SIGNS 4TH DRAFT CHOICE

Washington (AP) — The Washington Redskins announced Sunday the signing of Bill Clay, defensive back from the University of Mississippi.

He was the Redskins' No. 4 draft choice and was selected fifth by Denver of the American Football League.

Browns Hit St. Louis By 27-24

St. Louis, Mo. (AP) — Linebacker Vince Costello's interception set up Frank Ryan's 24-yard scoring pass to Tom Hutchinson with 4½ minutes left and carried the Cleveland Browns to a 27-24 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in their National Football League regular season finale.

The Eastern Division champion Browns, playing without Jimmy Brown, who was ejected for fighting at the end of the first half, had lost a 17-0 lead to the heroics of St. Louis safety Larry Wilson.

Wilson intercepted three Ryan passes, returning one 95 yards for a touchdown and setting up two other scores that brought the Cardinals back to a 24-17 lead under the direction of third-string quarterback Terry Nofsinger.

The Cardinal defense gave them one last chance when it blocked a field goal attempt by Lou Groza and Pat Fisher picked up the ball at the 50 and raced to the Cleveland 24 with 1½ minutes left. But Jackie Smith dropped a pass in the end zone and Nofsinger was unable to connect a fourth down pass.

The Browns, who revenged an earlier 49-13 loss to the Cardinals, built their early lead on three interceptions of Buddy Humphrey passes. Larry Benz grabbed one, setting up the first of Lou Groza's two field goals, and Jim Houston nabbed two, putting Cleveland in position for Ryan's 13-yard toss to Gary Collins and Brown's three-yard scoring run.

Brown's touchdown gave him 21 for the season, but the ejection from the game ruined his chance to overtake Chicago's Gale Sayers, who won the scoring title with 22 scores. St. Louis defensive end Joe Robb also was ejected from the game.

Namath's TD Passes Top Bills

New York (AP)— Joe Namath's two touchdown passes to Don Maynard and a series of muffed conversion and field goal attempts by Buffalo brought the New York Jets a 14-12 victory over the Eastern Division champions Bills Sunday.

The triumph also clinched a second place finish in the American Football League's Eastern sector for the Jets, who finished the regular season with a 5-8-1 record. The Bills, who meet San Diego for the AFL title next Sunday, finished at 10-3-1.

Namath, the AFL's rookie of the year, missed on nine straight pass attempts at one stretch but hit consistently enough with Maynard, who grabbed an 18-yarder in the first quarter and a 36-yarder in the third.

The touchdown passes brought Namath's season total to 18-four caught by Maynard.

Namath's first touchdown pass gave the Jets a 7-0 lead, but the Bills immediately closed when Charlie Warner raced 87 yards for a touchdown with the ensuing kickoff.

On the conversion, the snap by center Dave Behrman to holder Daryle Lamonica was high, and Pete Gogolak was unable to attempt the kick. Lamonica tried to pass, but it was incomplete.

After Namath's second touchdown pass, the Bills came back to score on Lamonica's 11-yard touchdown toss to Warner. Lamonica then tried to run for a two-point conversion but was stopped short of the line.

Willie To Be OK By Spring

Salt Lake City, Utah (AP)—Willie Mays sat in a bathrobe in front of Herman Franks' fireplace and said his third collapse won't hurt his baseball playing.'

"Oh, yeah?" he said. "I'm fine."

What kind of shape will he be in by spring?

"Good shape. Don't you worry about him," said Franks, manager of the San Francisco Giants. "I guess he just blacked out from all the heat and the kids."

Mays, 34, highest-paid player in baseball with a $105,000 salary and the National League's Most Valuable Player, fell in a faint Saturday at an appearance promoting the Job Corps at a downtown theater.

"Some guy told me I was out 10 or 15 minutes," said Willie. He collapsed in 1962 while sitting in a dugout. Doctors said it was indigestion.

He fell to one knee at home plate in Candlestick Park in 1963 and said he was dizzy. He missed several games. Doctors blamed exhaustion.

They blamed exhaustion this time, too.

"When I saw him, Mr. Mays had collapsed," said Dr. Robert Dalyrmple.

"I think the thing was just exhaustion. He just got frightened in front of all those people. The old boy is going to be all right. I examined him carefully and there was no damage to his nerves or anything."

"He's been going every day on this Job Corps thing, in appearances back East and traveling all over the country," said Franks.

Mays' appearance in Salt Lake City was one stop on a nationwide tour promoting the Job Corps.

Does that mean the Job Corps will have to find another promoter?

"That's right," said Franks. He said he intended to keep Willie at his Salt Lake City home for an indefinite rest.

Rest seems to do wonders for Willie. As a rookie manager in 1965, Franks rested Mays periodically. Mays responded with 52 homers—tops in the majors—a .317 batting average and 112 runs batted in.

His collapse Saturday came moments before he was to go on stage.

Theater manager Max Watson said Mays looked dizzy as he started toward the stage. Backstage hands held him as he collapsed and sat him in a chair.

Somebody called a police ambulance. But Mays walked from the theater and rode to Franks' home in a police car.

Franks made him lie down and called Dr. Dalrymple.

"The doctor said I should get lots of rest," Willie said. "He gave me a couple of shots and some pills and said in a couple of days I should be back to feeling really good."

Los Angeles Hits Warriors 132-120

Los Angeles (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, improvising desperately to make up for two injured stars, ended their two-game losing streak by defeating the San Francisco Warriors, 132-120, Sunday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The Lakers played raggedly for three quarters and trailed going into the final period, 95-94.

Controlled Scrimmage For Hogs

Brownsville, Tex. (AP) — The Arkansas football squad went through a controlled scrimmage Sunday as the tempo picked up in training for the Cotton Bowl.

The defensive line, featuring tackle Loyd Phillips, got most of the praise, but Jim Brittenum, the quarterback, was sharp with his passing and running. He hit his target almost every time in throwing to Harry Jones, Bobby Crockett and Jim Lindsay.

Offensive end Richard Trail was in sweat clothes because of a slightly pulled thigh muscle and probably will be out of the hard work for a couple of days.

Alvin Jones, No. 2 fullback, nursed a bruised shoulder although he took part in some of the drills. Ernest Ruple, reserve offensive tackle, was on the doubtful list because of a pulled thigh muscle. He may miss the bowl game.

Coach Frank Broyles scheduled secret practice Monday morning.

Ricky Johnson Signs Pact With Cardinals

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals of the National League signed their 12th round draft choice and three free agents Sunday.

They are tackle Ricky Johnson of Clemson, the draft choice, and free agents fullback Larry Brown and tight end Gordon Brown, both of Oklahoma, and defensive back Wayne Paulson of Illinois.

Lions Carried To Victory By Rookie, Defensive Back

. . . EAGLES FALL, 35-28

Philadelphia (AP) — Tom Nowatzke, a rookie who had carried the ball 12 times in 13 times in 13 games, and Bob Felts, a defensive back pressed into service on offense, carried the Detroit Lions to a 35-28 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in the closing National Football League game for both teams.

Injuries forced Lions' Coach Harry Gilmer to turn to Nowatzke, a No. 1 draft choice last year from Indiana, and Felts, a first year back from Florida A&M.

Nowatzke scored twice, including the winning touchdown in the fourth period, while Felts helped open up the Eagles' defense with his running for quarterback Milt Plum's passing.

The Lions' final touchdown drive, a nine-play, 63-yard march, was capped by a 22-yard pass from Plum to Nowatzke. Wayne Walker, who missed with three field goal attempts, kicked his fifth conversion for the final 35-28 count. Felts and Nowatzke accounted for 29 yards between them on the ground in the drive.

Detroit, in scoring its sixth win, raced to a 14-0 lead in the first period as Plum passed 10 yards in the end zone to John Henderson after the first of two short punts by Eagles' Sam Baker gave them possession at the Philadelphia 41.

The Lions came back with a 12 play, 51 yard drive in which Nowatzke ran for 12 yards and caught two 11 yard passes and plunged for the final yard.

The half ended 21-14, however, as the Eagles sandwiched a pair of touchdowns around a Lions' score. Quarterback Norm Snead passed nine yards to Ollie Matson after the Eagles recovered a fumble at the Detroit 39.

The Lions retaliated on a 31-yard scorer from Plum to John Henderson, after which Philadelphia marched 63 yards with Tim Brown driving the last two.

Redskins Outplay Steelers

Washington (AP)— Washington buried Pittsburgh under its own mistakes Sunday, scoring two touchdowns on intercepted passes and a third on a fumble recovery in whipping the Steelers, 35-14.

The Redskin defense outscored the offense in rolling up the largest Washington point total of a 6-8 season.

Lonnie Sanders set up the first Washington touchdown with a pass interception, then Rickie Harris and Tommy Walters scored the next two after grabbing off Tommy Wade passes. Harris ran 34 yards and Walters went 63.

Bob Pellegrini scooped up a fumble in the final minute of the first half and rambled 31 yards for a touchdown.

In losing its 12th game against two victories, Pittsburgh moved the ball occasionally on the ground but had little luck in the air.

In the first half, Wade connected on five of nine passes for 114 yards but had three intercepted. He took his team 86 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter, running 41 yards for the longest gain of the drive.

A few minutes later, Wade hit Ballman, who made a fine run on a 44-yard scoring play.

Washington ground out a fifth touchdown in the third period, moving 26 yards in six plays after a 53-yard punt return by Harris. The score came on a four yard pass from Sonny Jurgensen to George Hughley.

Dick Shiner replaced Jurgensen at quarterback after this and the subs took over for Washington.

—SEARCH CONTINUES—

Head Vacancy Causes Trouble

Norman, Okla. (AP) — The University of Oklahoma, spurned by two head coaches in its search for a man to take over the chore of rebuilding the Sooner football fortunes, is turning to assistant coaching ranks.

Arkansas assistant Jim McKenzie and Oregon State aide Sam Boghosian are scheduled for interviews by the OU Athletic Council Monday morning, rounding out a list of assistants who have been recommended for considerations.

Boghosian also was interviewed two years ago before Gomer Jones was named to succeed Bud Wilkinson as head Oklahoma Coach. Jones, who served as an assistant to Wilkinson for 17 years, kicked open the doors to the head coach slot Dec. 6 by resigning following a 3-7 season, worst in modern OU history.

Jones has two years remaining on his contract as athletic director.

The university first offered the job of replacing Jones to Texas Coach Darrell Royal, colored by contract and fringe benefit offerings which reportedly totaled about $50,000. Royal turned down the offer to stay in Texas.

Vince Dooley, head coach at Georgia, was considered the next most likely choice, although OU withheld a definite offer, cautiously awaiting Dooley's announcement of availability.

Dooley said Saturday he wished to have his name withdrawn from consideration because of the financial terms and fan support he had received to stay with the Bulldogs.

"It looks to me as though this throws the field open in the top assistant coach bracket," said Dr. Mark Johnson, regents vice chairman and a member of the nine member screening committee set up to preview applicants.

Assistants who already have interviewed for the job include Chuck Harris of Southern Methodist; Tommy Steigleder of Iowa State; and two OU assistants, Bobby Drake Keith and Dick Heatly.

Dr. Harold Huneke, chairman of the athletic council, said Sunday, "We will decide on our next move after holding the interviews in the morning with Boghosian and MacKenzie.

"Probably, we will set a time to go over the applicants in detail and make further recommendations at that time," he said.

Clark Quits As Buckeye Line Coach

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Lyal Clark, veteran Ohio State defensive line coach, is stepping out of the post and Bill Mallory of the Yale football coaching staff will join the OSU staff.

Athletic Director Dick Larkins said Mallory, a former star end at Miami of Ohio in the mid-1950s, has been accepted for the job, subject to Ohio State Board of Trustees approval.

Clark, a native Nebraskan who played football at Western Maryland, is retiring after 35 years of coaching. He missed much of the past season with a bleeding ulcer and requested assignment to less strenuous duties in the physical education department.

Clark came to Ohio State with head Coach Wes Fesler from the University of Pittsburgh in 1947, went to Minnesota with Fesler in 1951 and joined Woody Hayes' staff here when Fesler quit the Gophers in 1954.

Mallory is a native of Sandusky, Ohio, coached a 9-0 team at East Palestine, Ohio, High School, and served as an end coach at Bowling Green University for five years.

Chiefs Win, 45-35, Over Broncos

Kansas City (AP)—Len Dawson's passing and Curtis McClinton's receiving carried the Kansas City Chiefs to a 45-35 victory over Denver Sunday in the final American Football League game for both clubs.

The Chiefs dedicated the game to fullback Mack Lee Hill, who died Tuesday of complications after a knee operation. Hill was honored in special ceremonies before the game.

Hill's rommate, McClinton, scored one touchdown on an 11-yard run and set up three other touchdowns with long pass plays, catching five for 213 yards.

Dawson hit 11 of 22 passes for 282 yards and two touchdowns, all in the first half, before turning the quarterback job over to Pete Beathard.

Kansas City finished third in the Western Division at 7-5-2, its best record since moving here from Dallas three years ago. Denver wound up last with 4-10.

Kansas City had a 21-0 lead before the Broncos got the ball for the second time in the game. The Chiefs drove 79 yards to score from the opening kickoff, Frank Jackson set up the second touchdown with a 41-yard punt return, and the Chiefs recovered an onside kickoff and moved 47 for another.

Tennessee Fullback Signs With Dolphins

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee fullback Stan Mitchell, a 6-1, 214-pounder from Sparta, Tenn., signed a bonus contract with the Miami Dolphins of the American Football League late Saturday night in Houston, Tex.

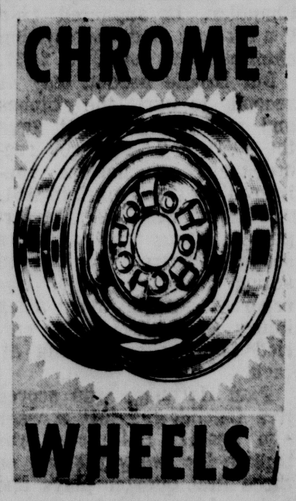

The contract reportedly included a bonus exceeding $15,000 and a one year salary of $25,000.

Willie To Be OK By Spring

Salt Lake City, Utah (AP)—Willie Mays sat in a bathrobe in front of Herman Franks' fireplace and said his third collapse won't hurt his baseball playing.'

"Oh, yeah?" he said. "I'm fine."

What kind of shape will he be in by spring?

"Good shape. Don't you worry about him," said Franks, manager of the San Francisco Giants. "I guess he just blacked out from all the heat and the kids."

Mays, 34, highest-paid player in baseball with a $105,000 salary and the National League's Most Valuable Player, fell in a faint Saturday at an appearance promoting the Job Corps at a downtown theater.

"Some guy told me I was out 10 or 15 minutes," said Willie. He collapsed in 1962 while sitting in a dugout. Doctors said it was indigestion.

He fell to one knee at home plate in Candlestick Park in 1963 and said he was dizzy. He missed several games. Doctors blamed exhaustion.

They blamed exhaustion this time, too.

"When I saw him, Mr. Mays had collapsed," said Dr. Robert Dalyrmple.

"I think the thing was just exhaustion. He just got frightened in front of all those people. The old boy is going to be all right. I examined him carefully and there was no damage to his nerves or anything."

"He's been going every day on this Job Corps thing, in appearances back East and traveling all over the country," said Franks.

Mays' appearance in Salt Lake City was one stop on a nationwide tour promoting the Job Corps.

Does that mean the Job Corps will have to find another promoter?

"That's right." said Franks. He said he intended to keep Willie at his Salt Lake City home for an indefinite rest.

Rest seems to do wonders for Willie. As a rookie manager in 1965, Franks rested Mays periodically. Mays responded with 52 homers—tops in the majors—a .317 batting average and 112 runs batted in.

His collapse Saturday came moments before he was to go on stage.

Theater manager Max Watson said Mays looked dizzy as he started toward the stage. Backstage hands held him as he collapsed and sat him in a chair.

Somebody called a police ambulance. But Mays walked from the theater and rode to Franks' home in a police car.

Franks made him lie down and called Dr. Dalrymple.

"The doctor said I should get lots of rest." Willie said. "He gave me a couple of shots and some pills and said in a couple of days I should be back to feeling really good."

Los Angeles Hits Warriors 132-120

Los Angeles (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, improvising desperately to make up for two injured stars, ended their two-game losing streak by defeating the San Francisco Warriors, 132-120, Sunday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The Lakers played raggedly for three quarters and trailed going into the final period, 95-94.

Head Vacancy Causes Trouble

Norman, Okla. (AP) — The University of Oklahoma, spurned by two head coaches in its search for a man to take over the chore of rebuilding the Sooner football fortunes, is turning to assistant coaching ranks.

Arkansas assistant Jim McKenzie and Oregon State aide Sam Boghosian are scheduled for interviews by the OU Athletic Council Monday morning, rounding out a list of assistants who have been recommended for considerations.

Boghosian also was interviewed two years ago before Gomer Jones was named to succeed Bud Wilkinson as head Oklahoma Coach. Jones, who served as an assistant to Wilkinson for 17 years, kicked open the doors to the head coach slot Dec. 6 by resigning following a 3-7 season, worst in modern OU history.

Jones has two years remaining on his contract as athleuc director.

The university first offered the job of replacing Jones to Texas Coach Darrell Royal, colored by contract and fringe benefit offerings which reportedly totaled about $50,000. Royal turned down the offer to stay in Texas.

Vince Dooley, head coach at Georgia, was considered the next most likely choice, although OU withheld a definite offer, cautiously awaiting Dooley's announcement of availability.

Dooley said Saturday he wished to have his name withdrawn from consideration because of the financial terms and fan support he had received to stay with the Bulldogs.

"It looks to me as though this throws the field open in the top assistant coach bracket," said Dr. Mark Johnson, regents vice chairman and a member of the nine member screening committee set up to preview applicants.

Assistants who already have interviewed for the job include Chuck Harris of Southern Methodist; Tommy Steigleder of Iowa State; and two OU assistants, Bobby Drake Keith and Dick Heatly.

Dr. Harold Huneke, chairman of the athletic council, said Sunday, "We will decide on our next move after holding the interviews in the morning with Boghosian and MacKenzie.

"Probably, we will set a time to go over the applicants in detail and make further recommendations at that time," he said.

Clark Quits As Buckeye Line Coach

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Lyal Clark, veteran Ohio State defensive line coach, is stepping out of the post and Bill Mallory of the Yale football coaching staff will join the OSU staff.

Athletic Director Dick Larkins said Mallory, a former star end at Miami of Ohio in the mid-1950s, has been accepted for the job, subject to Ohio State Board of Trustees approval.

Clark, a native Nebraskan who played football at Western Maryland, is retiring after 35 years of coaching. He missed much of the past season with a bleeding ulcer and requested assignment to less strenuous duties in the physical education department.

Clark came to Ohio State with head Coach Wes Fesler from the University of Pittsburgh in 1947, went to Minnesota with Fesler in 1951 and joined Woody Hayes' staff here when Fesler quit the Gophers in 1954.

Mallory is a native of Sandusky, Ohio, coached a 9-0 team at East Palestine, Ohio, High School, and served as an end coach at Bowling Green University for five years.

Chiefs Win, 45-35, Over Broncos

Kansas City (AP)—Len Dawson's passing and Curtis McClinton's receiving carried the Kansas City Chiefs to a 45-35 victory over Denver Sunday in the final American Football League game for both clubs.

The Chiefs dedicated the game to fullback Mack Lee Hill, who died Tuesday of complications after a knee operation. Hill was honored in special ceremonies before the game.

Hill's rommate, McClinton, scored one touchdown on an 11-yard run and set up three other touchdowns with long pass plays, catching five for 213 yards.

Dawson hit 11 of 22 passes for 282 yards and two touchdowns, all in the first half, before turning the quarterback job over to Pete Beathard.

Kansas City finished third in the Western Division at 7-5-2, its best record since moving here from Dallas three years ago. Denver wound up last with 4-10.

Kansas City had a 21-0 lead before the Broncos got the ball for the second time in the game. The Chiefs drove 79 yards to score from the opening kickoff, Frank Jackson set up the second touchdown with a 41-yard punt return, and the Chiefs recovered an onside kickoff and moved 47 for another.

Cookie Gilchrist started the Denver comeback with a 44-yard touchdown run

Ricky Johnson Signs Pact With Cardinals

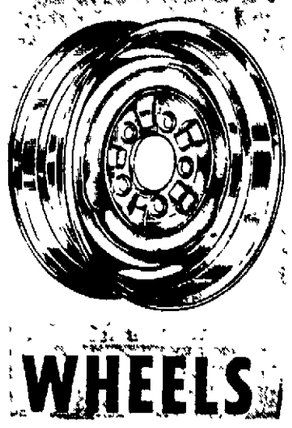

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals of the National League signed their 12th round draft choice and three free agents Sunday.

Tennessee Fullback Signs With Dolphins

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee fullback Stan Mitchell, a 6-1, 214-pounder from Sparta, Tenn., signed a bonus contract with the Miami Dolphins of the American Football League late Saturday night in Houston, Tex.

The contract reportedly included a bonus exceeding $15,000 and a one year salary of $25,000.

Controlled Scrimmage For Hogs

Brownsville, Tex. (AP) — The Arkansas football squad went through a controlled scrimmage Sunday as the tempo picked up in training for the Cotton Bowl.

The defensive line, featuring tackle Loyd Phillips, got most of the praise, but Jim Brittenum, the quarterback, was sharp with his passing and running. He hit his target almost every time in throwing to Harry Jones, Bobby Crockett and Jim Lindsay.

Offensive end Richard Trail was in sweat clothes because of a slightly pulled thigh muscle and probably will be out of the hard work for a couple of days.

Alvin Jones, No. 2 fullback, nursed a bruised shoulder although he took part in some of the drills. Ernest Ruple, reserve offensive tackle, was on the doubtful list because of a pulled thigh muscle. He may miss the bowl game.

Coach Frank Broyles scheduled secret practice Monday morning.

Lions Carried To Victory By Rookie, Defensive Back

. . . EAGLES FALL, 35-28

Philadelphia (AP) — Tom Nowatzke, a rookie who had carried the ball 12 times in 13 times in 13 games, and Bob Felts, a defensive back pressed into service on offense, carried the Detroit Lions to a 35-28 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in the closing National Football League game for both teams.

Injuries forced Lions' Coach Harry Gilmer to turn to Nowatzke, a No. 1 draft choice last year from Indiana, and Felts, a first year back from Florida A&M.

Nowatzke scored twice, including the winning touchdown in the fourth period, while Felts helped open up the Eagles' defense with his running for quarterback Milt Plum's passing.

The Lions' final touchdown drive, a nine-play, 63-yard march, was capped by a 22-yard pass from Plum to Nowatzke. Wayne Walker, who missed with three field goal attempts, kicked his fifth conversion for the final 35-28 count. Felts and Nowatzke accounted for 29 yards between them on the ground in the drive.

Detroit, in scoring its sixth win, raced to a 14-0 lead in the first period as Plum passed 10 yards in the end zone to John Henderson after the first of two short punts by Eagles' Sam Baker gave them possession at the Philadelphia 41.

The Lions came back with a 12 play, 51 yard drive in which Nowatzke ran for 12 yards and caught two 11 yard passes and plunged for the final yard.

The half ended 21-14, however, as the Eagles sandwiched a pair of touchdowns around a Lions' score. Quarterback Norm Snead passed nine yards to Ollie Matson after the Eagles recovered a fumble at the Detroit 39.

The Lions retaliated on a 31-yard scorer from Plum to John Henderson, after which Philadelphia marched 63 yards with Tim Brown driving the last two.

Redskins Outplay Steelers

Washington (AP)— Washington buried Pittsburgh under its own mistakes Sunday, scoring two touchdowns on intercepted passes and a third on a fumble recovery in whipping the Steelers, 35-14.

The Redskin defense outscored the offense in rolling up the largest Washington point total of a 6-8 season.

Lonnie Sanders set up the first Washington touchdown with a pass interception, then Rickie Harris and Tommy Walters scored the next two after grabbing off Tommy Wade passes. Harris ran 34 yards and Walters went 63.

Bob Pellegrini scooped up a fumble in the final minute of the first half and rambled 31 yards for a touchdown.

In losing its 12th game against two victories, Pittsburgh moved the ball occasionally on the ground but had little luck in the air.

In the first half, Wade connected on five of nine passes for 114 yards but had three intercepted. He took his team 86 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter, running 41 yards for the longest gain of the drive.

A few minutes later, Wade hit Ballman, who made a fine run on a 44-yard scoring play.

Washington ground out a fifth touchdown in the third period, moving 26 yards in six plays after a 53-yard punt return by Harris. The score came on a four yard pass from Sonny Jurgensen to George Hughley.

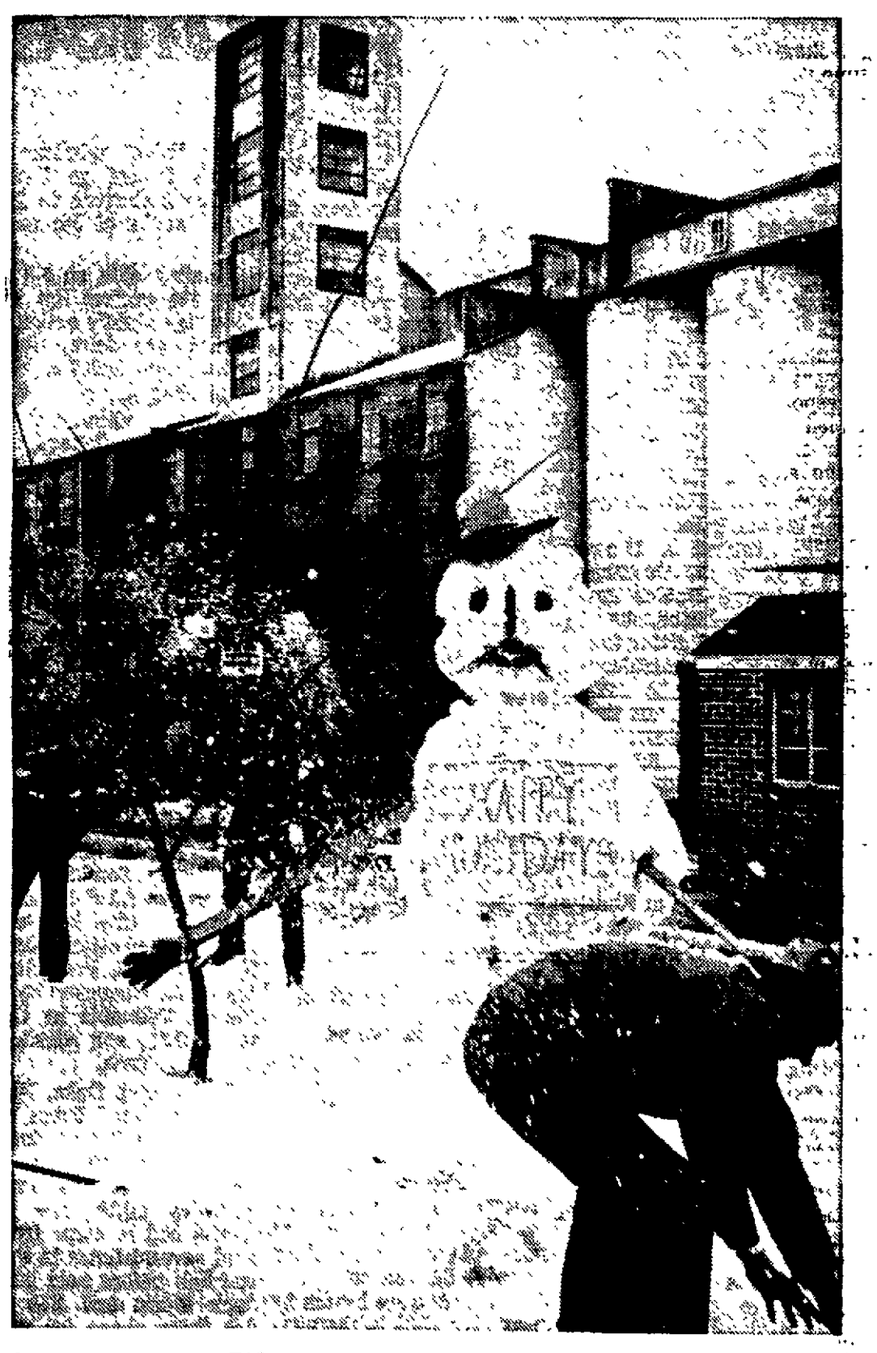

Dick Shiner replaced Jurgensen at quarterback after this and the subs took over for Washington.

Mansfield Reports On Senate Trip

Washington (AP) — President Johnson got a first hand report Sunday from Sen. Mike Mansfield on the Senate Democratic leader's 30,000-mile fact-finding trip and promised Mansfield's recommendations will be studied and pursued.

Johnson had lunch with the Montana senator at the White House, then reviewed with him for several hours the findings Mansfield and four fellow senators made during their world tour that covered both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said Mansfield summarized for Johnson the military and diplomatic conversations the senators had and presented a number of recommendations.

Our End Of Town

Moyers said Johnson promised the recommendations will be "thoroughly staffed out and pursued down at our end of town."

Moyers did not give any details of Mansfield's report but presumably it dealt largely with the situation in Viet Nam and with the views of various foreign leaders on the U.S. role and the prospects for peace negotiations.

Moyers said Johnson found Mansfield's report and analysis "instructive and very helpful."

Johnson asked the Senator to confer Monday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. And he asked Mansfield to thank the other senators who accompanied him on the trip.

Not Public

Before his private session with Johnson, Mansfield had said details of his report to the President will not be disclosed. But he and his colleagues plan a comprehensive public analysis of what they learned about foreign leaders' attitudes toward Viet Nam.

Mansfield said he and those who accompanied him already are working on a preliminary draft of a report to be printed as a Senate document, possibly early in January.

Asked if he believes that U.S. forces are only holding their own in Viet Nam, as suggested by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Mansfield replied: "We have blunted the Viet Cong offensive. I don't thing I should say more at this time."

Mansfield and Sens. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Daniel K. Inoyue, D-Hawaii, visited Viet Nam as a part of their world-circling trip.

The senators said in a statement after they returned to Washington late Saturday night that they brought back assurance the U.S. armed forces "are discharging their great responsibilities with a disciplined courage and dedication in one of the most difficult and exacting situations with which the United States has ever been confronted."

Mansfield declined comment on whether he believes there must be both a ground and air buildup. But the senators said they found no simple way to solution of the Viet Nam problem.

They said the conflict will have to be resolved at the negotiation table adding that "the longer a solution is delayed, the more extended the destructiveness of the conflict will become and the more difficult the restoration of a rational and durable peace."

EVERYBODY'S MOTION:

Analytical Elite Concerned About Future Of Economy

My Merryle S. Rukeyser

With pre-holiday gift buying of record breaking proportions and the domestic business boom already of unprecedented length, it may pe appropriate to inquire why everybody is not happy.

Rukeyser

Outside our borders, American sons are dying in South Viet Nam, and the whole wishful effort internationally to create restraint in this atomic age is deteriorating.

But, in pure economic terms, these external events are for the s hort term at least proving to be net stimulants to prosperity.

On the domestic scene, there is, nevertheless, concern among the elite of analytical persons over the impact of the epidemic of stimulants on sustainable prosperity and on the purchasing power of money.

In New York City, for example, there is talk of bankruptcy and a mess. Even the retiring mayor's plan, to borrow temporarily to pay for the deficits won't be firm unless the approval of the lower courts is reaffirmed in the Court of Appeals.

Revenue Sources

A tax study committee in New York City proposes additional sources of revenue, including a 2% city income tax on top of a state and federal income tax. The hazard is not only being overtaxed, but overburdened with record keeping and paper work. There will be only limited personal liberty until a tax revolution occurs and there is a retreat from the net income concept which makes government a partner in every private transaction. This results in endless disputes with tax auditors as to the propriety of deductions.

From this standpoint of reducing the holdings of citizens by tax collectors, other taxes, such as a gross income tax, an added value impost, a general manufacturers sales tax, and a variety of others would be less offensive. A major backward step was recently taken under the guise of tax reform when the Congreses in effect repealed the Cohan Rule set many years ago by the courts. Under this principle, a citizen could estimate expenses, and if they were reasonable for a person in his bracket they would be honored.

Local government is in crisis for a variety of reasons. First, the federal government has preempted the most productive modern sources of revenue, leaving municipalities and school districts primarily only the general property tax. As a result the communities clamor for more "federal aid" and "state aid." The correct procedure would be a compact under the constitution between the federal government and the states (including the subdivisions) whereby the principal taxes would be collected by a single agency, and hen be distributed in accordance with an agreed formula to various levels of government.

Promotes Crisis

Secondly, crisis is promoted by a single agency, and then by the tendency to expand relief and other social expenditures in hard times and to lack the self discipline to cut back during a boom. The late Lord Keynes, heterodox economist, promoted the idea of expanding government expenditures in depressed periods, and then contracting them during booms. But in practice politicians are ready to expand but are reluctant to contract.

Thirdly, inflation is cultivated by political demagoguery—by the illusion of political vote buyers that government can do everything better than private enterprise. Thus, New York City exhausted its limited capital credit to buy the subways and other forms of public transportation, even though private companies were willing to furnish the capital and render the service.

Fourthly, demagogues refuse to look at totalities. They shrink from taking clearly desirable cutbacks because they are fearful that retrenchment will hurt in some cases. In economics, there must pe priorities, and you pay a price either way. The guideline should be the greatest good to the greatest number.

Small wonder that Orlando F. Weber, industrialist, wisecracked: "Nowadays a liberal is a fellow who is liberal with other people's money."

The key to countering inflation inheres in a capacity for self discipline and for making hard decisions.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

$1,500 Stolen In Burglary Here

A burglar may have gotten about $1,500 in a house burglary sometime late Saturday or early Sunday, police said.

The burglary reportedly occurred at the home of Robert Amend, 49, of 303 F.

Amend told police the burglar removed the hasp from his back door to gain entrance. Once inside, Amend said, the burglar took the money which was stored in a metal box in a closet.

MAN SEES SLAYING OF WIFE, DAUGHTER

Salyton, Minn. (AP) — A 34-year-old mother of eight children and her mother were shot to death this morning in front of St. Ann's Roman Catholic church, as they were about to enter for 8 a.m. mass.

Shortly afterward, the recently divorced husband of the younger woman was arrested and charged with suspicion of murder.

Gunned down with shots in the chest as they clutched prayer books while several horrified members of the parish looked on were Mrs. Rosaline Gilles, 34, and her mother, Mrs. Peter Schreier, about 65. They were hit at close range by bullets from a small caliber pistol and died instantly.

Authorities held Everett Gilles, 35, who gave himself up.

Among those who watched helplessly was Peter Schreier, the father of Mrs. Gilles and husband of Mrs. Schreier. He had driven the women to church and was about to park his car to join them.

The shooting shattered the calm of this southwestern Minnesota farming town of 2,500 persons shortly after dawn and shrouded the pre-Christmas activity.

The eight Gilles children range in age from 15 to 4, and the four eldest ones were in the church at the time. They rushed outside and saw the bodies lying in blood 75 feet from the gray, stone church, then ran in crying confusion to the parish house.

Father Brian Willette of Pipestone, Minn., who was filling in Sunday for the regular pastor, Father Thomas McHugh, bent down and gave the last rites to the dying women.

Mrs. Roger Huyink, a nurse, had just got off a hospital shift and was on her way home when she came upon the tragedy. She tried to revive the women with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but could not.

Murray County Attorney Paul Fling declined to give background information on the shooting, saying, "A man has not been accused or tried and his personal life can't be discussed at this time, it being Sunday. By tomorrow we will know a lot."

The new term of district court begins Monday, and Fling said he would go before Judge Charles Flinn, who could call the grand jury into session. Under Minnesota law, no first degree murder charge can be brought until a grand jury has indicted.

The Gilles children are Diane 15, Linda 13, Jean 12, Edward 11, Theresa 10, Kathleen 7, Mary 6 and Dale 4. They were taken to the home of Vurne Beach, a brother of Mrs. Schreier.

60-Year-Old Woman Burns Self To Death

Los Angeles (AP)— Police say a 60-year-old woman took her own life Sunday by dousing herself with gasoline and setting it afire.

Officers said Mrs. Charlotte Warren bought a can of gasoline at a service station, walked to an unused station nearby, and took her life in a rest room there.

Sgt. Leo Despress of the Venice station said Mrs. Warren left a note indicating she planned suicide. The contents of the note were not immediately disclosed.

David Watson, who sold Mrs. Warren the gasoline, said he assumed she was a motorist whose car had stalled. He said he later heard a noise "like glass breaking" and saw flames spurting from the vacant station.

Mrs. Warren was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital. Firemen quickly controlled flames at the service station. The gasoline exploded with a force which sent glass from broken windows flying in a 50-foot radius, but no one else was injured.

The death scene is at the boundary between the west Los Angeles and Venice sections of the city.

Coeds Aroused By False Alarm

Macomb, Ill. (AP)— Six hundred coeds were aroused from sleep early Sunday and shooed from an eight-story dormitory at Western Illinois University because of a false bomb alarm.

Clifford Vanmeter, director of safety and security at the University said police received an anonymous telephone bomb report at 1:45 a.m.

Olson Hall, the women's residence, was cleared of coeds who were sent to the Corbin Hall cafeteria while officers searched for a bomb. The occupants were permitted to return to their room at 5 a.m.

Police Arrest Bandits

Homer, Ga., (UPI)—Police held two men and searched for two others in connection with the attempted holdup of a Good Samaritan California motorist.

Picasso Returns Home

Cannes, France (AP)— Painter Pablo Picasso has "completely recovered" from his Nov. 18 gall bladder operation, surgeon Jacques Hepp told newsmen. Picasso has returned to his home near here following a recuperation period in the Alps. The operation took place in the American hospital in Paris.

EVERYBODY'S MOTION:

Analytical Elite Concerned About Future Of Economy

My Merryle S. Rukeyser

With pre-holiday gift buying of record breaking proportions and the domestic business boom already of unprecedented length, it may pe appropriate to inquire why everybody is not happy.

Rukeyser

Outside our borders, American sons are dying in South Viet Nam, and the whole wishful effort internationally to create restraint in this atomic age is deteriorating.

But, in pure economic terms, these external events are for the s hort term at least proving to be net stimulants to prosperity.

On the domestic scene, there is, nevertheless, concern among the elite of analytical persons over the impact of the epidemic of stimulants on sustainable prosperity and on the purchasing power of money.

In New York City, for example, there is talk of bankruptcy and a mess. Even the retiring mayor's plan, to borrow temporarily to pay for the deficits won't be firm unless the approval of the lower courts is reaffirmed in the Court of Appeals.

Revenue Sources

A tax study committee in New York City proposes additional sources of revenue, including a 2% city income tax on top of a state and a federal income tax. The hazard is not only being overtaxed, but overburdened with record keeping and paper work. There will be only limited personal liberty until a tax revolution occurs and there is a retreat from the net income concept which makes government a partner in every private transaction. This results in endless disputes with tax auditors as to the propriety of deductions.

From this standpoint of reducing the holdings of citizens by tax collectors, other taxes, such as a gross income tax, an added value impost, a general manufacturers sales tax, and a variety of others would be less offensive. A major backward step was recently, taken under the guise of tax reform when the Congreses in effect repealed the Cohan Rule set many years ago by the courts. Under this principle, a citizen could estimate expenses, and if they were reasonable for a person in his bracket they would be honored.

Local government is in crisis for a variety of reasons. First, the federal government has preempted the most productive modern sources of revenue, leaving municipalities and school districts primarily only the general property tax. As a result the communities clamor for more "federal aid" and "state aid." The correct procedure would be a compact under the constitution between the federal government and the states (including the subdivisions) whereby the principal taxes would be collected by a single agency, and hen be distributed in accordance with an agreed formula to various levels of government.

Promotes Crisis

Secondly, crisis is promoted by a single agency, and then by the tendency to expand relief and other social expenditures in hard times and to lack the self discipline to cut back during a boom. The late Lord Keynes, heterodox economist, promoted the idea of expanding government expenditures in depressed periods, and then contracting them during booms. But in practice politicians are ready to expand but are reluctant to contract.

Thirdly, inflation is cultivated by political demagoguery—by the illusion of political vote buyers that government can do everything better than private enterprise. Thus, New York City exhausted its limited capital credit to buy the subways and other forms of public transportation, even though private companies were willing to furnish the capital and render the service.

Fourthly, demagogues refuse to look at totalities. They shrink from taking clearly desirable cutbacks because they are fearful that retrenchment will hurt in some cases. In economics, there must pe priorities, and you pay a price either way. The guideline should be the greatest good to the greatest number.

Small wonder that Orlando F. Weber, industrialist, wisecracked: "Nowadays a liberal is a fellow who is liberal with other people's money."

The key to countering inflation inheres in a capacity for self discipline and for making hard decisions.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

$1,500 Stolen In Burglary Here

A burglar may have gotten about $1,500 in a house burglary sometime late Saturday or early Sunday, police said.

The burglary reportedly occurred at the home of Robert Amend, 49, of 303 F.

Amend told police the burglar removed the hasp from his back door to gain entrance. Once inside, Amend said, the burglar took the money which was stored in a metal box in a closet.

MAN SEES SLAYING OF WIFE, DAUGHTER

Salyton, Minn. (AP) — A 34-year-old mother of eight children and her mother were shot to death this morning in front of St. Ann's Roman Catholic church, as they were about to enter for 8 a.m. mass.

Shortly afterward, the recently divorced husband of the younger woman was arrested and charged with suspicion of murder.

Gunned down with shots in the chest as they clutched prayer books while several horrified members of the parish looked on were Mrs. Rosaline Gilles, 34, and her mother, Mrs. Peter Schreier, about 65. They were hit at close range by bullets from a small caliber pistol and died instantly.

Authorities held Everett Gilles, 35, who gave himself up.

Among those who watched helplessly was Peter Schreier, the father of Mrs. Gilles and husband of Mrs. Schreier. He had driven the women to church and was about to park his car to join them.

The shooting shattered the calm of this southwestern Minnesota farming town of 2,500 persons shortly after dawn and shrouded the pre-Christmas activity.

The eight Gilles children range in age from 15 to 4, and the four eldest ones were in the church at the time. They rushed outside and saw the bodies lying in blood 75 feet from the gray, stone church, then ran in crying confusion to the parish house.

Father Brian Willette of Pipestone, Minn., who was filling in Sunday for the regular pastor, Father Thomas McHugh, bent down and gave the last rites to the dying women.

Mrs. Roger Huyink, a nurse, had just got off a hospital shift and was on her way home when she came upon the tragedy. She tried to revive the women with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but could not.

Murray County Attorney Paul Fling declined to give background information on the shooting, saying, "A man has not been accused or tried and his personal life can't be discussed at this time, it being Sunday. By tomorrow we will know a lot."

The new term of district court begins Monday, and Fling said he would go before Judge Charles Flinn, who could call the grand jury into session. Under Minnesota law, no first degree murder charge can be brought until a grand jury has indicted.

The Gilles children are Diane 15, Linda 13, Jean 12, Edward 11, Theresa 10, Kathleen 7, Mary 6 and Dale 4. They were taken to the home of Vurne Beach, a brother of Mrs. Schreier.

60-Year-Old Woman Burns Self To Death

Los Angeles (UPI)— Police say a 60-year-old woman took her own life Sunday by dousing herself with gasoline and setting it afire.

Officers said Mrs. Charlotte Warren bought a can of gasoline at a service station, walked to an unused station nearby, and took her life in a rest room there.

Sgt. Leo Despress of the Venice station said Mrs. Warren left a note indicating she planned suicide. The contents of the note were not immediately disclosed.

David Watson, who sold Mrs. Warren the gasoline, said he assumed she was a motorist whose car had stalled. He said he later heard a noise "like glass breaking" and saw flames spurting from the vacant station.

Mrs. Warren was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital. Firemen quickly controlled flames at the service station. The gasoline exploded with a force which sent glass from broken windows flying in a 50-foot radius, but no one else was injured.

The death scene is at the boundary between the west Los Angeles and Venice sections of the city.

Coeds Aroused By False Alarm

Macomb, Ill. (AP)— Six hundred coeds were aroused from sleep early Sunday and shooed from an eight-story dormitory at Western Illinois University because of a false bomb alarm.

Clifford Vanmeter, director of safety and security at the University said police received an anonymous telephone bomb report at 1:45 a.m.

Olson Hall, the women's residence, was cleared of coeds who were sent to the Corbin Hall cafeteria while officers searched for a bomb. The occupants were permitted to return to their room at 5 a.m.

Police Arrest Bandits

Homer, Ga., (UPI)—Police held two men and searched for two others in connection with the attempted holdup of a Good Samaritan California motorist.

Picasso Returns Home

Cannes, France (AP)— Painter Pablo Picasso has "completely recovered" from his Nov. 18 gall bladder operation, surgeon Jacques Hepp told newsmen. Picasso has returned to his home near here following a recuperation period in the Alps. The operation took place in the American hospital in Paris.

Humphrey Lauded At Truman Banquet

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told a banquet in his honor Sunday night that "victory will not be won by military power alone."

Humphrey's remarks were in response to presentation from former President Harry S. Truman of the second annual Truman Commendation Award sponsored by the state of Israel Bond Drive Committee. Truman picks the winner each year. Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay was the first recipient last year.

"The victory we seek will be won when children are educated, the hungry fed, the sick healed, the unemployed at work and the land gives forth its full bounty."

Mrs. Humphrey accompanied Humphrey.

Lauded

Truman lauded Humphrey for his "character, intelligence, energy and an inborn sense of public service."

"His was the hard road and he deliberately chose it," Truman said. "He threw in his political lot and future with the little fellow — the farmer, the worker and the everyday people who work for a livelihood."

"He never wavered from his original commitment," Truman said. "He had to overcome the natural hostilities of the people of privilege and much of the press — he fought the hard battle and he won, all on merit."

As he presented the award, the former president said, "Tonight I salute him as a man truly of the people and for the people. A man with a profound sense of public service — a man of probity, integrity, and, above all, a man of peace."

Partner

"This nation is all the richer for having him as a working partner of our dynamic president, Lyndon Johnson."

Humphrey accepted the scroll and responded, "I feel I should be gving it to you rather than the other way around."

The vice president praised Truman as a man and as a chief executive.

"You ended World War II and brought peace to a weary and shattered world," Humphrey said. "You transformed President Franklin Roosevelt's vision of a United Nations into reality — you watched and saw through to sensational success the marshall plan of aid to the war-torn nations of Europe."

"In the best American tradition, you aided friend and former foe alike," he added.

Humphrey then geared his speech to Israel and world problems.

Pope Paul Plans 2 Christmas Day Masses In Rome

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Paul VI will say a mass on the morning of Christmas Day at the parish church of a suburban section of Rome, the Vatican announced.

The pontiff will celebrate the mass at 8 a.m. in the Santa Felicita church in the Fidene Quarter, on the Via Salaria.

He will celebrate a second mass at 11:30 a.m. in St. Peter's Square, if weather permits. If the weather is bad the pontiff will say the mass in St. Peter's Basilica.

Plane Blacks Out Power In Michigan

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP) — A light plane cut a high voltage line in half on its landing Sunday, shutting off electrical power to thousands of homes.

Homes in several small west Michigan communities were blacked out for nearly an hour in the late afternoon.

The plane, described by witnesses as red and white and believed a Cessna landed without mishap at the South Kent airport after its tail section sheared a Consumers Power Co. transmission line in half, the Kent County sheriff's office said.

A sheriff's office spokesman said the plane was not to be found afterwards. Witnesses said they saw the pilot leave the craft.

South Kent airport is a small landing strip south of Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids was not affected by the power blackout. However, towns in Kent County and southern Ottawa and Northern Allegan counties were without power from 3:24 p.m. (CST) to 4:10 p.m.

2 Criminals Flee From Aussie Jail

Melbourne, Australia (UPI) —Two dangerous criminals used a prison chaplain as a hostage during a jailbreak here Sunday, then coldly gunned down an unarmed guard who tried to stop them.

Authorities said convicts Peter Walker, 24, and Ronald Ryan, 40, escaped from outside the Pentridge Jail in a commandeered car after killing warder George Hodson.

Police spread a wide dragnet for the jailbreakers.

Police said Walker and Ryan used a home-made grappling iron and a rope of knotted prison blankets to scale the wall of the maximum security unit. They broke into a guard post, threatened Hodson with an iron bar, then seized a carbine from a rack.

The two bandits used Hodson as a hostage to get them to the gate. Outside they changed hostages, releasing Hodson and seizing prison chaplain Brig. James Hewitt, who had been distributing Christmas parcels to prisoners.

Walker and Ryan marched Hewitt along the road for 50 yards before clubbing him to the ground with a rifle butt. They commandeered a car, forced the occupant into the road, and were about to drive off when Hodson made a dive for them.

Hodson was shot down at a range of about 12 feet.

He died minutes later in the roadway of wounds in his chest and back.

Dozens of motorists on the busy road past the jail saw the killing.

Authorities said Hudson, 41, was an immigrant from England who had worked at the prison for about eight years.

Christmas Tree Leads Patrolmen On Merry Chase

New Haven, Conn. (AP)— A Christmas tree led Patrolmen Lester Overlock and Walter Conner a merry chase around New Haven Saturday.

The policemen finally caught the car the tree was riding in, and they charged the driver, Archie Basham, 24, of New Haven, with three counts of ignoring stop signs, five counts of ignoring stop lights, two counts of speeding, one of ignoring a yield sign, and one of going the wrong way on a one-way street.

The Christmas tree?

It was last seen flying out the window of the car halfway through the chase.

Humphrey Lauded At Truman Banquet

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told a banquet in his honor Sunday night that "victory" will not be won by military power alone."

Humphrey's remarks were in response to presentation from former President Harry S. Truman of the second annual Truman Commendation Award sponsored by the state of Israel Bond Drive Committee. Truman picks the winner each year. Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay was the first recipient last year.

"The victory we seek will be won when children are educated, the hungry fed, the sick healed, the unemployed at work and the land gives forth its full bounty."

Mrs. Humphrey accompanied Humphrey.

Lauded

Truman lauded Humphrey for his "character, intelligence, energy and an inborn sense of public service."

"His was the hard road and he deliberately chose it," Truman said. "He threw in his political lot and future with the little fellow — the farmer, the worker and the everyday people who work for a livelihood."

"He never wavered from his original commitment," Truman said. "He had to overcome the natural hostilities of the people of privilege and much of the press — he fought the hard battle and he won, all on merit."

As he presented the award, the former president said, "Tonight I salute him as a man truly of the people and for the people. A man with a profound sense of public service — a man of probity, integrity, and, above all, a man of peace."

Partner

"This nation is all the richer for having him as a working partner of our dynamic president, Lyndon Johnson."

Humphrey accepted the scroll and responded, "I feel I should be gving it to you rather than the other way around."

The vice president praised Truman as a man and as a chief executive.

"You ended World War II and brought peace to a weary and shattered world," Humphrey said. "You transformed President Franklin Roosevelt's vision of a United Nations into reality — you watched and saw through to sensational success the marshall plan of aid to the war-torn nations of Europe."

"In the best American tradition, you aided friend and former foe alike," he added.

Humphrey then geared his speech to Israel and world problems.

Pope Paul Plans 2 Christmas Day Masses In Rome

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Paul VI will say a mass on the morning of Christmas Day at the parish church of a suburban section of Rome, the Vatican announced.

The pontiff will celebrate the mass at 8 a.m. in the Santa Felicita church in the Fidene Quarter, on the Via Salaria.

He will celebrate a second mass at 11:30 a.m. in St. Peter's Square, if weather permits. If the weather is bad the pontiff will say the mass in St. Peter's Basilica.

Plane Blacks Out Power In Michigan

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP) — A light plane cut a high voltage line in half on its landing Sunday, shutting off electrical power to thousands of homes.

Homes in several small west Michigan communities were blacked out for nearly an hour in the late afternoon.

The plane, described by witnesses as red and white and believed a Cessna landed without mishap at the South Kent airport after its tail section sheared a Consumers Power Co. transmission line in half, the Kent County sheriff's office said.

A sheriff's office spokesman said the plane was not to be found afterwards. Witnesses said they saw the pilot leave the craft.

South Kent airport is a small landing strip south of Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids was not affected by the power blackout. However, towns in Kent County and southern Ottawa and Northern Allegan counties were without power from 3:24 p.m. (CST) to 4:10 p.m.

2 Criminals Flee From Aussie Jail

Melbourne, Australia (UPI) —Two dangerous criminals used a prison chaplain as a hostage during a jailbreak here Sunday, then coldly gunned down an unarmed guard who tried to stop them.

Authorities said convicts Peter Walker, 24, and Ronald Ryan, 40, escaped from outside the Pentridge Jail in a commandeered car after killing warder George Hodson.

Police spread a wide dragnet for the jailbreakers.

Police said Walker and Ryan used a home-made grappling iron and a rope of knotted prison blankets to scale the wall of the maximum security unit. They broke into a guard post, threatened Hodson with an iron bar, then seized a carbine from a rack.

The two bandits used Hodson as a hostage to get them to the gate. Outside they changed hostages, releasing Hodson and seizing prison chaplain Brig. James Hewitt, who had been distributing Christmas parcels to prisoners.

Walker and Ryan marched Hewitt along the road for 50 yards before clubbing him to the ground with a rifle butt. They commandeered a car, forced the occupant into the road, and were about to drive off when Hodson made a dive for them.

Hodson was shot down at a range of about 12 feet.

He died minutes later in the roadway of wounds in his chest and back.

Dozens of motorists on the busy road past the jail saw the killing.

Authorities said Hudson, 41, was an immigrant from England who had worked at the prison for about eight years.

Christmas Tree Leads Patrolmen On Merry Chase

New Haven, Conn. (AP)— A Christmas tree led Patrolmen Lester Overlock and Walter Conner a merry chase around New Haven Saturday.

The policemen finally caught the car the tree was riding in, and they charged the driver, Archie Basham, 24, of New Haven, with three counts of ignoring stop signs, five counts of ignoring stop lights, two counts of speeding, one of ignoring a yield sign, and one of going the wrong way on a one-way street.

The Christmas tree?

It was last seen flying out the window of the car halfway through the chase.

South Vietnamese To Free Some Red War Prisoners

Saigon (AP)— The South Vietnamese government announced it will free some communist war prisoners and give them the choice of going north or staying in the south. It also said it has joined the United States in seeing that communist prisoners get humane treatment.

A Foreign Ministry communique did not specify the number of prisoners to be released to mark the coming new year. It said the decision was made out of "purely humanitarian considerations."

The government also said it had informed the International Red Cross that, conforming to its request, it is sending to the Red Cross representative in Saigon a list of names of between 400 and 600 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong prisoners. It said Red Cross officials are invited to visit and inspect prison camp conditions.

It responded to a request from the Red Cross last July to both the Vietnamese and the Americans for conditions that would meet the terms of the Geneva conventions.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, recently distributed throughout the armed forces the orders that all prisoners were to be taken into custody properly, protected from mistreatment, allowed to keep personal possessions other than military things, and delivered safely to a commanding officer.

In the heat and excitement of brutal battle, this had not always been the case.

U.S. sources disclosed that the Vietnamese commander have duplicated the orders to their units. Each soldier is given a card in the Vietnamese language spelling out the humane terms of the Geneva conventions.

"We heartily approve and welcome this step," a senior American official said.

Constructing Camps

The South Vietnamese are in the process of constructing five prison camps. The first is to be completed in a matter of weeks. Until now, prisoners were held in isolated and scattered spots and their treatment was of doubtful nature.

The basic procedure has been to keep North Viet Nam regulars in tow but to release Viet Cong to their villages under control in as great numbers as possible.

One of the dividends the Americans would hope to reap could be better treatment for those who are held now in communist North Viet Nam.

As one American put it:

"When something like this is done properly, there always is the hope that the other side will reciprocate."

Americans held in the north, mostly airmen — and the number is not being made public — have mostly been denied the right to send letters. The Red Cross also has been refused permission to make contact.

From all viewpoints, the South Viet Nam linkup with the Americans on the project, was termed by a U.S. spokesman as "an important gesture."

American Military Curfew Enforced In Saigon

Saigon (AP)—A bar girl stood at the door of a Saigon cafe at dusk Sunday and watched American military policemen patiently shooing U.S. servicemen back to their billets as a 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew went into force for the first time.

"I don't dare think about it or I would cry," she said in despair.

A bar girl with a knack for hustling drinks can earn twice the official salary of the premier of South Viet Nam. He gets 24,000 piasters (about $300) a month.

U.S. officials ordered the curfew for American military personnel as a safeguard against communist terrorism apparently planned for the Viet Cong's Fifth Anniversary and the Christmas season.

A Viet Cong bomb blast hit the Metropole Hotel, a U.S. billet, Dec. 4. Two allied servicemen were killed and 72 wounded.

By getting the GIs off the streets at night the military will be able to direct all its security efforts toward billets and compounds. Before a large part of the MPs were on street duty, breaking up fights and settling the inevitable quarrels between GIs and taxi drivers and bar owners.

After the curfew began the MPs found it unnecessary to put on tough pressure against the few remaining revelers. When they found a stray serviceman, they bundled him into a taxi and sent him off to his billet.

Most of the bars closed as the curfew went into force. Those patronized by American civilians and Frenchmen stayed open.

In one, a conspiracy was formed to protect the young American servicemen. The GIs were hustled off to a back room when the military police entered and the bar girls teased the MPs unmercifully when they failed to find the soldiers.

By and large the GIs went peacefully, if reluctantly. Many had stayed away anyway in view of the recent terrorist acts.

One MP, who looms 6 feet, 4 inches in spit shined paratrooper boots, was asked if he had had any trouble getting the servicemen off the streets.

"No," he drawled. "Everyone is pretty agreeable."

Rolling forward on the balls of his feet and hunching his massive shoulders, he added:

"They don't have much choice, do they."

Four Tots Die In Fire While Parents Shop

Galveston, Tex. (AP) — Four small children burned to death Sunday when flames swept through the upper floor of a two-story brick apartment building.

Police said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wyatt, had gone to a neighborhood grocery when the fire broke out.

The victims were one-year-old Terry Wyatt; Elmira Wyatt, 2; Gene Wyatt, 3; and Barbara Wyatt, 5.

Police officer N. C. Montgomery said the bodies of the four Negro tots were found huddled together in one corner of a room.

He said firemen tentatively blamed a gas heating stove with an open front for the fire.

Chadron College Gets $21,000 For Hail Study

Chadron (UPI) — Dr. F. Clark Elkins, president of Chadron State College, announced Sunday a grant of $21,200 has been awarded the school for the support of a hail research program.

The grant is from the National Science Foundation. It calls for the study of the characteristics of hail found in western Nebraska.

South Vietnamese To Free Some Red War Prisoners

Saigon (AP)— The South Vietnamese government announced it will free some communist war prisoners and give them the choice of going north or staying in the south. It also said it has joined the United States in seeing that communist prisoners get humane treatment.

A Foreign Ministry communique did not specify the number of prisoners to be released to mark the coming new year. It said the decision was made out of "purely humanitarian considerations."

The government also said it had informed the International Red Cross that, conforming to its request, it is sending to the Red Cross representative in Saigon a list of names of between 400 and 600 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong prisoners. It said Red Cross officials are invited to visit and inspect prison camp conditions.

It responded to a request from the Red Cross last July to both the Vietnamese and the Americans for conditions that would meet the terms of the Geneva conventions.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, recently distributed throughout the armed forces the orders that all prisoners were to be taken into custody properly, protected from mistreatment, allowed to keep personal possessions other than military things, and delivered safely to a commanding officer.

In the heat and excitement of brutal battle, this had not always been the case.

U.S. sources disclosed that the Vietnamese commander have duplicated the orders to their units. Each soldier is given a card in the Vietnamese language spelling out the humane terms of the Geneva conventions.

"We heartily approve and welcome this step," a senior American official said.

Constructing Camps

The South Vietnamese are in the process of constructing five prison camps. The first is to be completed in a matter of weeks. Until now, prisoners were held in isolated and scattered spots and their treatment was of doubtful nature.

The basic procedure has been to keep North Viet Nam regulars in tow but to release Viet Cong to their villages under control in as great numbers as possible.

One of the dividends the Americans would hope to reap could be better treatment for those who are held now in communist North Viet Nam.

As one American put it:

"When something like this is done properly, there always is the hope that the other side will reciprocate."

Americans held in the north, mostly airmen — and the number is not being made public — have mostly been denied the right to send letters. The Red Cross also has been refused permission to make contact.

From all viewpoints, the South Viet Nam linkup with the Americans on the project, was termed by a U.S. spokesman as "an important gesture."

American Military Curfew Enforced In Saigon

Saigon (AP)—A bar girl stood at the door of a Saigon cafe at dusk Sunday and watched American military policemen patiently shooing U.S. servicemen back to their billets as a 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew went into force for the first time.

"I don't dare think about it or I would cry," she said in despair.

A bar girl with a knack for hustling drinks can earn twice the official salary of the premier of South Viet Nam. He gets 24,000 piasters (about $300) a month.

U.S. officials ordered the curfew for American military personnel as a safeguard against communist terrorism apparently planned for the Viet Cong's Fifth Anniversary and the Christmas season.

A Viet Cong bomb blast hit the Metropole Hotel, a U.S. billet, Dec. 4. Two allied servicemen were killed and 72 wounded.

By getting the GIs off the streets at night the military will be able to direct all its security efforts toward billets and compounds. Before a large part of the MPs were on street duty, breaking up fights and settling the inevitable quarrels between GIs and taxi drivers and bar owners.

After the curfew began the MPs found it unnecessary to put on tough pressure against the few remaining revelers. When they found a stray serviceman, they bundled him into a taxi and sent him off to his billet.

Most of the bars closed as the curfew went into force. Those patronized by American civilians and Frenchmen stayed open.

In one, a conspiracy was formed to protect the young American servicemen. The GIs were hustled off to a back room when the military police entered and the bar girls teased the MPs unmercifully when they failed to find the soldiers.

By and large the GIs went peacefully, if reluctantly. Many had stayed away anyway in view of the recent terrorist acts.

One MP, who looms 6 feet, 4 inches in spit shined paratrooper boots, was asked if he had had any trouble getting the servicemen off the streets.

"No," he drawled. "Everyone is pretty agreeable."

Rolling forward on the balls of his feet and hunching his massive shoulders, he added:

"They don't have much choice, do they."

Honorary Initiates 12 NU Students

The students were chosen for membership on the basis of high scholarship, character, leadership, and personality. They have each been enrolled in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics for at least three semesters, and are in the upper 40 per cent of their classes.

Four Tots Die In Fire While Parents Shop

Galveston, Tex. (AP) — Four small children burned to death Sunday when flames swept through the upper floor of a two-story brick apartment building.

Police said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wyatt, had gone to a neighborhood grocery when the fire broke out.

The victims were one-year-old Terry Wyatt; Elmira Wyatt, 2; Gene Wyatt, 3; and Barbara Wyatt, 5.

Police officer N. C. Montgomery said the bodies of the four Negro tots were found huddled together in one corner of a room.

He said firemen tentatively blamed a gas heating stove with an open front for the fire.

Chadron College Gets $21,000 For Hail Study

Chadron (UPI) — Dr. F. Clark Elkins, president of Chadron State College, announced Sunday a grant of $21,200 has been awarded the school for the support of a hail research program.

The grant is from the National Science Foundation. It calls for the study of the characteristics of hail found in western Nebraska.

Gateway Realty
6211 "O" Street
Become an associate of a real estate firm that has over 10,000 people shopping directly across from it each day. Seeing is believing, give this one a drive-by & see for yourself. Notice how "Gateway Realty" appears in the eyes of many, many thousands of people shopping at Gateway Shopping Center each day. Also notice how the name "Gateway Realty" appears & stands out from the shopping center when viewed looking directly south from Wards. People who are buyers, buy for location; if you are going to have buyers, then have the best location. Already we have listed $293,000 of top notch listings. This is the confidence sellers have in a company with the right location. Our company has already sold $123,000 in residential sales alone.
This, again, the result of a company with the best location. Did you ever hear these words,
"Location, location, location ?"
To be successful, you have to work as a team member. Our team thus far consists of:
Les Dragoo
Doris Meyer
Ed Schmidt
Betty Stockland
Ray Gottner
We are members of Multiple Listing Service.
We have the Real Estate office of the future.
Others may follow with similar office facilities, but they can not match the location. If you are interested in your own private office, pleasant surroundings and top earnings, then see Ray Gottner for a personal & confidential interview.

Gateway Realty
6211 "O" Street
Become an associate of a real estate firm that has over 10,000 people shopping directly across from it each day. Seeing is believing, give this one a drive-by & see for yourself. Notice how "Gateway Realty" appears in the eyes of many, many thousands of people shopping at Gateway Shopping Center each day. Also notice how the name "Gateway Realty" appears & stands out from the shopping center when viewed looking directly south from Wards. People who are buyers, buy for location; if you are going to have buyers, then have the best location. Already we have listed $293,000 of top notch listings. This is the confidence sellers have in a company with the right location. Our company has already sold $123,000 in residential sales alone.
This, again, the result of a company with the best location. Did you ever hear these words,
"Location, location, location ?"
To be successful, you have to work as a team member. Our team thus far consists of:
Les Dragoo
Doris Meyer
Ed Schmidt
Betty Stockland
Ray Gottner
We are members of Multiple Listing Service.
We have the Real Estate office of the future.
Others may follow with similar office facilities, but they can not match the location. If you are interested in your own private office, pleasant surroundings and top earnings, then see Ray Gottner for a personal & confidential interview.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Every 18 minutes a ship arrives in Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

☆ ☆ ☆

Giant tortoises on the arid Galapagos Islands store water from the scant rainfall in neck sacs. Shipwrecked mariners have been saved from death by tapping the unusual water supply.

The Canadian mountain named for President John F. Kennedy is 13,905 feet above sea level.

Britain declines to grant independence to the self-governing colony of Rhodesia until voting rights are broadened to include most native Africans. They outnumber voters of European origin by two million to 200,000.

☆ ☆ ☆

Nearly 2,600 miles of interstate highways were completed during 1964.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 5 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
